REED REPLIES VIGOROUSLY TO JOHNSON ON TREATY

London Naval Pact Defended by Senator as Important Step Toward World Peace

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 19. (Exclusive)—Security against attack, economy in naval construction and fairly balanced fleets adequate for the national defense were held out by United States Senator Reed tonight as the chief virtues of the London naval treaty now before the Senate for ratification.

Senator Reed spoke over the National Broadcasting Company network. In a vigorous reply to Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who is leading the fight against ratification and who spoke in opposition to the treaty last night over another broadcasting chain, Senator Reed declared the Californian denounced, but did not describe, the treaty.

Ridiculing Senator Johnson's contention that the document is "unqualifiedly bad," Senator Reed pictured the treaty as conferring substantial benefits on the United States and as an important contribution to international friendship.

COMPETITION ENDED

Criticism of the treaty, he asserted, comes principally from the big navy groups of the United States, Great Britain and Japan. He reminded his radio audience that while Senator Johnson and other critics are denouncing the treaty in this country as a surrender on the part of American delegates, the same things are being said in London by Admiral Jellicoe, Lord Bridgeman and Winston Churchill, and in Tokio by Admiral Kato and his colleagues, in an effort to convince the people of England and Japan that their representatives surrendered to the United States.

Competition among the three leading naval powers of the world in every category of ship is ended by the treaty, Senator Reed declared.

"It gives all three countries a holiday from battleship building during the next seven years and saves the taxpayers of the United States an outlay of $400,000,000 on replacement of battleships alone," he said. "It allows the people of these three great nations to rest secured in the knowledge that no one of the three can be attacked in its home waters by any navy on earth. It makes it plain to all the world that none of the three countries is designing a war upon either of the others. It promotes to an important degree the international friendship that we all desire."

TREATY ANALYZED

Senator Reed devoted much of his speech to an analysis of the treaty dealing both with elimination issue and the current controversy over the size and armament of cruisers. He defended the distribution of cruisers as between 8-inch and 6-inch gun types, and argued that under most battle condition the latter would possess distinctive advantages over the 8-inch gun cruisers for which the big navy group has contended.

"After listening for weeks in this country to naval experts on both sides of the controversy, and after continued hearings in London with the advisers that accompanied us there," he said, "the delegation came unanimously to the conclusion that the provisions of the treaty

Suicide Blames Fortune Teller

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19. (AP)—Beside the body of William Foley, 40 years of age, a suicide, police today found a farewell note which explains his act and accuses Mrs. Mary McGraw, fortune teller, of robbing and jilting him.

By coincidence, Foley had taken poison in his Seventh-street hotel room a few hours before Mrs. McGraw's arrest on a charge of swindling Mrs. Ottilie Kerhule, recently from Germany, of more than $2400 in stocks and bonds under the guise of clairvoyance.

RIVER FIGHT INCREASES

Administration Stands Firm

Appropriations Chairman, Appeals to House to Vote $10,660,000 Fund

Arizona Again Launches Attack Against Contract With Los Angeles

BY LAWRENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 19. (Exclusive)—Representative Wood of Indiana, veteran chairman of appropriations, appealed to the House today to adopt the $10,660,000 initial outlay for Boulder Dam when it comes to a vote tomorrow or next day and allow the project to get under way without further obstruction in Congress.

His speech threw administration support fully behind the appropriation and is believed to have removed the last doubt about its approval as a part of the second deficiency bill.

Directing his remarks to enemies of the Colorado River development, Wood said:

"This matter was fought out here for months and the friends of the project finally won. I think it is time obstruction ceased and we permitted this great enterprise to go ahead. Congress has passed on the merits of the project; now let's provide the funds to get it started."

DOUGLAS MAKES ATTACK

Immediately following the chairman's talk, however, the youthful and effective Representative Douglas of Arizona launched into his attack on the Boulder Dam appropriations and developed, partially, his argument that the contracts entered into with the city of Los Angeles and the Metropolitan Water District are without binding effect and fail to protect the government.

Douglas will resume his fight tomorrow when, it was learned, he will present a point of order which has Republican leaders stumped. Representative Chingblom of Illinois, expert parliamentarian, who will be presiding when the matter comes to a head, has been working for a week on a decision and had not reached one tonight.

The point is highly technical and complicated, but in effect it holds that Secretary Wilbur had no authority to contract with the Los Angeles Water and Power Department and the Metropolitan Water District and ask for funds based on these contracts, until the people of the city and district have by two-thirds vote approved bond issues guaranteeing beyond doubt return of the government's investment.

PECULIAR MIX-UP

Douglas conceded that the contract with the Edison company is binding and that the government in this instance could sue and collect for nonperformance. But he believes the water department and district could "walk out" of the project and leave the government holding the bag.

Parliamentarians have not been able to find any direct precedent to guide them in the peculiar mix-up involved, but there is little likelihood they will be at a loss tomorrow for a way of overcoming a move which would make one man, sitting in the Speaker's chair, pass in one swoop on all the work done by the Interior Department, the Department of Justice and the House Appropriations Committee, in whipping the contract into acceptable shape.

If Douglas is ruled out on the point of order he will offer an amendment delaying the appropriation until bonds have been voted and in this he has a better chance—possibly a good chance—of succeeding. It will depend largely on the impression he is able to make in the forty minutes that will be allotted him to speak. Although only a two-termer, he is known already as one of the strongest men in debate in the House and he has every bit of information from the Arizona standpoint at the tip of his tongue. He is the only one in Congress who stands out as a really serious threat against the Boulder Dam appropriation.

CALIFORNIANS IN FRAY

Chairman Wood explained to the House how the contracts had been negotiated and how they satisfied Secretary Wilbur, the Department of Justice and the Appropriations Committee. Representatives Crail of Los Angeles, Evans of Glendale and Swing of El Centro outlined in

FARM LABOR SURVEY BILL SMOTHERED

Restrictionists Sit On it for Fear it Will Hold Up Immigration Measures

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 19. (Exclusive)—The McNary resolution for a nationality survey of the farm labor problem with especial reference to Mexican labor in California and the Southwest was pigeonholed for this session of Congress today when House leaders referred it to the Immigration Committee where Chairman Albert Johnson and other advocates of Mexican exclusion promptly sat down on it.

The measure passed the Senate and until the surprising action today members of the Federal Farm Board and others interested in its enactment were confident it would also be approved by the House.

Proponents of pending Mexican restriction bills fought the resolution strenuously, seeing in it a reason for Congress to delay action on immigration legislation. Chairman Johnson and other restrictionists on the House Immigration Committee have now gotten together with Assistant Secretary of Labor Husband on a new proposal which would sharply curtail all immigration. The proposed bill would reduce European entries from 150,000 to 15,000 per year and establish a general quota of 10,000 a year on the countries of the Western Hemisphere. Mexico would come out on the short end with an allowance of perhaps 1000 a year.

Shell Company to Build Large Nitrogen Plant

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19. (AP)—The Shell Chemical Company, recently organized by the Shell Oil Company interests, today announced the purchase of 600 acres in Contra Costa county on which will be constructed a nitrogen fixation plant to cost approximately $5,000,000. Construction, the announcement said, will start at once.

Nitrogen, obtained from the atmosphere, will be combined with hydrogen under pressure in the presence of a catalyst to form ammonia. The hydrogen will be obtained from natural gas. Ammonia and its oxidation product, nitric acid, will be combined with other materials to form fertilizer bases to supply California agriculture as well as export demand.

Hecke Plans for Test Work on Fruit-Fly Curb

SACRAMENTO, June 19. (AP)—Experimental treatment of California deciduous and citrus fruits as a precaution against the Mediterranean fruit fly will be conducted this season, G. H. Hecke, director of agriculture, announced today on his return from Washington.

Methods will be those used in Florida last year, Hecke said, consisting of subjecting fruit to a temperature of 110 deg. for a given period, or to a temperature of 28 deg. for a stipulated time. Because of their more perishable nature, new means of rendering deciduous fruits safe for shipment will be devised, he said.

WEATHER READ BY PLANE

Observations in Air Yield Accurate Forecasts Over Restricted Area, Meteorologists Told

EUGENE (Or.) June 19. (AP)—Exact forecasting of weather conditions over a restricted area through observations taken from airplanes was described to the American Meteorological Society here today by Lieut. V. O. Clapp of the United States Navy, Seattle, at the annual meeting of the society.

From observations of flights made almost daily since January 23, Lieut. Clapp said, his data showed that subsequent conditions for twelve or twenty-four hours in advance have verified the indications. On three occasions results were contrary to those expected within twelve hours. The flights were made in the Seattle area.

AIR STRATIFIED

Charting of information gathered in the observation flights indicates, Lieut. Clapp said, that the vertical section of the air above any point shows a horizontally stratified atmosphere with various layers of different properties. These different air layers, unless conforming to a certain temperature gradient, tend to adjust themselves by displacing each other. In doing so, ascending and descending air currents are formed, with a consequent heating and cooling and perhaps a condensation of the existing water vapor on dygroscopic particles present in

GLENDALE TOURISTS FACE DEATH

W. H. Albee and Bride in Canadian Wilds Given Slight Hope of Rescue

VANDERHOOF (B. C.) June 19. (AP)—Death in the wilds of the northern frontier only a few miles from the Arctic Divide was feared today by Royal Northwest Canadian Police for William H. Albee, 23 years of age, Glendale, Cal., and his bride, who ventured into the wilderness several days ago toward Dawson against the protests of frontiersmen and trappers.

With only a small rifle and a pack sack of provisions the young adventurers, both of slight physique and unaccustomed to the perils of the North, disregarded the advice and warning of Sergt. W. J. Service, in charge of Fort George provincial police, and refused to follow the telegraph trail. Provincial police patrol that trail.

Only unusual good luck will prevent the couple from perishing, W. F. Manson of the Department of Indian Affairs, said. Their main hope of rescue, Manson explained, is through a perilous airplane expedition.

German Kills Polish Guard

LYCK (East Prussia) June 19. (AP) Another clash between German and Polish frontier guards was reported tonight from the frontier station of Prostken. A German customs officer shot dead a Polish customs man.

The German asserted he acted in self-defense, but other details were lacking. East Prussian authorities have gone to investigate.

Several weeks ago a Polish officer died from wounds inflicted in collision with German frontier guards and other Poles were wounded.

Three Killed When Bridge in East Collapses

FREDERICK (Md.) June 19. (AP) Three or more men were killed and six injured this afternoon as half of a steel highway bridge over the Monocacy River on the Washington highway, three miles west of here, fell twenty feet into the swollen waters.

The men were repairing flooring when the collapse took place as a heavy truck drove over.

The victims were James Gue and Edgar Lyon and D. C. Dortner.

Marie Williams Reweds Singer

LONDON, June 19. (AP)—Miss Marie Williams, blond Scottish-born opera singer, today married her American husband for the second time.

She was wed to Serge I. Radamsky, a Russian-born naturalized American singer, in Russia six months ago. The couple since learned their soviet marriage was not recognized by the United States and it would be necessary to have another ceremony performed in London.

Hitchcock Will Contest Norris For Senate Seat

OMAHA, June 19. (AP)—Former United States Senator Hitchcock, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee in the Wilson administration during the World War, today announced his candidacy for the Nebraska Senate seat held by Senator Norris.

Hitchcock is a Democrat.

Price of Food Still Falling

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—Retail food prices still are falling although the increase on May 15 as compared to the month ending April 15 was slightly less than three-fourths of 1 per cent.

Figures made public today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed decreases in twenty-two articles, including a precipitate decline in cabbage of 26 per cent. Such staples as pork chops, eggs and flour fell slightly. Oranges, onions and potatoes increased.

Detroit Seeks Mayor's Recall

DETROIT, June 19. (AP)—Petitions bearing 111,270 names asking the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles were filed with the City Clerk today.

Only 90,000 names are required to assure the recall election.

The city clerk is required to call the election after verifying the signatures.

The recall movement started a month ago following the latest shake-up of the police department.

FRENCH ENVOY RECALLED

OTTAWA, June 19. (AP)—Georges Jean Knight, French Minister to Canada since 1928, has been recalled to Paris to take over the post of Chief of Press Services in the Foreign Affairs Ministry.

Will Rogers Remarks:

NEW YORK, June 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Just had breakfast this morning with the Morrows and the Lindberghs. They are all feeling mighty fine over that election. He made a pretty fair race without using Lindbergh at all. If he had used him those other poor fellows would not have even carried their own wives vote. He is anxious to get to Mexico now and is leaving in a few days. If I was his opponent in November I would get a one-way ticket to Siberia.

See where the Senate voted to investigate the rates in the tariff; that's holding an autopsy on the body.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

HAYS HEARS TALKIES COO LIKE DOVES

Greatest Medium for World Peace, Film Czar Tells Paris Gathering

PARIS, June 19. (AP) — The subcommittees of the international conference of film magnates and producers made such rapid progress this afternoon that another session of the joint committee will meet tomorrow morning under the presidency of Will Hays, American motion-picture industry supervisor.

Hays, elected chairman today, in his opening speech from the chair declared he thinks the "talkies" will be a superlative instrument to promote world peace.

"I personally think audible motion pictures are destined to be the greatest instrument ever placed in the hands of man to promote world peace," he said.

After citing the interdependence of organizations in world commerce, he added: "Speaking for the American group, I assure you of their determination to proceed in every possible way to bring these negotiations to a successful and entirely mutually satisfactory conclusion."

Actress Bride of New Yorker

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—The marriage of Miss Mary Blair, actress, and Compton M. Eaken, an executive of the Frigidaire Corporation, became known on Broadway today. The ceremony was performed last Sunday at Eaken's country home at Redding, Ct.

Miss Blair received a final decree of divorce three weeks ago from Edmund Wilson, literary critic for the New Republic. She has appeared in the leading roles in many of Eugene O'Neill's plays.

GUNMAN ON RAMPAGE

Brooklyn Man Wounded

Assailant Believed to be Murderer of Two in Queens

Escaped Maniac Hunted as Suspect in Slaying Epidemic

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—A man said to answer the description of the Queens slayer tonight shot and critically wounded Morris Horwitz, 50-year-old insurance broker, near his home in Brooklyn.

Horwitz said the gunman stepped into his automobile as he started the motor. Ordering him to drive rapidly the intruder sat down beside Horwitz, who believed the order was a joke. He started at a moderate speed and laughed when the man ordered him to go faster.

Suddenly the intruder struck him with the butt of his pistol, and as Horwitz stopped the car he was shot in the chest. The gunman leaped from the machine and fled on foot.

MANIC HUNTED TO SOLVE MURDER MYSTERIES

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—Hoping to solve the maniacal killing of two men in Queens within a week, the forces of the law tonight were organized in a hunt for a murderously insane man who escaped a month ago from the King Park Asylum, at East Islip, L. I. He is Joseph Ustica, slayer of William Gilbride, Brooklyn contractor, in Freeport, L. I., in 1928.

Hope of an early capture of the slayer was raised by the story of Edward Miller, 15 years of age, that he probably had seen the man after the murder of Noel Bowley, whose body was found in his automobile in a lonely road near Creedmore Monday night.

The boy said a man left the bushes as he rode his bicycle close by the scene of the murder, and told him that if he looked sharp as he went along he would see an automobile parked on the side of the road.

This man, mentioned first as only a casual dandelion picker, may be the killer, police believe.

The man who slew Bowley also is believed to be responsible for the killing of Joseph Mosynski of College Point, Queens, a week ago yesterday.

Ustica suffered delusions that his mission was to recover certain mysterious documents and to protect women. Letters to newspapers purporting to come from the slayer of Bowley and Mosynski have referred vaguely to missing papers of great value, and after each murder the killer escorted to the nearest transportation line the young woman found in the parked car with his victim.

Police today scoured bypaths along the Boston road in the Bronx after a letter to a newspaper had said the body of a third victim would be found there.

Capone's Case Against Miami Official Fails

MIAMI (Fla.) June 19. (AP)—Charges of false arrest lodged against Director of Public Safety McCreary of Miami by "Scarface" Al Capone were dismissed in Justice Court today after Capone testified some of his earlier testimony had been "incorrect."

Capone said his previous testimony that McCreary had refused to allow him to telephone his attorneys or friends had been incorrect.

This testimony was the basis for one of four perjury warrants sworn out against Capone Saturday.

BAY STATE HAS 4,364,972

Massachusetts Reports Gain of 13.3 Per Cent in Population Since 1920

BOSTON, June 19. (AP)—The population of Massachusetts is 4,364,972, a gain of 512,616 or 13.3 per cent since 1920, compilation of partly revised figures from the sixteen census districts in the State today disclosed.

Every district in the commonwealth showed an increase during the ten-year period. Totals for the individual cities and towns showed a decided movement of growth to the suburban residential communities. This was especially true in the greater Boston area where one large town doubled its population and several others nearly did likewise.

With the exception of several of the larger textile and shoe manufacturing centers, gains were recorded in all the cities of the State. The recent depression in the shoe and textile industries was credited with responsibility for the losses.

Boston, the State capital, is the largest city with a population of 783,451, which was a gain of 35,391 over 1920.

DENVER, June 19. (AP)—Colorado's 1930 population, based on reports of district census supervisors, is 1,033,156. The State's population in 1920 was 939,629. The increase was 23,427, or 10 per cent.

Denver's population, exclusive of the suburban area, is 287,726, a gain of 31,237, or 12.2 per cent.

CENSUS RETURNS

Denver, Colo., 287,726, increase, 31,237, or 12 per cent.

Xenia, O., 10,498, increase 1398, or 15.2 per cent.

Webster Grove, Mo., (St. Louis suburb,) 16,462, increase 6868, or 73.8 per cent.

Superior, Wis., 36,091, decrease 9 per cent, or 3332.

Danvers, Mass., (revised,) 13,952, increase 1944, or 16.6 per cent.

Richmond, Va., (revised,) 182,832, increase 11,215, or 6.5 per cent.

Youngstown, O., (revised,) 170,004, increase 37,646, or 28.4 per cent.

SENATE CLOSES CANNON DISPUTE

Caraway Defends Conduct of Lobby Committee

Curtis Will Not Cite Bishop on Contempt Charge

Chairman Denies Immunity Accorded Churchman

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—The Senate wrote finis today to the controversy between its lobby committee and Bishop Cannon after a bristling last paragraph had been added by Senator Caraway of Arkansas.

The Democratic chairman of the committee defended its action in not forcing the Southern Methodist churchman to answer questions relating to the disposition of $65,300 contributed to him for the 1928 anti-Smith campaign by E. C. Jameson, a New York capitalist. But he added:

"As to the $65,300, he stands in an unenviable position and he can answer for himself. I will not."

MONEY DISCUSSED

Going into the source of the money, Caraway said he does not believe it belonged to Jameson.

"I think he was passing out the money to the Republican National Committee in order to fight Al Smith on religious and other grounds, and did not want to be connected with it. I may be mistaken about that."

"Bishop Cannon was brought to Jameson by Bascom Slemp (Republican National Committeeman for Virginia,) who was very interested, of course, in Republican success."

Chairman Caraway presented, as a report from the committee, a transcript of thousands of words of testimony given by Cannon. He informed his colleagues the committee had agreed it had no right to ask the questions the bishop declined to answer. Then Vice-President Curtis announced he will not cite the bishop to the District Attorney for possible contempt proceedings.

Action by the Vice-President was the final straw to which opponents of the bishop clung in their hope something would be done about his defiance.

BLAINE FAVORS ACTION

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, had contended the law required Curtis to report the bishop to the District Attorney. The Vice-President took the position there was nothing before him to act upon.

He explained the lobby committee itself had ruled four to one it had no right to investigate Cannon's political activities. In addition, he said he could act only upon a report from a full committee. The lobby investigators compose a subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee.

Caraway said any statement the bishop was given "immunity" by the committee is an "unqualified and deliberate falsehood."

"Certain people want to charge that Bishop Cannon was given immunity. That statement is an unqualified and deliberate falsehood, and whoever utters it does so with the knowledge that he is a common liar. I claim no immunity for that declaration here or anywhere else."

CARAWAY EXPLAINS STAND

Referring again to criticism of the committee for not compelling Cannon to answer the questions, Caraway asserted:

"There have been more statements made that arose from utter ignorance of what did occur or were prompted by malicious lying than about any other incident I know of. While it may not be parliamentary, I want to say that if any one asserts that there was a different rule applied in this case than that which had been invoked in several other instances or at least that the chairman had changed his position in this matter, he either does not know what he is talking about or he is uttering a willful and malicious lie. And that stands in the Senate and outside of it."

Caraway said the committee has never inquired into purely political activities.

Byrd Exhibit to Occupy Bullock Windows on Seventh Street

The Byrd exhibit of maps, models and other items pertinent to Rear-Admiral Byrd's epochal trip to the South Pole, as originated in New York by the New York Times, and supplemented by the Los Angeles Times with data on Rear-Admiral Byrd's departure from Los Angeles Harbor, will be placed on public display in Los Angeles this afternoon.

It is to be seen in the Seventh-street windows of Bullock's, Seventh street and Broadway, where it will remain for several days.

WOOD SUPPORTS BOULDER FUNDS

detail the reasons why, in the opinion of all the agencies that have passed on the contracts they are legally effective and adequate from the viewpoint of the government.

Evans made an extended argument saying that while the taxpayers of Los Angeles will gladly vote the bonds it is impossible under the California law for them to do so and there will be only delay and extra cost without better protecting the government. However, he contended the city is bound firmly by the contract entered into by its water and power department which has freer sway in such matters and which, he declared, has ample revenues to meet the Boulder Dam payments.

The department, he said, has annual net income of more than $3,600,000 at the present time and this will increase while the yearly payments called for on Boulder Dam amount only to $2,427,000. "There is no reason why the city should be required to vote bonds even if it had the legal capacity to do so," Evans said.

SWING SHOWS CHARTS

Representative Crail emphasized the importance to Southern California of putting the project speedily under way.

Representative Swing had charts showing that the water and power department now has surplus funds of more than $10,000,000 to devote to the project and this total will increase to more than $30,000,000 in the next ten years as it is paying out on the Colorado River.

Douglas contended the department in twelve years of its existence has built up liquid assets of only $1,996,000 and that this is all the government could bank on as against more than $31,000,000 the district would be obligated to pay. He pointed out that Atty.-Gen. Mitchell held the department is legally bound only within the limits of its own assets as distinct from those of the city.

Only a handful of members were on the floor today but there probably will be a large attendance tomorrow when the real blows are exchanged on the Boulder Dam item. The deficiency bill is expected to pass tomorrow and Senate leaders plan to hold off an adjournment resolution until it is safely through their branch.

Noted Explorer Seeks New Worlds to Conquer

Admiral Praises Men for Heroic Qualities

dirigible Los Angeles and two blimps floated along at a lower altitude.

The members of the Byrd expedition were transferred from their ships to the city boat Macom. They piled eagerly over the side when the Macom was made fast to the City of New York and a few moments later the old reconditioned merchantman stood almost deserted, its blackened sails tightly furled, ropes piled high on debris-strewn decks and its above-the-water-line seams gaping from Antarctic ice and tropical suns.

On the welcoming boat Riverside the rails were lined with disappointed wives and relatives of the Byrd crew. They had expected to ride up the bay with their long-absent men folks, but a last-minute decision to keep the expedition together upset their plans.

WIFE GREETS HIM

Aboard the Macom with her explorer-husband was Mrs. Byrd, who was unsuccessful in boarding the City of New York at sea last night because of high waves. Richard, Jr., Eleanor and Katherine Byrd awaited their father at City Hall.

Virginia, home State of the admiral, was represented by Gov. Pollard and a host of dignitaries from the Old Dominion. There was gold lace and brass buttons in every corner of the Macom and through and around it all strode Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the Mayor's receiving committee, back on his old job of welcoming returning heroes.

At the City Hall, where Mayor Walker awaited Byrd and his men, 30,000 persons were seated in the specially constructed grand stands or standing in the park. The Mayor in welcoming Byrd complimented him for having led his men to the South Pole and back without the loss of a member of his crew. The Mayor found wise cracks better than laudations on such a hot, humid day, and soon broke away from his set speech.

MEN PRAISED

Admiral Byrd spoke briefly, mostly in praise of his men. "Down there at the bottom of the world," he said, "every man had to stand on his own feet. Social position, wealth, fame, past efficiency; none of those things counted one bit. What counted was a man's own manhood. And so some of the lowliest jobs produced some of the best results for the success of the expedition."

Later in the afternoon at a second interview Admiral Byrd explained that he has made claims for the United States of the 125,000 square miles he flew over. It lies eastward of the 150th meridian, beyond the claims of the British.

Along with the important scientific discoveries, he said, was the finding of carboniferous materials, indicating enormous coal deposits. He realized that this coal can not be mined profitably at present, but visualized the possibility of it having commercial value in the future.

"The Antarctic now," he said, is going through an ice age, but we found evidence that at some time in the past it enjoyed a tropical or semitropical temperature."

Rear-Admiral Byrd will visit Washington tomorrow, where another rousing welcome to the explorer is being planned.

TOTAL COST OF BYRD EXPEDITION $800,000

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—The entire cost of the Byrd Antarctic expedition was not more than $800,000, Capt. H. H. Railey, the rear-admiral's personal representative, estimated today.

He said this figure compares favorably with the cost of similar expeditions in the past. The Scott south-pole expedition cost about $800,000, he said.

Approximately $100,000 remains to be paid. However, no further public subscription will be asked. It is expected that all money needed to square the debts of the expedition will be supplied privately by friends of the explorers.

the atmosphere, to form clouds and even produce rain, snow or hail.

These charts show whether the air is stable or unstable, and whether or not such readjustment will cause clouds or rain. If the amount of water in the atmosphere is high, he said, the chances for rain or snow are good, depending upon temperature; if it is low, perhaps there will be only clouds for the next twelve or twenty-four hours.

The fruit grower, who, in combating frost is obliged to "smudge" his orchard, must for some time to come continue "to warm up all out of doors," in the opinion of Prof. Floyd D. Young of the United States Weather Bureau, Pomona, Cal.

After describing the many schemes for frost protection that have been suggested and discarded, Young declared nothing has been found to take the place of the common orchard heater now in wide use, admitting its inefficiency. Such heaters are generally used in Southern California, he said, and are equipped with drafts and pipes to eliminate the smoke nuisance. Oil is in favor as fuel.

Orchard heating, he said, or the actual heating of the air through lighting a large number of small fires throughout the frost area, dates back to 1897, when the use of coal baskets was begun in the orange groves of Southern California.

House Group Agrees on Bill for Conservation in Elk Hills Area

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—The House Naval Committee agreed today on a measure to authorize acquisition of private holdings in navy Reserve No. 1 at Elk Hills, California, as a means of conserving oil.

The committee voted unanimously to refer the Britten bill to a subcommittee for amendment and introduction, with the understanding, however, the bill will not be called up for consideration until the December session.

The committee appointed Representatives Hale, Republican, New Hampshire; Andrew, Republican, Massachusetts, and McClintic, Democrat, Oklahoma, as a subcommittee instructed to amend the bill to include language which will permit institution of condemnation proceedings to acquire the privately owned lands, if necessary.

Court Revokes Widening Ban on Glendale Street

SACRAMENTO, June 19. (AP)—Action of the Los Angeles Superior Court in granting a permanent injunction preventing the city of Glendale from widening the pavement on Lomita avenue, was reversed by the Third District Court of Appeal here today.

The injunction was obtined by Mr. and Mrs. James Neill, owners of property fronting on Lomita avenue, on the ground the widening of the pavement would involve destruction of large eucalyptus trees. In reversing the trial court, the Appellate Court held the trees are in the street and that the city has the right to remove them in making improvements.

Another Death in Boat Disaster

BOSTON, June 19. (AP)—Mrs. Harold A. Batson of Salem, who was severely burned in the Fairfax-Pinthis disaster, died today at the Carney Hospital. Her death brings the number of lives lost to forty-eight.

FRANKLIN MEMORIAL UNDER WAY

Philadelphia Raises More Than $5,000,000 to Build Huge Museum Building

PHILADELPHIA, June 19. (AP)—A great memorial is to be erected here in honor of Benjamin Franklin.

More than $5,000,000 for the purpose has been raised by public subscription and ground was broken yesterday for the building, which will occupy nearly three acres on the parkway leased from the city for ninety-nine years at $1 a year. The structure will house many evidences of Franklin's greatness, and exhibits of the progress of the nation in mechanical arts and sciences. It will be known as the Franklin Memorial and Franklin Institute Museum and will be modeled after the great Deutsches Museum at Munich. The plans call for its completion in the spring of 1932.

Money for the memorial, which will have a floor area of about 400,000 square feet, was raised in ten days by a committee headed by Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Philadelphia publisher, who turned the first shovelful of earth at the ground-breaking exercises. It was Mr. Curtis's eightieth birthday and many speakers paid tribute to him because of his "spirited leadership and indomitable energy."

Mr. Curtis declared the memorial should have been erected years ago. "After 140 years," he said, "Philadelphia is starting to give Benjamin Franklin that memorial to which his great career, his many achievements and his services to this city entitle him."

MOTHER TO FACE KIDNAPING CHARGE

SEATTLE, June 19. (AP)—Police here expect to surprise Mrs. Florence Hartman at her California home tomorrow or the next day with a warrant charging her with kidnaping. So the surprise will not be spoiled, they are keeping her address a secret. They say she is somewhere in Oregon today, motoring south with her two little children, taken from the home of her divorced husband, Joseph Pezzella, in Auburn, twenty-one miles south of here, yesterday.

TERRIFIC BLAST IN HOME HURTS PARENTS AND BABE

A 14-month-old baby girl was blown, crib and bed clothing, twenty feet through a window, her mother sent hurtling across two rooms and through a closed door into the yard and the father knocked unconscious as the result of a mysterious blast within their home at 2321 South Raymon street last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Mahan were rushed to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital suffering from severe burns after they were discovered unconscious by terrified neighbors.

The baby, Nora Mae, had her hair burned off but was able to remain at the home of Mrs. Josephine Estrada, who occupied a house on the same lot as that of the wrecked residence.

Investigating police, headed by J. R. Steward, declared that the explosion probably was caused by escaping gas. They declare that Nora Mae, asleep in a bedroom of the four-room dwelling, was lifted in her crib and tossed out the window into the yard.

Mrs. Mahan, 20 years of age, crashed through a door and tore it from its hinges with the impact of her body. Her hands were seared, hair burned off and her clothing afire when neighbors rushed to her aid.

The husband was found lying in the debris of the living-room. He also was burned about the head and hands. He is 26, and is a carpenter.

Virtually all the walls of the frame building were bursted outward and the roof was knocked askew. Windows in the neighborhood for half a block were broken.

Capt. C. O. Ward of Truck Company No. 8, Los Angeles Fire Department, reported that there evidently was a sheet of flame accompanying the explosion, but that it did not damage the house by flame other than to scorch the window curtains.

WILKINS GETS AMERICAN AIDE

Ellsworth to Collaborate in Polar Submarine Trip

Statements Issued Abroad Set Forth Their Plans

Arrangements Made for Use of Undersea Vessel

PARIS, June 19. (AP)—Capt. Sir George Hubert Wilkins, British explorer, and Lincoln Ellsworth, American, who has spent much of his life in the Arctic regions, today announced collaboration in an attempt next year to reach the North Pole by means of a submarine.

At Lenzburg, Switzerland, Capt. Wilkins issued a statement saying that Mr. Ellsworth, who was a joint leader with Roald Amundsen on the flight of the Norge across the North Pole, will be associated with him as joint leader in the projected exploration trip, to be known as the Wilkins-Ellsworth trans-Polar submarine expedition.

The statement further sets forth that Commander Sloan Danenhower will be master of the vessel and Dr. H. Sverdrup, the chief of its scientific staff.

They expect to leave New York for Spitzbergen next June and travel under the ice cross the North Pole so as to reach Alaska late in August.

Ellsworth, arriving in Paris from Basel, en route to America, confirmed Capt. Wilkins's announcement.

Capt. Wilkins announced last year that he would attempt the trans-Polar submarine trip and stated that he had discovered an old submarine constructed by Simon Lake, the inventor, which would suit his purpose admirably.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, famous Arctic explorer, probably first developed the idea of reaching the pole by submarine. He elaborated his theory of its possibility in his book, "Northward the Course of Empire."

NAVY'S O-12 WILL BE CHARTERED FOR VENTURE

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—A dismantled, battered navy submarine, the O-12, is to be chartered to Sir George Hubert Wilkins for his Arctic expedition.

Capt. Wilkins placed his request with the Shipping Board and that agency, in turn, has asked the Navy to turn over the submarine to the board so the craft can be leased to Sir Hubert for $1 a year.

The O-12, one of a group built by the firm of which Simon Lake, submarine developer, is a member, is to be outfitted at the lake and Danenhower yards at Bridgeport, Ct. It will be equipped with scientific apparatus as well as devices intended to enable the submarine to bore a hole through sixty feet of ice, so as to renew the air supply and charge the batteries.

Weighed Only 109 Lbs.; Now She Weighs 125

"Sargon took me when I'd suffered a complete breakdown and weighed only 109, and gave me a sixteen-pound gain in weight," recently declared Mrs. Mary Schoch, 3471 Moncrieff Place, Denver.

MRS. MARY SCHOCH

"I was so weak I could hardly do an hour's work, and I had terrible sick headaches and backaches. A neuritic condition set in, in my shoulders and neck; my stomach was badly disordered; and I'd been troubled with constipation ever since I was a child.

"I've gained back weight at the rate of two pounds a week on Sargon, and I have such worlds of strength and energy I can work all day long if necessary and never seem to weaken in the least! I don't suffer with those pains in my shoulders and neck like I used to; and my stomach seemed in perfect condition.

"By taking Sargon Pills along with the liquid I've at last rid myself of constipation, and my sick headaches and backaches have gone with it. Thanks to these wonderful medicines, nothing stands between me and splendid health."

Sargon may be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores and Liggett Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—[Advertisement.

UNEMPLOYED COMPENSATED

General Electric Evolves New Insurance Plan

Scheme Devised to Help Idle Men Over Slack Times

Employees to Create Fund to Pay Premiums

SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) June 19. (Exclusive)—A form of unemployment insurance for its own workers in slack times is being put into effect by the General Electric Company, its president, Gerard Swope, announced today.

Equal contributions will be made by the employees and by the company. Employees who have been with the concern a year or more will pay 1 per cent of their salary for three years, but only when they are working at least 50 per cent full time. In times of abnormal employment contributions by participating employees will cease and all other employees—including the highest officers of the company—will be called on to contribute 1 per cent of their earnings.

Payments during temporary layoffs will be 50 per cent of an employee's average full-time earnings, but shall not exceed $30 a week, or be made more than ten weeks in any twelve consecutive months. Up to 3 per cent of the contributions paid into the fund, on the total of which the company guarantees 5 per cent interest, will be available for the sick relief of employees or former employees; 27 per cent for loans to employee members and the remaining 70 per cent, with all emergency contributions and all interest, for unemployment payments.

The funds will be handled by a board of trustees in each plant of the company, which participates, half of the trustees being elected by the employees and half named by the company.

Premier Baxter Wins Victory in New Brunswick

FREDERICTON (N. B.) June 19. (Exclusive)—The government of John B. M. Baxter, Conservative, was returned to power in general Provincial elections today, winning thirty-one of the forty-eight seats in the New Brunswick Legislature. The Liberal opposition party made an issue of the Baxter government's control of liquor sales, declaring the Premier pledged to retain prohibition until the people decided otherwise.

Wendell P. Jones, leader of the opposition party, was beaten in Carleton county, one of the temperance strongholds of the Province, and his party failed to make any gains in any of the temperance counties, except two seats in Albert county. The opposition also won four seats in Northumberland county from the government, the chief issue there being unemployment.

Nanking Seeks to Block Rebel Customs Coup

SHANGHAI, June 19. (AP)—The government's State Council at Nanking decided tonight to require all shipping destined for Tien-tsin to obtain government clearance through Shanghai, paying duties here.

The decision was because of the northern rebels' seizure of the Tien-tsin customhouse on the 16th inst., diverting revenues into rebel hands instead of the government. The council also decided to order the customs staff, foreign and Chinese, withdrawn from Tien-tsin.

The orders are expected to cause consternation as much of the shipping entering Tien-tsin does not call at Shanghai.

Oakland Jury Convicts Three of Bribery Plot

OAKLAND, June 19. (AP)—Climaxing the recent county grand jury investigation of the Oakland paving situation, Harry Lesser, wealthy paving contractor, was convicted by a Superior Court jury today on three counts of a conspiracy and bribery indictment.

A. A. Horwege and James Austin, employees tried with Lesser, were found guilty on one count of a conspiracy charge.

The jury deliberated seven hours and with its verdict recommended clemency for Horwege and Austin. Sentence will be pronounced Monday.

PUGET SOUND WILL GET NEW AIR SERVICE

PORTLAND (Or.) June 19. (AP)—Varney Air Lines announced here today that early in July the company will extend its operations to include daily passenger service between Portland, Seattle and Tacoma, and between Spokane and Pasco. These lines will connect with that part of the system already offering passenger accommodations between Portland and Salt Lake City, and will give the Puget Sound and Inland empire sections a direct air service to the East. The Varney ships will connect with the Boeing service at Salt Lake City.

FORD BAILS OUT EMBEZZLER

Youthful Bank Teller's Story Wins Magnate's Sympathy

DETROIT, June 19. (Exclusive)—James Peterson, former Highland Park high school boy, who embezzled $1000 from a branch of the First National Bank, where he was a teller, was released today on bond provided by Henry Ford.

The youth is to have another chance because Ford read his story and made a special trip downtown with Harry Bennett, chief of the Ford Motor Company police, to investigate.

Peterson is to have a job at the Ford plant.

BANKERS TO CITE NEEDS OF THRIFT

Educational Program Planned for Nation by Institute

DENVER, June 19. (AP)—Less speculation and more thrift will be the gist of advice the American Institute of Banking is going to give American people in a vast program of education that will embrace hundreds of radio talks and published articles.

The public education committee of the institute laid its plans today at the annual convention. The program mapped out is a continuation of one begun last year, when 300,000 persons were reached through one medium or another with the gospel of thrift.

"Next to religion finance is uppermost in every man's thought," said Fred Brower, Jr., of Winston Salem, N. C. "There is no greater service banks can render than to teach persons to save and provide for their survivors after death, and to teach children so they will be better able to cope with the financial problems which are to confront them in later life. Those who learn thrift are assured of a happier life than those who do not learn it."

The public education committee reported it considered its work a very important service to the nation. A. S. Puelicher of Milwaukee, sketched the history of the educational movement of the American Bankers' Association, saying it was organized in 1919, when "radical forces were making progress in the world."

REFUNDS OF TAXES MADE TO PACKERS

Internal Revenue Bureau Returns $14,000,000 to Several Companies

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—Tax refunds amounting to more than $14,000,000 to packing companies and related concerns throughout the country were announced today by the Internal Revenue Bureau as a result of a decision by the Court of Claims last March in a suit brought by Swift & Co.

The refunds, some being on separate amounts to the same company, included: Swift & Co., Chicago, $4,164,034 refund, $2,760,567 interest; Libby McNeill & Libby and affiliated companies, Chicago, $2,325,365 refund, $1,388,792 interest; Plankinton Company, Milwaukee, Wis., $934,969 refund, $608,828 interest; Omaha Packing Company, Chicago, refund $506,643, interest $329,965; G. H. Hammond Company, Chicago, $376,451 refund, $247,642 interest; A. C. Lawrence Leather Company of Maine, Boston, $245,160 refund, $159,434 interest.

Involved in the Swift suit, based on its net returns for 1918, was whether the tax returns should be made on a fiscal or calendar year basis. The government contended the returns should be made on the fiscal year but the court sustained the packers' contention the returns should be paid on the calendar year.

Flood in Florida Inundates Town

FORT MYERS (Fla.) June 19. (AP) Flood waters from the swollen Caloosahatchee River are rising at La Belle tonight. The town is inundated to a depth of from two to four feet.

Residents are virtually marooned and boats are used for transportation. Train service has been disrupted for forty-eight hours and mail was brought by boat from Denaud.

MISSOURIAN ASKS FARM ACT REPEAL

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—Repeal of the act creating the Federal Farm Board was demanded in the House today by Representative Ellis, Republican of Missouri, who charged "it has been a miserable failure." Ellis said the board's operations are "repugnant" to agriculture and have resulted in lower prices for farm products. Hundreds of farmers urged him to seek repeal of the act, he said.

STOCK MARKET VICTIM KILLS SELF WITH GUN

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—Walter Werner, 37 years of age, broker and representative of foreign banks, was found dead in his apartment on Fifth avenue today, a bullet in his head. A note said he had suffered severe losses in the stock market. A check for $1000 made out to "cash" lay on top of the note, which directed that the money be used for funeral expenses.

FORD TO SPEND THIRTY MILLION

Work Involving $24,500,000 Already Under Way

Improvements and New Plants Included

Detroit Factories to Close for Vacation Period

DETROIT, June 19. (AP)—New branch plants, additions and other improvements planned by the Ford Motor Company this year will represent an expenditure of substantially more than $30,000,000, officials said today.

Work involving $24,500,000 already is under way or in the hands of architects. The expansion program contemplates new branch plants as well as improvements in the parent plants here. Improvements also are planned in foreign plants, but these are not included in today's estimate.

The Ford Motor Company announced today its offices and plants in the Detroit area will be closed for two weeks beginning July 12. The announcement said the shutdown is to enable all employees to take vacations simultaneously. Most of the other automobile plants in the Detroit district are planning similar shutdowns during July and early August.

Coal and Cigars Also Add to Commission Worries

House Committee Tries to Tie Up Tag Ends

Russian Importations Will be Looked Into

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—While a House committee today gave over the attempt to bind together the tag ends that have sprung out in a variety of proposals affecting tariff rates, new worries were accumulating for the Tariff Commission. At the same time a measure was introduced in the House to widen the scope of the investigation the Senate has instructed the commission to make into the cost of production of a group of articles.

The House Ways and Means Committee decided to postpone indefinitely action on measures affecting duties on anthracite, imports of cigars from Cuba and wiping rags omitted from the Tariff Act.

The committee, however, sent a request to the State, Treasury, Commerce and Labor departments and to the Tariff Commission to make an investigation of the anthracite imported from Russia and report at the next session of Congress.

In a statement, Chairman Hawley said the action of the committee in postponing further consideration of the coal, cigar and wiping-rag duties, will apply "to any other proposition for modifying in any respect the Tariff Act recently passed."

Representative Garber, Republican, Oklahoma, introduced a resolution to add harness, sugar and lumber to the list of items covered in the Borah resolution adopted yesterday by the Senate. Shoes, furniture and various farm implements were the other articles which the Senate directed the commission to investigate.

FRANCE LAUNCHES AMERICAN TARIFF PROTEST

PARIS, June 19. (AP)—Official France made its first move of protest against the new American tariff and its first official threat of reprisal today through the committee on customs of the Chamber of Deputies. The committee adopted the following "order of the day" to be submitted to Premier Tardieu:

"The committee on customs of the Chamber, after examining attentively the consequences of the increase in customs duties decided upon by the United States, notes with regret:

"First, that the new American tariff, affecting especially the most active branches of production, will sensibly decrease French exports to that great, friendly country.

"Second, that it will seriously increase the difficulties which generalized economic nationalism is bringing about in international exchanges.

"Third, that owing to the injury done to the equilibrium of their commercial balances, countries which have debts to settle with the United States risk severe tension in the monetary systems.

"The committee deems it necessary to adopt French customs duties, as applied to American products, to the regime to which will be submitted French exports to America, and requests the government to intervene immediately with the President of the United States to obtain such decrease in American customs duties necessary to the maintenance of French exports.

"The committee on customs, in event that such intervention remains without result, would insist upon suppression of the clause now granting most favored nation treatment to the United States, deeming it illogical that the United States should benefit by such treatment without the slightest reciprocity such as consented by other nations."

MEXICAN GOVERNOR PLANS TARIFF PROTEST

NOGALES (Ariz.) June 19. (AP)—The Nogales Herald said today that Gov. Francisco E. Elias of Sonora, Mex., is considering going to Washington to urge upon President Hoover a modification of the new tariff duties on cattle and agricultural products exported from the Mexican west coast.

REDS' TRAINING OF YOUTH TOLD

House Committee Will Call on Soviet Leaders

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—Having laid the groundwork for its inquiry into Communist activities at hearings ended today, the special House Communist committee announced it will meet in New York July 15, next, to hear representatives of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the official soviet commercial agency.

Three weeks of hearings were closed today after Mrs. Mary Sherman Walker of Seattle, Wash., said the Communists are training American school children in street fighting, military tactics and in propagandizing work to prepare them to lead a revolution.

Questioned by Representative Bachmann, Republican, West Virginia, Mrs. Walker, chairman of the national defense committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, said from the sixty-four exhibits she presented to the committee there could be no doubt the movement is on the increase in the country.

Schools have been established in twelve cities, she said, to teach children revolutionary activities, while twenty camps for "young pioneers of America" are operating.

This Free Book Tells You Your Loan Cost

CAN YOU ANSWER QUESTIONS LIKE THIS? If you have a $7500 monthly payment loan on your home running for 145 months. Your monthly payments are $11.10 per $1000, or a total of $83.25. What interest are you paying? How much can you save per month, year and over the life of your loan, by refinancing on 7% basis?

Heretofore it has taken a highly trained mathematician or loan expert to answer such questions.

Now, with the help of a new pamphlet just issued by Pacific States Savings, you yourself, can answer these questions, or any like them, in five minutes.

This new pamphlet is aptly called "Charting your Course to Lower Cost Loans." Its tables, especially prepared for institution by a consulting actuary, enable a property owner with a fully amortizing monthly payment loan quickly to find his interest rate and to compute the saving he will make by reducing his interest rate to 7%.

This booklet is offered without charge or obligation. Procure a copy; it will throw a light upon your real estate financing problem that you may not now have, and may show you how you can make a saving of hundreds of dollars over the life of your present loan by refinancing on Pacific States Savings.

We will gladly give or mail you a copy of "Charting your Course to Lower Cost Loans." If inconvenient to call send the above coupon.

CHICAGO BUSSES TO KEEP RADIO

Tests Show Reception Clear Except in Certain Parts of Loop

CHICAGO, June 19. (AP)—Six double-deck busses of the Chicago Motor Coach Company have been equipped with radio sets of different makes to test whether a plan for each bus to carry its own radio entertainment is feasible.

Officials announced today radio reception on the busses, except in certain parts of the loop, has been clear, and that the experiment will be continued.

A hot iron was held close to their eyes or used to sear arms and legs. They were shown open graves and in several cases trussed up and made targets for "fancy" shooting, with bullets grazing their bodies.

Nearly all of the victims were tortured before they were asked to sign letters, Laman said, and most of them were eager to sign.

MORROW TO TALK OVER WET PLANK

Jersey Nominee Slated to Confer With Leaders of Party on Monday

NEWARK (N. J.) June 19. (AP)—Announcement that Ambassador Morrow, New Jersey's Republican nominee for United States Senator, will meet party leaders Monday to discuss putting a wet plank in the Republican platform was made today by E. Bertram Mott, chairman of the State Republican Committee. Morrow ran on a platform advocating repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and State liquor control.

Mott indicated Morrow will make no attempt to dictate a plank on prohibition, and expressed the belief the candidate will be disinclined to influence candidates for State offices in dry counties.

Mr. Morrow will address the Republican State convention in Trenton Tuesday and is to leave immediately afterward for Mexico City, where he will spend about two months in completing his ambassadorial duties.

With sixteen districts of the State still missing, the unofficial vote in the Republican Senatorial primary was: Morrow, 419,464; Franklin W. Fort, 118,256; Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, 48,058.

Reform Ticket Sweeps Atlanta

ATLANTA, June 19. (AP)—Atlanta has answered an investigation of a "graft ring" in the municipal government by piling up overwhelming pluralities for reform candidates for city offices.

James L. Key yesterday won the nomination for Mayor in a Democratic primary unprecedented for the size of the vote. The Democratic nomination in Atlanta is considered tantamount to election.

William E. Saunders, convicted of bribery, and J. Allen Couch, Mayor pro tem and one of five Councilmen and Aldermen awaiting trial on "graft" indictments, were beaten decisively in their campaigns for re-election to the City Council.

BOLIVIANS ON WAY TO RECAPTURE VILLAZON

BUENOS AIRES, June 19. (AP)—Dispatches today to La Nacion said Bolivian troops were marching on Villazon, border point which Tuesday fell into the hands of a revolutionary force headed by Roberto Hinojosa, radical leader.

BULLFIGHTER PROVES VALOR

American Matador Parades After Being Injured

ANDUJAR (Spain) June 19. (AP)—Sydney Franklin of Brooklyn, Spain's only American matador, gave outstanding proof of his valor in the bull ring this afternoon.

Gored by a bull he was in the act of dispatching, he killed the animal with a single perfect sword thrust, and then holding his injured right thigh with one hand made a triumphal march around the arena before being carried off for first-aid treatment at the bull ring hospital.

Franklin's injury, his second this year, was painful, but doctors said it is not so serious as that which he suffered in Madrid several months ago, which incapacitated him for some time.

CARUSO'S OPERA TOGS SOLD AS OLD CLOTHES

[Copyright 1930, by New York Times.]

PARIS, June 19. (Exclusive)—Twenty-five costumes worn by Enrico Caruso in his leading opera roles, sold today at the Hotel Drouot, municipal auction house, brought small financial returns but much interest on the part of the public.

Those who attended the sale were mostly middle-aged women admirers who had heard Caruso sing. Many spent a long time fingering the costumes and a few shed tears. When auctioned, however, the faded garments were bought almost exclusively by second-hand clothes dealers in lots of four, realizing from $8 to $10 each.

TWO NOMINATED FOR REAR-ADMIRAL POSTS

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—President Hoover today nominated Capts. Walter R. Gherardi and Arthur St. C. Smith to be rear-admirals in the Navy.

SALESMAN WHO SLEW GIRL GETS LIFE TERM

VETERANS' BILL SNAG LOOMING

Reed's Action Upsets Plans for Adjournment

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—Senate advocates of the veterans' relief bill tonight were demanding a Saturday session to force early action in view of the refusal of Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, to agree to an immediate vote on the bill.

Reed's action, which is interpreted by some as indicating Presidential opposition to the veterans' measure, upset the adjournment program and estimates for an end of this session ranged tonight from the 26th inst. to July 1.

Senator Baird to Take Bride

CAMDEN (N. J.) June 19. (AP)—United States Senator David Baird, Jr., will be married within the next two or three days to Mrs. Francis H. Smith of Camden.

SEARCH FOR PASTOR BY GUARDSMEN ASKED

TUCSON (Ariz.) June 19. (AP)—A request that a company of the Arizona National Guard be called out to aid in the search for Rev. Thomas Howard of Minnesota, missing since the 7th inst., was made to Adjt.-Gen. Joseph E. Pomeroy by Sheriff McDonald of Pima county today. Sheriff McDonald's action followed the suggestion of Gov. Christianson of Minnesota several days ago.

ANOTHER SPEED HOP PLANNED

Brock and Schlee to Try for New West-East Mark

JACKSONVILLE (Fla.) June 19. (AP)—William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, who yesterday completed the fastest round-trip transcontinental flight ever attempted, announced today they will make another west-to-east hop within the next ten days.

After making the east-to-west flight to San Diego, Cal., in the record time of 13h. 54m., the flyers encountered adverse weather conditions on their eastward trip, but completed it in 16m. 30m. with a stop for fuel at Tallulah, La. Their elapsed time for the round trip was 31h. 58m.

1st ANNIVERSARY of Green Lantern Fountains

Dedicated to the June Graduates of Southern California who have helped so generously in our success

Celebration June 20-26

It was in June last year that we publicly announced the Green Lantern Fountains. Of course we had been working on the plan for many months before that.

We are a year old. We are still very young—but old enough to feel very proud of our achievements and progress.

We are taking this opportunity to tell you how grateful we are for your whole-hearted support. You have been very generous and we are sincerely appreciative.

Our Anniversary Celebration is dedicated to the June Graduates. The young folks were so quick to "adopt" us, to assure our success. We have the mothers to thank a lot for that. There were dozens of mothers in Southern California who were afraid to have their sons and daughters patronize soda fountains until the clean Green Lantern Fountains came into existence.

Cleanliness has played a big part in our success. Clean attendants, clean dishes, clean silverware, clean fountains...everything spic and span and sanitary...on the surface and in the hidden places. It isn't easy to keep a busy, crowded fountain looking clean and tidy. Our fountain attendants should feel very proud. They have helped us become nationally famous in one year. All over the United States, the Green Lantern Fountains are being talked about and written about.

When we announced the Green Lantern Fountains many "old heads" in the ice cream and soda fountain business were quick to tell us that we couldn't succeed unless we put on a "sensational" and different "front". But we insisted that you...the public...were more interested in cleanliness, sanitation, good food and drinks, fine ice cream, prompt service and courtesy than in bizarre store fronts. (As a matter of fact... and it is one of the secrets of our success...we had previously interviewed hundreds of you and asked you exactly what you wanted in the way of soda fountain service.)

We are a group of independent druggists...your neighbors. We are striving throughout our stores to give you the same high type of improved service as we are rendering at our fountains. You will find (hundreds of you have already discovered) that it is decidedly to your advantage to come to us for all your drug store needs.

Graduation Party Ice Cream Specials

For our anniversary celebration in honor of June Graduates we have prepared two ice cream specials for graduation parties, luncheons, and dinners. We are offering them at very special prices in appreciation of the generous cooperation of the young folks.

"30" Brick . . . . 65c full Quart

This novel ice cream brick is the most costly one we have ever made. A creamy vanilla brick with a rich chocolate ice cream "30" extending through the center. Each slice contains a "30". If we were to consider costs, the price would be $1.25. Celebration price 65¢ for a full quart brick.

Frozen Basket of Flowers $3 per dozen

This is one of the most beautiful ice cream molds we have ever made. The basket is vanilla ice cream with orange sherbet filling and with whipped cream decorations and flowers. The handle is trimmed with ribbon bow. Each mold is a generous individual serving. During our celebration the price is reduced to $3.00 per dozen.

Both the above ice cream specials obtainable at the reduced prices only at Green Lantern Fountains during our celebration if orders are placed on or before June 20, 21 or 22.

Phone RIchmond 2211
for address and phone number of a Green Lantern Fountain near you.

At the Sign of the Green Lantern

The Green Lantern is the welcome sign of good cheer for those who like unusual refreshments served promptly in an atmosphere of courteous hospitality. If YOU are not acquainted with us and our service, you are missing one of the outstanding pleasures to be found in Southern California. You are always welcome at the sign of the Green Lantern..."Come ye often for good cheer."

The Ice Cream Soda

One of the first things we did before announcing the Green Lantern Fountains was to improve that old fountain favorite, the ice cream soda. We discovered how to make it colder, richer, creamier—a perfect blend of ice cream, flavoring, and sparkling carbonated beverage. The soda is a big favorite at Green Lantern Fountains.

The Malted Milk

Here is another fountain favorite that we didn't take for granted just because it was already popular. Try one of our improved Malted Milks—food and drink for hungry appetite and parched thirst—thoroughly satisfying.

Improved Ice Cream

Another of the secrets of our success is Green Lantern Ice Cream, sold in packages, in bulk, and used in all ice cream dishes and drinks prepared at our fountains. You will like our weekly brick specials in unusual fruit and nut combinations. Our center-mold bricks offered for special occasions and holidays have proved "the ice cream sensation of 1930". Watch for the announcements of future offerings.

Catering Service

Our ice cream cakes, pies, molds, and other frozen catering delicacies are the ideal dessert or refreshment for parties, luncheons, and dinners. They are made special to your order and delivered direct to your home packed for keeping. Ask the Green Lantern fountain attendant for a complimentary copy of the booklet describing these unusual catering desserts.

Fountain Specials

During our Anniversary Celebration Week we are featuring at our fountains some of our original drinks and dishes that have proved unusually popular. We suggest that you try one or more of these:

Black and White Sundae
Moca Mello Sundae
Cantaloupe Sundae
Valencia Frost Creme

At the sign of the Green Lantern—come ye often for good cheer.

Reed Leaps to Defense of Naval Pact With Recital of Benefits

ECONOMY AND SECURITY CITED

Controversy Over Cruisers Held Unimportant

Immediate Parity Pointed Out as Feature

Alarmist Cries Same in All Countries, He Asserts

were preferable to those suggested by the Navy General Board. If we were wrong, the difference in the result is trifling, but we still think that we were right."

Senator Reed added that the 6-inch gun cruisers may have the same speed and cruising radius as the 8-inch gun ships and may be more heavily armored as the weight which is not put into guns can be put into armor. Viewed from any angle he asserted the United States gains important concessions under the terms of the treaty.

REEDS ADDRESS

The text of Senator Reed's address follows:

"Many of you doubtless listened with interest last night as I did to the eloquent radio address by Senator Hiram Johnson of California in which he denounced the London naval treaty and demanded that it should not be ratified by the American Senate. Senator Johnson denounced the treaty but he did not describe it. Neither did he describe the situation that existed in the navies of the world when the London conference met.

"His denunciation of the treaty is all embracing. He does not admit that it contains a single good point or that it gives America any advantage in any respect. As he sees it, the treaty is unqualifiedly bad. If he is correct, the American delegation surrendered everything at London. He would have you believe that a delegation consisting of the American Secretary of State, the American Secretary of the Navy, three American Ambassadors, Charles G. Dawes, Dwight Morrow and Hugh Gibson, the Democratic leader of the United States Senate, and a Republican Senator—that such a delegation agreed unanimously to a treaty that, according to Senator Johnson, is in every respect a surrender of American interests and not only would he have you think this, but he would have you think that the commander of the American fleet stood by at London and approved this humiliating surrender. I believe that as you listened to Senator Johnson you must have suspected that there was another side to the story. There is another side and that is what I am going to try to tell tonight. I believe it can be told in a comparative short time.

CRUISERS NOT LIMITED

"You will remember that the disarmament treaty of Washington made in 1929 limited the building of battleships and airplane carriers, but it failed to limit the building of cruisers and destroyers and submarines. It established a ratio in battleships which ultimately was to be five for us, five for Great Britain and three for Japan, but by the terms of that treaty that ratio was not reached until 1942. In the interval Great Britain was to have a stronger battleship fleet than we were to have. At the present time she has twenty battleships to our eighteen and Japan's ten. For another thing, that treaty provided for a great replacement program of battleship building. Commencing in 1930, Great Britain and ourselves were each to build ten new battleships and Japan was to build six in the course of six years. The effect of that treaty was good in so far as it prevented the building of battleships by anybody between 1922 and 1930 and it had a good effect on international relations as far as it went. But since it limited only some kinds of warships and not others, it had the effect of transferring naval competition from battleships to cruisers and destroyers and submarines as to which the Washington conference was unable to agree. That conference was unable to agree on a ratio for cruisers or destroyers or submarines.

Now let us see what has happened since the Washington conference. Great Britain and Japan have built up very considerable fleets of cruisers while we have stood still. They have built modern destroyers and modern submarines to a far greater extent than we have. Practically speaking our fleet of ships of this nature stands just about where it did at the time of the Washington conference except that it is eight years older.

AMERICA OUTBUILT

When the American delegation went to London in January of this year the American fleet of cruisers consisted of eleven ships in commission, totaling 80,000 tons. The British fleet consisted of fifty-four cruisers totaling 327,000 tons. In other words, the British had more than four times the tonnage of cruisers that we had. The Japanese fleet consisted of twenty-nine ships totaling 166,000 tons, that is to say the Japanese had more than twice the tonnage that we had. I cannot expect you to carry these figures in mind, but it is enough if you will remember that as we met in London the British had four times more tonnage of cruisers and the Japanese had more than twice our tonnage. It is worth while remembering these facts when you hear talk of maintaining the ratio with Great Britain and Japan. There never was a ratio agreed on with these countries in the Washington Treaty with respect to cruisers. Such an agreement was attempted in Washington, but was never arrived at. You cannot "maintain" something that does not exist, either in theory or in fact.

In destroyers and submarines the condition was almost as bad. It is true that we have a large tonnage of destroyers left over from the World War but many of them are obsolete and are on the disposal list. Everyone knows that they would be worthless in war. The British and Japanese fleets of destroyers and submarines are more modern and unless we build far more rapidly than these countries their submarine and destroyer fleets would be far greater than ours by 1936. That was the situation that confronted your delegation when they went to London last January.

IMMEDIATE PARITY GIVEN

Now let us see what the treaty of London actually does. In the first place it provides for immediate parity in battleships with Great Britain and a five-to-three ratio with Japan. The relationship would not otherwise have been attained until 1942. The treaty accelerates parity with Great Britain by eleven years, it requiring Great Britain to scrap five of her battleships, against three to be scrapped by us and one to be scrapped by Japan. The British ships that are to be scrapped have larger guns than ours and are in all respects better vessels than the three old ships which we are to scrap. In the next place the treaty provides that none of us shall build battleships between now and 1936. Inasmuch as a battleship costs to build about $40,000,000 the tax payers of the United States ought to be well satisfied that this expenditure of $400,000,000 on ten unnecessary battleships is being avoided and I have no doubt that the tax payers of Great Britain and Japan feel the same way about the savings that result to them.

Now about cruisers. The treaty provides that cruisers shall be divided into two classes, first, those armed with guns larger than six inches in caliber, and second, those with guns of six inches or less. When we went to London the United States had just one eight-inch gun cruiser in commission, Great Britain had fifteen and Japan had eight. We had an elaborate building program and so had they. If we prefer to consider cruisers both built and building, then the United States had one built and twelve building, five of which had not even had their keels laid down. Great Britain had fifteen built and four building, Japan had eight built and four building. These figures are pretty hard to carry in mind, I know. Perhaps it will help to state it this way: In the large cruisers the United States had thirteen built and building, Great Britain had nineteen and Japan had twelve. Now then, what does the treaty do? It provides that we shall go on through the next six and a half years building up our large cruisers until at the end of the treaty period we have eighteen, of which sixteen are completed and two are practically completed. On the other hand, Great Britain, which now has nineteen such cruisers built and building, reduces that number by scrapping four during the treaty period, so that she comes down to fifteen. You see, then, that we get better than parity with Great Britain and we get exactly five to three in tonnage with Japan.

LOOKS AT LIGHT CRUISERS

Now let us look at the six-inch cruisers. At the present time we have ten such ships in commission and none building. Japan has twenty-one and Great Britain has thirty-nine. Let me repeat these figures again—the United States has ten, Great Britain has thirty-nine and Japan has twenty-one. I am speaking of six-inch cruisers. By the terms of the London treaty the British are reduced from thirty-nine to thirty-five. The Japanese stand still and the American tonnage of such cruisers is permitted to be more than doubled. Does that sound to you as if we had surrendered American interests at London?

Some of the nations tried at London to limit the tonnage of the six-inch cruiser class to 7000 tons per vessel. The American delegation opposed that and in these cruisers that we are to build we have the right to make them of the same tonnage, the same speed and the same cruising radius as the eight-inch cruisers.

You will notice that Senator Johnson made no reference to that.

Senator Johnson has spoken of the treaty as if it were a complete surrender by America. He does not mention the advantages which come from the treaty. Let me tell you some. At the Geneva conference in 1927 an effort was made to limit the cruisers of the world's great navies. That effort failed miserably, largely because Great Britain insisted upon the right to have seventy cruisers. Much to the displeasure of her big navy advocates, she has now agreed to reduce that number from seventy to fifty and that is the limitation imposed upon her by the London conference. And by the way, if admirals change their minds as admirals have been known to do the treaty gives us the option of building fifty ships of the same types and of the same total tonnage as the British cruiser fleet, if we see fit to do so. If that is not parity it would be hard to tell what is. We may on the other hand insist upon our right to build more of the large cruisers than Great Britain so that we will have eighteen to her fifteen with a corresponding reduction in our tonnage of small cruisers.

Senator David A. Reed

It is here that the whole controversy arises. Our naval board wanted the right to build twenty-one big cruisers against the British fifteen, whereas the treaty allows only eighteen for us, against the British fifteen. For the three eight-inch ships which we surrender we have the right to build four large six-inch ships, and this whole controversy in the last analysis comes down to the question of the advantages or disadvantages of that alternative. If there was ever a tempest in a teapot it would seem to be here. The idea is preposterous that a great step forward in the cause of world peace should be rejected because of a disagreement as to the caliber of the guns to be placed on three ships out of our great fleet. To some of you, however, the controversy may seem of sufficient importance to call for a little explanation and, at the risk of being technical, I want to speak for a moment about this six-inch and eight-inch gun dispute. Remember that there is nothing to prevent us in the six-inch cruisers from having the same speed and cruising radius as the eight-inch ships, and that it will be possible to give them somewhat heavier armor than is carried on the eight-inch vessels, because the weight that is not put into guns can be put into armor. The type of six and eight-inch guns now used in the American Navy is excellent. They are both fine weapons from a technical point of view. Each has a muzzle velocity of 3000 feet per second and each has a range so long that the falling shells cannot be spotted or observed from the ship that fires them.

SMALLER GUN BETTER

The range of the 8-inch gun is, of course, longer than that of the 6-inch, but it is useless unless the fire is observed from the air. In a battle between two such cruisers that one which has the control of the air will have the advantages at the long ranges. It is worth remembering, however, that so far as we can discover, no shot has ever been fired in a naval battle in all the world's history at a range of more than 20,000 yards, and the American experts on ordnance and gunnery have advised us without hesitation that under 20,000 yards the 6-inch guns have a great advantage because of their greater rapidity of fire. The 6-inch guns have been fired in battle practice by our fleet as rapidly as eleven shots per minute per gun. The 8-inch, which is machine loaded, cannot be fired faster than two shots per minute. You can readily see how the 6-inch gun has the advantage at such ranges, particularly when you remember that the 6-inch gun can penetrate the armor of any 8-inch cruiser now in existence at ranges up to 20,000 yards. After listening for weeks in this country to naval experts on both sides of the controversy and after continuing these hearings in London with the advisers that accompanied us there, the delegation came unanimously to the conclusion that the provisions of the treaty were preferable to those suggested by the Navy General Board. If we were wrong, the difference in the result is trifling, but we still think we were right.

This is not the first time that it has been necessary to disagree with the Naval General Board. At the Washington conference in 1922 they demanded a minimum of 1,000,000 tons of battleships for the American Navy, but were finally compelled to be content with 525,000.

There is not sufficient time for me to discuss the provisions with regard to destroyers and submarines in the same detail. It must suffice to say that the provisions as to these categories have not evoked the same criticism from the opponents of the treaty that have been levied against the cruiser agreement.

AS TO SUBMARINES

With regard to submarines, however, perhaps I ought to say that it was the position of both Great Britain and of the United States that the submarines had better be abolished entirely because the temptation to misuse it is so strong in war time that we have been fearful that the next war would see a repetition of the same barbarity on the sea that was witnessed in the last war. We were unable to do that because some of the nations at the conference were unwilling to agree with us in abolishing the submarine entirely.

They did join with us, however, in a section of the treaty and this included France and Italy, by the way—providing that in war time submarines should be bound by the same rules of visit and search that bind also that no merchant vessel should be sunk until provision had been made for the safety of the passengers and the crew. And lest there be some doubt about what that meant it was provided that merely putting them in boats, ship's lifeboats, out of sight of land, did not amount to putting them in a place of safety. To that extent we made some progress that we think will be valuable in the next war.

We agreed, Great Britain and ourselves to give Japan parity in submarines at a low figure of 52,700 tons. That calls for the scrapping of about one-third of the present submarine fleet. Now when we remember that submarines do not fight submarines, that you never meet a submarine attack by sending out other submarines, but by sending out destroyers, you can see that the question of ratio is not so important in that category as is the aggregate size of the different navies, and our experts advise us and it seemed true to us that a submarine tonnage of 52,000 tons was sufficient for each of the three of us.

You have doubtless heard it said many times that this treaty forces us to build the kind of ships that Great Britain wants and not the kind that we want, and leaves her free to build the kind of ships that she wants. This is easy to say, but hard to prove. If, as a matter of fact, Great Britain does not want eight-inch cruisers, then you will readily see that the treaty forces her to have fifteen of the kind of ships that she does not want aggregating 146,000 tons, while we are only forced to have 73,000 tons of the kind of ships that we are supposed not to want. Of course, the truth is, and every admiral on both sides of the controversy admits that a certain number of each type are absolutely essential for a balanced fleet. And that is obviously so because the admirals on both sides of this controversy admit that the fleet action for repelling attacks of destroyers and submarines the six-inch cruiser which can be maneuvered quickly and which fires so rapidly is infinitely better for that kind of service than the eight-inch cruiser can possibly be. The whole quarrel then, rages over the relative value of the two types of cruisers, not in the work with the fleet, not in naval battle at all, but in distance raiding and commerce protecting operations.

It is worth remembering also that when the American general board was unhampered by any treaty and could have built eight-inch cruisers if it chose, it built our ten Omahas, which carry only six-inch guns.

ADMIRALS FREE TO SPEAK

And at the beginning of this year, at the time we went to London, of our cruisers eleven were six-inch cruisers of the Omaha class and only one of them was an eight-inch vessel.

The other thing I think perhaps I should mention. There have been many references to the bravery of the admirals who have dared to testify against the naval treaty and have dared to say what they want in the number of cruisers. As a matter of fact, everyone of them, every officer, has been given the utmost freedom to say what he pleased or to write and publish what he pleased for or against the treaty, and it is ridiculous to talk of their being bludgeoned into silence.

One officer that I have in mind has published twenty articles for a newspaper syndicate denouncing the treaty. Another officer has published eleven. Several of them on both the active and the retired list have made speeches at various meetings in different cities. The utmost freedom of expression has been given to those on both sides. And I am sorry, indeed, to find in Senator Johnson's eloquent speech of last night the statement that a few of them took the position that led to favors and preferment, as if anyone who testified on his side deserved great credit, but anyone who testified against him was only looking for favors from the administration. I think that they demand respect, those on both sides. They are a fine body of officers, and we have heard them with respect and I have no doubt that the country, too, will hear them with respect.

Another statement to which I took exception is the statement that all that we have done means no saving to the taxpayers of the country. Obviously, I think you will see that it costs less to build up to parity with a navy that is standing still than it will cost to build up to a navy which is constantly increasing. Great Britain and Japan, in substance, have agreed to stand still during these seven years while we build up past Japan and up to Great Britain. Obviously the treaty course costs less than the unlimited naval competition that we would have without the treaty. And also as I have explained a little while ago, we are saving $400,000,000 on battleship construction alone in the next six years. So I think that it is not in accordance with the facts to say that there is no saving to the taxpayers by this London treaty.

Now if I have not wearied you too much with the statistics and technicalities that I have been talking about let me sum up in a word what this treaty does. It removes competition in naval construction among the three leading naval powers in the world and it does so in every category of ship. It gives all three countries a holiday from battleship building during the next seven years and saves the taxpayers of the United States an outlay of $400,000,000 on replacement of battleships alone. It allows the peoples of these three great nations to rest secure in knowledge that no one of the three can be attacked in its home waters by any navy on earth. It makes it plain to all the world that none of the three countries is designing a war upon either of the others. It promotes to an important degree the international friendship that we all desire. It is opposed in each of the three countries by the big naval party of that country. The same things that were said to you by Senator Johnson last night are being said in London by Admiral Jellicoe, Lord Bridgeman and Mr. Winston Churchill. The same things are being said in Tokio by Admiral Kato and his colleagues. In each of the three countries the same clamor is arising, but in each of the three I am confident that common sense will prevail and that the treaty will be ratified.

House Hunting Made Easy Through Times Ads

Maybe You Could Afford a $10,000.00 Mattress

By DON HEROLD

YOU'LL be in bed one-third the rest of your life. If you live 30 years longer, that will be 10 years in bed.

And maybe you are sleeping on a mattress and springs that aren't worth $17. At that rate, your house, cars, and everything else you use during your waking hours should be worth a total of $34 ...that is, on a time-spent-in-them basis.

Yet you may be a millionaire, for all I know.

It's ridiculous, isn't it?

My point is not only to millionaires. My point is that almost any of us can afford...should afford ...the very best sleeping equipment money can buy...considering we are going to be on it a third of our lives.

And for $100 it is possible to buy a sleeping outfit fit for a king or a billionaire...I mean the "Barkerest" double-deck innerspring and box-spring combination, with a soft cotton "puff" on top of it...all tailored to your own weight. This is the best sleeping equipment made in America ...famous among sophisticated sleepers all over America...and made right here in Los Angeles by Barker Bros.

Blow yourself to the best there is in sleeping equipment. One-third of your life (at least) can be spent in extreme luxury for comparatively little money (the sleeping third). Neither oil barons nor pampered movie stars can sleep any better than you if you're on a "Barkerest" outfit at $100 ...or even less.

RECORDER MUST ANSWER CHARGE

Imperial County Grand Jury Asserts Misconduct

Nine Specific Allegations Against Mrs. Hobdy

District Attorney Told to Begin Mandamus Action

EL CENTRO, June 19.—Citing numerous asserted irregularities involving loss to both the public treasury and to private citizens, the Imperial county grand jury in a preliminary report, signed at 1:30 o'clock this morning, directed Dist.-Atty. Elmer Heald to file mandamus action against County Recorder Bird Hobdy for the recovery of $1476.27.

According to the jury report, this sum represents funds withdrawn from the county treasury on Mrs. Hobdy's approval for the payment of folios which were not actually made. Other asserted shortages in Mrs. Hobdy's accounts amounting to $1816.10 were covered by certified check two days before the grand jury report was completed, it was stated.

Nine specific instances of irregularity were named by the jury and the direct charge of misconduct in office was made. Among the accusations cited in the report is the statement that the recorder received fees in excess of the amount legally chargable for recording documents in some instances, and that refunds were given in the form of postage stamps "furnished her by Imperial county for other purposes, thus defrauding the taxpayers of Imperial county."

Dist.-Atty. Heald was absent from the city today, but it was stated by Deputy C. G. Holliday that civil action against Mrs. Hobdy as directed by the jury, would be started as soon as he returns.

The grand jury conducted an audit of the records in several of the Imperial Valley school districts and reported that "we found a deplorable lack of records and information covering the transactions of the school boards. In the Mt. Signal district we found that no records had been maintained covering the business transactions of the board for sixteen years."

Practically all county officers except the recorder and members of several school boards, were given approval in the report. Judge V. N. Thompson of the Superior Court made a special night trip from San Diego to receive the report early this morning.

Quarrel Over Unborn Child Ends in Murder

SANTA ANA, June 19.—A quarrel over their expected child ended early today when Jesus Ordiz, 27-year-old Placentia laborer, it is charged, murdered Emma Chavez, 20, with whom he had been living, and then tried to end his own life. His attempt at suicide probably will be successful, it was said today at the County Hospital, where little hope was entertained for his recovery.

Although shot twice through the chest and once through the mouth, Ordiz, who was found in a welter of blood beside the woman's body, was able to tell his story to Police Officer Gus Barnes of Placentia, who had forced his way into the house.

Ordiz had been living with Mrs. Chavez, he said, for several months, her husband having deserted her to go to Northern California. The girl, he said simply, had not wanted their child, so he killed her and then tried to kill himself.

San Diego to Set City Budget

SAN DIEGO, June 19.—Work on the municipal budget for the fiscal year by the City Council will begin July 1, it was tentatively agreed by the Auditor and Council today. Auditor C. K. Stout and his deputies have been at work tabulating the estimates of department heads for several weeks.

The tentative budget will be ready within a few days, and it is said that Councilmen intend to go over it and study the needs of various departments ahead of the budget session.

One of the Councilmen said today that he is going to insist on reducing taxes to a minimum, yet he does not believe in wrecking any municipal department by cutting off its funds. He said there should be ample funds to conduct the business of the city.

Judge Gibbs's Hat in Ring

PASADENA, June 19.—Judge Eliot Gibbs, Pasadena township justice of the peace for the past six years, today announced that he will be a candidate for re-election at the August primaries. At the same time he filed with the County Registrar a petition of candidacy signed by thirty leading Pasadenans.

CHAMBER PLANS TO EXHIBIT AT FAIR

GLENDORA, June 19.—Following an appropriation of funds by the City Council last week for an exhibit in the Los Angeles County Fair, a Chamber of Commerce committee will begin immediately making plans for the type of exhibit, according to Julius Jorgensen, secretary. It is planned to make the exhibit larger than that of last year, and an entirely different idea as to the type will be employed, Jorgensen stated.

SONGS WRITTEN FOR HISTORICAL DRAMA

Fannie C. Dillon

SAN BERNARDINO, June 19.—A quintet of new songs written specially for the production by Fannie C. Dillon, well-known composer, will feature the presentation of "Never-the-less Old Glory," spectacular historical drama to be staged July 4, 5 and 6 in the Moonridge Bowl in Bear Valley as a community enterprise.

The composer, who is widely known for her outdoor musical concerts in Bear Valley, had as her collaborating lyricists Margaret E. Talmadge, society leader of the valley; Stephen Chalmers, author of "Take-A-Chance Tamariane," from which the play was adapted by Phil Whiting, the director; and Rita C. Breese, prominent musician.

The entire melodic features of the production will be under the supervision of Miss Dillon as musical director, with Sigurd Fredericksen, Danish-American conductor, leading the orchestra. Whiting is selecting a cast of 150, headed by leading dramatic stars, to present the melodrama, which tells the story of the first Fourth of July celebration in the valley in the '60's, thrown into confusion by the discovery of gold.

High School in Contemplation

LAGUNA BEACH, June 19.—Plans for withdrawing the Laguna Beach High School district from the Tustin High School district and establishing a high school district in Laguna Beach, and the building of two new grammar schools, will be worked out by a committee appointed at a mass meeting held here. A second committee is working on a proposal to add the ninth grade to the grammar school immediately.

The committee, composed of A. B. Marshall, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Roy W. Peacock, president of the Realty Board, and Mrs. May Bishop, is seeking the purchase of five acres of ground adjoining the present grammar school site. It is their plan to secure more acreage and establish the high school in the grammar school plant and erect two new grammar schools, one in the Arch Beach district and the other in the McKnight section. Rev. I. Brahams is chairman of the committee promoting the addition of the ninth grade. Three elections will be required to decide the proposals.

Graduates from the Laguna grammar school, numbering 120, will be obliged to enter Tustin High School unless a change is made prior to that time. Transportation of this number of students thirty miles daily entails great expense besides the additional loss of time and danger in travel. With the establishment of a high school here, students from Dana Point and from the north, would attend here, it is believed.

VETERAN JUSTICE OUT FOR ANOTHER TERM

SAN FERNANDO, June 19.—H. A. Decker, justice of the peace for the San Fernando township, today announced he would ask for re-election. Justice Decker has held the office for twelve years of three terms. He also sat as judge of the Van Nuys Municipal Court for a year or more after that court had been organized. He is a graduate of the University of California and well known here in business and social circles.

BIRDS TAGGED AS POLICEMEN

Avian Fauna Expert Lauds Them at Redlands

"Without Their Good Offices Man Could Not Exist"

Protection Urged for Those Which Eat Insects

REDLANDS, June 19.—"The birds are the policemen of nature, and without their good offices man would be unable to exist."

This statement of their economic value was made today by Rev. Leander S. Keyser before the Knights of the Round Table, where the noted authority on avian fauna of America was luncheon lecturer. Dr. Keyser, who comes from Hamma Theological Seminary, a branch of Wittenberg College, Springfield, O., is recognized as an authority on birds through following that hobby, and has written at least five books of standard recognition on the subject.

Dr. Keyser's studies of birds include those found from the highest point of the Rockies to the Atlantic Ocean, and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. Although not familiar with California birds, yet he immediately recognized a number of familiar songs during the few days he has spent in Redlands, he said.

Among these, he mentioned the mocking bird, the turtle dove, the meadow lark and the song sparrow. While their songs and coloring and habits vary somewhat from their eastern cousins, they are so familiar as to be instantly recognizable. The meadow lark's burbling ecstasy is quite different from the happy whistle of the eastern lark, but the song sparrow, which trills almost as beautifully as the canary, has a song hardly a bit different from that east of the Rocky Mountains.

"Insects were made for the purpose of feeding birds, and birds were made to destroy insects. That happy circle of philosophy is most fortunate," the speaker declared. "The birds leave us their songs and make the world happy as they pass. Without them there would be no foliage or grass, and within a few years, all vegetation would be destroyed by the insects.

"We must protect the insect-eating species of birds, for without them we could not exist. But, also, we must co-operate with the birds, for insect life is so abundant that even birds cannot keep them completely in balance," Rev. Keyser concluded.

Moose May be in Ventura for Labor Day Fete

VENTURA, June 19.—Nearly 1000 members of the Moose lodges from California, Arizona, Nevada, Oregon and Washington will be in Ventura on Labor Day, if tentative plans of the local order and the Southern California Boosters' Association go through, according to Kenneth H. Johnson, past master of the local lodge.

Seaside Park will be the scene of the gigantic Labor Day Moose celebration, which will consist of barbecues, athletic contests, side shows, picnics and an entertainment program, according to advance information.

Officials of the organization from Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino and San Diego are slated to confer here Sunday to definitely decide on the proposed celebrations.

Speed Boat Off Shore Towed in

SANTA BARBARA, June 19.—An unidentified man and woman from San Pedro, the youth being an employee of the Yacht and Motor Sales Company, were being washed out to sea in a small speed boat this morning when they were accidentally sighted by Victor Langner, manager of the Santa Barbara branch of the company, and rescued after drifting for nearly two hours.

They had brought the twenty-foot speed boat up from Wilmington for delivery here to Baron Maximillian Von Romberg and had driven to off Miramar in three hours and ten minutes. According to Langner, they ran out of gasoline in the kelp beds about a mile off shore. They attempted to call and signal for aid, but to no avail. They had continued to drift out to sea when Langner sighted the tiny skiff bobbing up and down in the kelp beds off shore. He chartered a boat and rescued the couple.

CITY TO FIGHT FOR SITE

San Diego to Contest to Bitter End Litigation for Ownership of El Capitan Reservoir Location

SAN DIEGO, June 19.—The contest before the Interior Department at Washington for possession of the El Capitan reservoir site is to be fought by the city to the bitter end, it was decided today at a conference between legal representatives of the city. Called into the conference with Deputy City Attorney C. L. Byers was former City Attorney T. H. Cosgrove, now of Los Angeles and former City Attorney Shelly J. Higgins, who had charge of the preparation of the proceedings before the Interior Department and Congress which gave to the city the right to the lands occupied by the El Capitan Indians for reservoir purposes.

The order of the Interior Department was on conditions that were named for the city to meet. It is the contention of the La Mesa Irrigation District at this time that these conditions have not been met and it was upon notification of the Secretary of the Interior that the city officials learned that the charges of the irrigation district are now before the department and that it would be necessary for the city to make a showing in reply.

The nature of this showing is to be determined at the conference of attorneys being held today and it is likely that Deputy City Attorney Byers will prepare to leave at once for Washington to present this showing and to meet the charges of the irrigation district directors, who, it is said, are already represented there by their counsel, A. J. Lee.

EXPOSITION BUILDING READY

Structure Placed in Irvine Park for County Exhibits

Orange County Products Will be Shown Here

ORANGE, June 18.—The Orange County Industrial Exposition Building located in Irvine Park is now completed and exhibits of the various industrial products of the county are being installed.

Already twenty-seven of the leading industries have taken space and furnished exhibits. The space is provided free as are also the maintenance of the building and contents. A sufficient number of other industries of the county have applied for space to practically utilize all the available room.

These exhibits are placed in wall show cases that extend around the entire interior, a distance of 152 lineal feet. In floor show cases will be placed wax facsimiles of the various horticultural and agricultural products of the county, while large holders in book form, attached to supporting columns, will contain photographed illustrations of every part of the county.

Irvine Park is the name now given to Orange County Park in honor of the donor, James Irvine, Sr., who gave this 160-acre live-oak forest to the county.

Japanese Give Cherry Trees to Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, June 18.—One hundred Japanese cherry trees today were offered as a gift to the city by the Santa Barbara Japanese Association as an expression of gratitude and affection for the city and in the hope of promoting good citizenship among the younger generation of Japanese. Steps have been taken to import the trees from Japan.

The offer of the trees was made to Mayor T. R. Finley in a letter from Matakichi Watanabe, president of the association. The letter states: "May we have the honor of taking liberty of expressing our congratulations of and appreciation of your great achievement in the recent development of the city under your administration. We, the Japanese residents in Santa Barbara and vicinity, have been enjoying our well being and prosperity. The friendly attitude of the city toward our fellow-countrymen has always been remembered. Accordingly, as our expression of gratitude and affection to the city, and hoping to promote good citizenship among our children, we would like to present to the city of Santa Barbara 100 young plants of Japanese cherry blossom, to be planted on any suitable place.

"We believe that these trees, as the years go by, will make this beautiful city still more beautiful, and in the springtime when they blossom will multiply the pleasure not only of the residents of the city but also of the tourists who will pass through from north and south."

Twelve Enter Race for Place on Directorate

VENTURA, June 19.—Twelve candidates were in the running today for the board of six directors of the Ventura Chamber of Commerce at the annual election the 30th inst.

The even dozen were chosen yesterday at the conclusion of a primary ballot among the 300 members in which 118 votes were cast.

They are John Lagomarsino, Dr. B. K. Kerr, W. W. Bernhardt, Dr. J. A. Deserpa, L. N. Diedrich, Theodore Groene, L. R. Byers, J. E. Hirschfelder, J. H. Hinsdale, William B. Ford, W. O. Hedley and Dr. G. C. Coffey.

The new directors will join five holdovers, which will make a total of eleven members on the board. The holdovers are J. E. Baker, J. C. P. Moore, J. E. Rains, Roy Pinkerton and W. H. Glover.

Boy Scouts to Camp at Prado

UPLAND, June 19.—Lex R. Lucas of Upland, Chaffey District Boy Scout executive, announced today plans for the first annual camp-o-ral, to be held at Prado on the Santa Ana River Friday and Saturday this week. All Scouts of Old Baldy Council will participate in the overnight camp. Camp will be pitched on the river bank at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and judges will inspect their tents, equipment, cooking and beds.

A general camp-fire program is planned for the evening. Competition is resumed Saturday morning and from 9 to 11 o'clock the boys participate in mystery contests. A prize will be awarded. Camp closes at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. At this camp-o-ral, the boys will make final plans for the annual Scout outing at Camp Tulakes in San Bernardino Mountains.

CITY ENGINEER WILL GET SMALL SALARY

HERMOSA BEACH, June 19.—Under a resolution made effective by the City Council yesterday, salary for the City Engineer was fixed at $50 a month retainer fee, with an allowance of 5 per cent on contract jobs and $15 a day on construction work on which there is no contract. The position held by Charles Saunders formerly paid $235 a month, and the new measure is being adopted as an economy move.

'John Doe' Pilot Charged With Low-Stunting

RIVERSIDE, June 19.—Riverside county's first asserted offender of the flying laws is expected to be taken into custody at San Diego on a warrant. Shortly after ranchers of the Highgrove area today complained to the Sheriff's office here that an aviator was skimming the trees and stunting much too low for comfort, Stephen Lynch, Sheriff's secretary and special aid officer for the county, was on his way to the vicinity to witness the aerial antics.

Lynch arrived in time to catch the plane's number and designation, —NC-825-K—and a check through airplane registrations showed the plane the property of the Ryan Aviation School of San Diego.

A John Doe warrant charging the pilot with violations of Sections 2 and 3, governing low flying and stunting below the legal height limit, was sworn out in Justice of the Peace Garner's Highgrove court by John B. Bellezza, one of the ranchers greatly perturbed by the flyer's playfulness.

"The aeronautical law prohibits a flyer from coming below 1000 feet over a settled district and 500 in an open ranch territory, except in landing and in times of low ceiling," said Lynch. "Stunting, of course, is prohibited over towns and cities, and is permitted only at a height greater than 1000 feet in the open country."

Lynch was designated as the official air officer of the county by Sheriff Sweeters recently when the State and Federal aeronautical departments inaugurated a program for more rigid enforcement of the flying laws.

Administration Building Will be Remodeled

REDLANDS, June 19.—Extensive remodeling of the Administration Building of the University of Redlands, the first of the college buildings erected in 1909, was begun today.

The long line of cement steps flanked by adjacent walls will be torn out on the front and rear of the building to make way for a beautiful new approach of art stone steps and walls. This repair is made necessary through constant of a part of the gorund under the steps and by the constant and hard usage which this building has received as the original college structure.

In the interior of the building repairs and changes will be made on all three floors. The business offices are to be enlarged to take in the former class room of Prof. Collins and to allow for the transacting of all student business in the side corridors instead of in the main hall way. The office of the student adviser will be moved across the hall to occupy the front of the business office and the dean of women will be given the office now occupied by the adviser.

New offices on the main floor will be arranged for the university recorder, the director of publicity, the secretary to the president, and the director of the school of education. In the basement floor enlarged class rooms and offices will be provided for the department of geology and the department of philosophy while the top floor will be changed to meet the needs of the school of education.

Plans are being made for the equipping of the new $175,000 Hall of Letters, which will be ready for occupancy September 1.

Equines Cause of Death, Hurts

ONTARIO, June 19.—Two mules and one horse caused two injuries and one death in three separate mishaps in this district, it was reported today. Jacques Espitallier, 64-year-old ranch worker, died of injuries received when a horse turned on him and kicked him in the chest and abdomen. A Coroner's jury pronounced the death accidental. C. Omagni, 41, of Guasti was taken to San Antonio Community Hospital to have a fractured wrist treated caused when a mule he was driving on a scraper became frightened and ran away. The handle of the scraper crashed against the wrist, fracturing the bone. Peter Ferrero, 19, also of Guasti, was driving a mule hitched to another scraper. It also became alarmed and ran away. The scraper handle struck Ferrero in the chest, necessitating a trip to the hospital.

NEW LIBRARIAN NAMED

NEWPORT BEACH, June 19.—Miss Wilma Lineman of Pasadena, librarian, was named City Librarian to succeed Mrs. Elizabeth Douglas, resigned. The City Council made the appointment and allowed $125 per month salary. The library, which was formerly open from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m., will now be open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mrs. Douglas has been librarian here for many years. Miss Lineman will begin her duties on July 1 and Mrs. Douglas will leave on July 18.

San Diego May Get Fountain

SAN DIEGO, June 19.—Efforts are being made by Congressman Phil D. Swing to secure for Balboa Park a beautiful bronze fountain sent from France for the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition in 1876 and later exhibited in the Botanical Gardens at Washington, according to John S. Siebert, president of the San Diego chapter of the American Institute of Architects, who has returned from the National Architects convention in the capital.

The fountain was designed by Bartholdi, who also designed the Statue of Liberty, according to Siebert. The latter noted its absence from the Botanical Gardens, which are being relocated, and suggested to Swing that it might be secured for San Diego. "Swing promised to do everything in his power to help," said Siebert.

BACCALAUREATE SET

BELL, June 19.—The annual baccalaureate address for the graduating class of the Bell High School will be delivered Sunday night in the Bell Memorial Presbyterian Church by Rev. Carl Miller, pastor of the Friends Church of Bell. No evening services will be held at any of the other Protestant churches in this city and Maywood on that evening. The class this year has ninety-two members.

MONROVIA ECONOMY CONTINUES

Pursuing Program Begun Two Weeks Ago, Council Effects More Changes

MONROVIA, June 19.—Furthering their program of economy inaugurated two weeks ago with the resignations of the building inspector and city electrician, the City Council has reached an agreement with Henry S. Gierlich, City Engineer, whereby Gierlich will resign his office, to be effective July 1, and will be retained only in the capacity of consulting engineer, it was revealed today.

The agreement sets forth that Gierlich will be employed by the city as consulting engineer for six months, beginning July 1, at a salary of $100 a month, and that Gierlich will be on call five days a month for forty hours, and each call must be made by a majority of the Council. If at any other time when he is called he will be paid at the rate of $2.50 an hour.

Mayor George Williams declared today that Gierlich has been wanting to make this change for some time, since it is his desire to assume outside projects as consulting engineer. For the past few months he has been employed only on part time by the city, officials stated.

A successor to be in active charge of the engineer's office was not revealed by the board, although it is believed that Garth H. Duell, deputy city engineer, will handle the routine work of the office. The economy program was adopted by the City Council last month when they requested the resignations of M. L. Hutchinson, city building inspector, and Paul H. Jones, city electrician. On July 1 these two offices will be consolidated, but the identity of the appointee has not yet been revealed.

Filipinos Plan Accommodation For Delegates

SANTA MARIA, June 19.—Since Los Angeles and vicinity alone are expected to send more than 5000 delegates, plans have just been disclosed to house visitors to the Santa Maria State convention of the Filipino Federation of America early next month in neighboring cities.

To furnish adequate accommodations for the throng of 15,000 expected to attend, Dr. Hilario C. Moncado, the president has authorized arrangements to house the delegates from various branches in San Luis Obispo, Pismo Beach and other near-by municipalities during the convention sessions, from July 3 to July 9, inclusive.

Dr. Moncado is scheduled to speak at the annual convention banquet on July 8 at the Santa Maria Club, on "Filipinos of Today and Their American Rule," and on July 9 in the Santa Maria High School Auditorium on "Filipinos of Tomorrow and Their Filipino Rule."

Defendant in Suit "Non Est"

SANTA BARBARA, June 19.—The unusual incident of having a jury impaneled and testimony under way when it was discovered that the defendant of the suit was nonexistant or not responsible, occurred in Superior Court this afternoon.

It was in the damage suit of Mrs. Mollie C. Curry against the Pickwick Stages, Inc. According to Attorney Atwell W twick, the proper defendant should be the Pickwick Stage System in this suit. Mrs. Currie was suing to recover damages asserted to have been received in an accident while riding on a passenger bus.

Following a ten day argument, Judge William D. Dehy in Superior Court dismissed the jury and granted a continuance in the suit until September to permit the attorneys to determine the proper defendant and to prepare arguments to amend the complaint.

Eberly Resigns Two Positions

ARCADIA, June 19. — For four years an active member of the Arcadia Library Board and City Planning Commission, G. S. Eberly has severed connections with both organizations and submitted his resignations to the City Council last night. Eberly stated no reason for his resignations and the City Council deferred any action in the matter until the next meeting, on July 7.

FRESH AIR CAMP OPENS

Salvation Army Institution at Redondo Beach Begins Summer Season With High Officers Present

REDONDO BEACH, June 19.—Ceremonies attendant upon the formal opening of the Salvation Army fresh air camp here for the season took place today and were marked by the presence of Commissioner Adam Gifford and other department heads. Commissioner Gifford, commanding officer of the Salvation Army in the eleven Western States and the Hawaiian Islands, in company with Brig. James C. Bell, division commander for Southern California, and visitors made an inspection of the camp where 2500 mothers and children will be cared for throughout the summer.

Commissioner Gifford pronounced the camp one of the outstanding activities of the army, affording an opportunity for welfare work far beyond that of an ordinary institution.

The camp was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Dabney of Los Angeles, and the appreciation of the organization was again voiced by Commissioner Gifford in his visit today.

Under the plan of the Salvation Army, mothers and children are brought to the camp for an average stay of a week. Undernourished children are given especial care and mothers are instructed in home management and child welfare in order that the work may continue throughout the year. Transportation, board, room and care are furnished without cost.

A full program of athletics, hikes, swimming and supervised games is announced for the camp for this summer, with Kenneth Bell, son of Brig. Bell, as director of athletics. With the army leaders at luncheon today were 100 boys and girls, making up the first group to enjoy the hospitality of the army this summer.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19. (AP)—Heavy weather prevailing off the California coast has delayed shipping considerably and some of the fastest Pacific ships were delayed several hours in arriving here today. The Matson, from Honolulu, arrived more than two hours behind time; the Chichibu Maru, from the Orient, scheduled as an early morning arrival, slipped into quarantine a few minutes ahead of the sunset gun; and radio messages received from the President Monroe, engaged in the California-Manila-Singapore service, revealed she will not arrive until late tomorrow, rather than her morning scheduled time.

On his regular annual business trip to the New York office of the company, Leo E. Archer, Pacific Coast manager of the Panama Pacific Line, will leave Saturday on the company's liner The California. The California, in command of Capt. V. Richardson, will leave with a large list of passengers.

SEATTLE, June 19.—Joseph Sheedy, former shipbuilding leader here, now president of the United States Lines Operations, Inc., which is considering a shipbuilding program involving an expenditure of about $90,000,000, will arrive from New York the 28th inst. on a tour of the country, shipping men were notified today.

Laden with supplies for posts of the United States Bureau of Education in Alaska, the auxiliary schooner Boxer will sail tomorrow. She will make a later trip this summer to Point Barrow.

With about 100 California and 125 University of Washington Naval Reserve Corps cadets aboard, the U.S.S. Idaho sailed yesterday on a training cruise to Hawaii.

PORTLAND, June 19.—An old Emergency Fleet corporation outfitting dock, one of the few remaining tangible traces of Portland's wartime shipbuilding activity, is being wrecked because the City Fire Marshal considers the structure a fire menace. The structure, which was built as part of the campaign to check the German submarine menace, has been little used during the last ten years.

TACOMA, June 19.—The new Danish East Asiatic motorship Amerika arrived from Europe today on her maiden voyage, carrying a small amount of general freight, and is loading doors, plywood and lumber as return cargo. She will shift to Seattle tomorrow afternoon for additional cargo and is scheduled to depart for Portland Saturday night.

The Furness liner Pacific Trader arrived from Olympia today and loaded 200 tons of copper. The vessel sailed for Glasgow late today.

ment of living standards and consuming power of peoples everywhere; when our tariff and our treaties are made to evidence this spirit—because we are under suspicion now—then we may hope for effective plans for farm relief, for reduction of our surplus of raw materials and manufactured goods, for relief of unemployment and what is most important of all, a better spirit of all nations toward us and toward each other."

William A. Prendergast, former chairman of the Public Service Commission of New York, defended State regulation of utilities. In the regulation of capital issues, he said, State commissions have "performed a substantial public service not only to the public but to the utilities themselves."

COST OF DOLLAR

In an address on "The Electric Dollar," Edwin Cruhl, vice-president of the association, pointed out the "cost of living dollar" has a buying power of only 58 cents compared to 1914, while the "electric dollar" has a value of $1.36 compared to 1914.

Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Company, Chicago, discussing "holding companies and their relation to regulation," declared if it had not been for the holding companies operating companies could never have carried on.

MACDONALD BID REFUSED BY BALDWIN

Unemployment Parley Participation Declined for Conservatives

LONDON, June 19. (AP)—Political circles today were informed that former Premier Baldwin has sent a letter to the Prime Minister declining Mr. MacDonald's invitation to a three-party conference on unemployment.

It is understood the chief reason for the Conservative leader's refusal is the government's declining to consider a more general application of safeguarding as a remedy for the present industrial depression.

Former Premier Lloyd-George, on behalf of the Liberals, announced in the House of Commons yesterday he had accepted the invitation.

POWER SELLERS DEFEND PRICES

Tidd Answers Sackett's "Fifteen-to-One" Speech

Draws Analogy With Charge for Water Supply

Cost to Consumer Declared Universal Problem

BERLIN, June 19. (AP)—A spokesman for the power industry tonight answered the speech made yesterday by Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett, in which the Ambassador said in effect the cost of power to the consumer was fifteen times that of the cost of production.

"The cost of a banana on the tree," asserts a statement issued by George N. Tidd, president of the American Gas and Electric Company, "is infinitesimal, yet by the time it has been gathered and reached the fruit stand the ratio is nearer 1500 to 1 than 15 to 1, and similar examples are common in all kinds of industries.

"The electrical industry is by no means the only, or even the most striking, example of this great difficulty (of the spread between production cost and the cost to the consumer.) In nearly every industry the cost of distributing and selling is much greater than the initial cost of production."

DISTRIBUTION COSTS

Although he attacked Mr. Sackett's logic, Tidd was calm in his references to the Ambassador, whose speech was the storm center of the conference for a while. He conceded that "Ambassador Sackett has earned the gratitude of electrical engineers by drawing the attention of the public to the high cost of distributing electricity, which those engineers for years have been attempting to reduce. This is, as the Ambassador indicated, one of the vital problems which have engaged the attention of our electrical supply companies for the last decade."

Stating that the problem of cutting distribution costs is universal, the statement continues:

"Perhaps the best analogy is in the supply of water for domestic use. The cost of production when the water is in the hills is nothing, but by the time it has been collected and purified and transmitted to domestic users high expenses inevitably have been incurred.

RATIO ARBITRARY

"There is a continuous chain of costs in the process of producing electrical energy from water in the hills or coal in the mines. By choosing any particular point in this chain for calculating the cost of production, any ratio you like can be obtained. The selling price may be not fifteen, but probably 150 times, if not 1500 times, the cost of water in the lake.

Mr. Sackett's speech was delivered yesterday despite objections to the "fifteen-to-one" portion by Samuel Insull, utility man of Chicago. After Mr. Insull's protests were received the Embassy issued orders to hold up advance copies of the speech, but later canceled them and the address was delivered in full.

OLYMPIAD BONDS SOLD TO BAY CITY CONCERN

SACRAMENTO, June 19. (AP)—Ten bond and investment companies bid for the purchase of $900,000 worth of 4½ per cent California Olympiad bonds, they were sold to Weeden & Co., San Francisco, at a premium of $54,578, by State Treasurer Johnson today. The money will be used to finance the Olympic Games to be held in Los Angeles in 1932.

SMUGGLER KILLED IN BORDER FIGHT

EL PASO, June 19. (AP)—An unidentified Mexican was killed last night near the Rio Grande, two miles south of San Elizario, in a gun battle between Mexican smugglers and United States mounted customs inspectors. Another Mexican who escaped across the river is believed to have been wounded.

FEDERAL POWER MEASURE READY

House Takes Final Action on Conference Report

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—Reorganization of the Federal Power Commission into an independent agency of five commissioners to devote their entire time to the administration of the nation's water-power resources was assured today when Congressional action was completed on legislation relieving the present organization.

Final action by the House on the conference report of a Senate bill marked the fulfillment of another request of President Hoover in his annual message to Congress.

The reorganization will become effective after three of the commissioners have assumed their posts. Not more than three may come from one political party and the appointments are from one to five years successively. Each is to receive $10,000 annually.

MAGICAL RADIO PAPER OF FUTURE DESCRIBED

MILWAUKEE, June 19. (AP)—Frank Parker Stockbridge, veteran of fifty years in journalism, today looked fifty years into the future and gave his forecast of what the newspaper of that day may be like.

Drawing on recent scientific achievements as the basis for his picture, he told the National Editorial Association that the horoscope hints at these things:

The editor will receive his quota of general news, general advertising, pictures and features by radio, in facsimile, automatically, by means of machines.

He will set his own local advertisements, "perhaps by methods which we have not even guessed at."

His local news and comment will be written by his reporters, subeditors and correspondents, each of whom will operate a keyboard either in the office or miles away, the impulses of which will put what is written in type.

The pages of the paper will be transmitted by radio to subscribers, and reproduced on sensitized paper. "All the subscriber will see will be the completed paper rolling out of the machine, ready for him to take it out and read it."

Mr. Stockbridge, editor of "The American Press," saw an alliance between radio and the newspapers in the new day, but expressed belief that radiocasting of news as now carried on—read by an announcer—never can supplant the printed page.

HOOVER BORDER PLAN OPPOSED

Unified Patrol Fought on Tariff Grounds

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—President Hoover's proposal for a unified border patrol is confronted with vigorous opposition in the House led by Representative Clancy, Republican, Michigan, who charges it will work hardships on thousands of Americans and nullify beneficial navigation and tariff law provisions.

A protest was lodged with Republican House leaders by the Michigan member in an effort to prevent its consideration.

The measure was given legislative preference and is to be considered next week.

A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

At last Jane summoned courage to undertake the ordeal of continuing her journey through the jungle. Descending from the tree, she set out in a southerly direction, hoping to come by chance upon a roving band of the Waziri huntsmen. The day was half spent when there broke unexpectedly upon her startled ears the sound of a rifle shot not far ahead of her. As she paused to listen, this first shot was followed by another and another and another. What could it mean? She dared not advance nearer to see.

After listening for several minutes, she became convinced that no more than two or three rifles were engaged in the fight. As the shots ceased, she heard two men calling to each other in loud tones. Then there was a long silence which was finally broken by the stealthy padding of footfalls on the trail ahead of her. Then a man appeared in view backing toward her, a rifle ready in his hands, his eyes directed in careful watchfulness along the way that he had come. And almost instanly Jane Clayton recognized the man.

It was "M. Jules Precoult" who so recently had been a guest in her home. She was on the point of calling to him in glad relief when she saw him leap aside and hide beside the trail. Scarcely had he done so than the figure of a white-robed Arab crept silently along the trail in pursuit. From her hiding place, Jane Clayton could see both men plainly. She recognized Achmet Zek as the leader of the band of ruffians who had raided her home and made her a prisoner. And she saw "Precoult," the supposed friend and ally, raise his gun.

He took careful aim at the Arab. Her heart stood still and every power of her soul was directed upon a prayer for the accuracy of his aim. Achmet Zek paused in the middle of the trail. His tall figure presented a perfect target to the perfidious assassin. There was a sharp report, a puff of smoke and Achmet Zek pitched forward, face down, upon the ground. As Werper stepped out from the bush, he was startled by a glad cry from above him and was astounded as a woman dropped from a tree and ran toward him.

ELLA CINDERS — Left In the Lurch — By Bill Conselman and Ch

Ella is in jail on a trumped up charge of child-stealing filed by the wicked Mrs. Cole, step-grandmother of Giggles. Giggles is in a foundling home under a false name. Cole is in Canada looking for his son whom he disinherited.
LAUGH AT YOUR TROUBLES, IF YOU CAN! I WOULD—ONLY MINE AREN'T FUNNY! STILL, I'M SAFE IN JAIL AND NOTHING COULD BE SAFER! ALL I HOPE IS THAT GIGGLES IS SAFE AT HOME!
A WORD TO THE WISE IS SUFFICIENT, BUT A WORD TO THE FOOLISH IS MORE EFFICIENT! MY UNSUSPECTING HUSBAND MUST NEVER SUSPECT WHAT'S HAPPENED TO ELLA AND THE BABY, SO I'LL LEAVE WORD TO THROW HIM OFF THE TRACK!
My dear husband: It breaks my heart to write these lines, but I am going away to forget them. Ella Cinders, the girl you paid $50,000 for the recovery of your grandchild, has stolen her again and disappeared. She left no trace, as it is useless for them to search for them. I have done everything possible, and now I am off to Europe for the summer. Be brave. Your sorrowful wife, Luretta Cole

TREND IN PRICES UNCERTAIN

Public Fails to Participate in Rally; Tendency is for Investors to Adopt Cautious Attitude

BY EARLE K. CROWE

Stocks rallied yesterday, but at the close the trend of the market still was uncertain. There was nothing of the dash and enthusiasm in the recovery of prices to suggest the public was actively bargain-hunting. The performance had more of the ear-marks of professional sponsorship by banking interests.

Apparently the public is willing to buy stocks, but only at its own prices. The increasing discussion of bear market possibilities has made people cautious, and it is not likely that rallies will be followed very far by the rank and file of traders and investors. The disposition evidently is to look for better bargains than have so far been offered.

NEWS LACKING

If yesterday's rally should continue through today the recovery will probably draw more support from the public. But it is difficult to visualize a pronounced rebound unless favorable news is developed, and right now this possibility appears rather remote.

Neither are the so-called long purses opening up very fast to reach upward for stocks. The seasoned investors and investment groups are well aware of the scores of attractive stocks that can be picked up around current prices, yet there evidently is some doubt in the minds of these people of the advisability of acting now. Very likely they hope for the establishment of a lower point of stabilization than was believed to exist ten days ago.

Probably the hesitancy of many of the large-scale investors is traceable to a tendency to revise ideas on investment returns and price-earnings ratios. The idea is growing in favor that stocks are coming back to the 1924 standards to discount the beginning of a new economic cycle. For this reason the thoughtful investors are looking carefully into comparative yields to determine when to act in the purchase of stocks.

Some groups of stocks are already down or close to the prebull market levels and others are still above the old prices. A reasonable assumption is, however, that the prebull market levels will not be fully duplicated because of the notable improvement in the succeeding years of corporate financial positions.

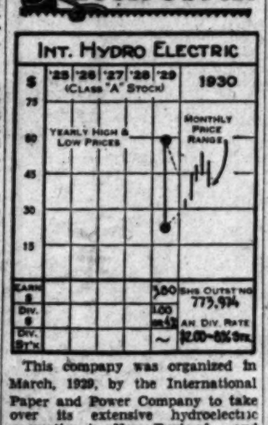
BOND PLAY POSSIBLE

If the old order of things is to be restored for the time being, it would be logical to expect a broader demand for bonds in the next few months. Already there is a drift noticeable of small investors, especially women, from common stocks into bonds and preferred stocks. One large public utility reported yesterday a brisk inquiry for its senior securities.

Assuming the stock market will be dull, the bond cycle will swing from the high grade to the standard grade, semispeculative and speculative issues, following the reconciliation of investment yields with the price of capital.

High-grade common stocks will always be in demand, but if the bond market is to take precedence for the next few months the chances of a booming stock market are not bright. The better supposition would point to a 1931 common stock market.

WHAT'S BEHIND YOUR STOCK



This company was organized in March, 1929, by the International Paper and Power Company to take over its extensive hydroelectric properties in New England and Eastern Canada. The New England Power Association, with 82 per cent of its stock owned by International Hydroelectric, serves a large part of New England with electric service through its operating subsidiaries or through wholesale distribution to local companies on contract. Among the 250 New England communities served, the principal cities included are Providence, Lowell, Worcester, Fall River, Lawrence and Quincy. The Canadian Hydroelectric Corporation, Ltd., is 100 per cent controlled by International Hydroelectric and handles the company's power and utility enterprises in Quebec, New Brunswick and Ontario.

For the twelve months ended March 30, 1930, a net income of $2,944,638 was reported. This was equivalent to $3.80 per share on the Class A stock outstanding. It is understood that earning power will be considerably enhanced after October of this year when the company will start furnishing the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston with 100,000,000 kilowatt-hours per year from its new development at Fifteen Mile Falls on the upper Connecticut River.

YOUNG FOR CHAIN BANKING

Governor of Federal Reserve System Favors Pole Plan in Minnesota Address

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, June 19.—Governor Roy A. Young of the Federal Reserve Board championed trade-area branch-banking before the Minnesota Bankers' Association.

The Governor said that 88 per cent of the 5000 banks which failed during the nine years prior to June 30, 1929, had less than $100,000 capital each, and as a result of this condition, while admitting that experience with group banking so far "has been too limited to permit us to be dogmatic," he favors the Pole plan of extension of branch banking within certain definite trading zones.

"I think that the logic of events forces us to conclude that branch banking within limited area is a reasonable concession to make to the present-day conditions, which must be met," the Governor said in his address. "Beyond this limited concession, I preserve an open mind in the hope that a timely experience will help us develop the right kind of a banking system for our changing economic world."

The difficulty in the matter, Gov. Young thinks, is in defining the definite trade-areas. "None of us as yet have been able to do so," he said.

In this column quite recently the question of whether any executive is worth $1,000,000 a year in salary to any corporation was discussed. Opinions differed, as was to be expected. But what about million-dollar fees?

This week two fee contest cases have appeared in the business world. Disputes as to the value of the services rendered, have brought them into public attention.

William Van Alen, architect of the new $14,000,000 Chrysler Building in New York, is demanding for his services a 6 per cent fee ($865,000) on the total cost of this new seventy-seven-story skyscraper. This charge—6 per cent—is that established by the American Institute of Architects, although many architects charge as high as 10 per cent of the total cost.

Mr. Chrysler, believing such a fee too large, offered $175,000—or a little over 1 per cent. But how much is such service worth?

Another case is that of Wayne Johnson, former solicitor of the United States Internal Revenue Bureau, who claims a fee of $5,000,000 for obtaining an income tax refund of $33,000,000 for the United States Steel Corporation.

Was it worth $5,000,000 to the United States Steel Company to secure a refund on its income tax of $33,000,000 from the United States government? This is the question. The late Judge Gary, then chairman, was to determine the fee of Mr. Johnson. But the judge's death held the matter up.

Today a $1,000,000 fee is not unusual, and scores of them are contracted and paid every year in the business world.

STOCK MARKET GLOOM LIFTED

Good Buying Support Turns Prices Upward

Losses of Previous Day More Than Recovered

Action of Market Viewed as Mainly Technical

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—Trading in securities and commodities assumed a more cheerful aspect today as the markets rebounded from Wednesday's gloomy depths. Stocks, as measured by the indices, more than recovered the loss of yesterday, while wheat, cotton and corn were much firmer. Bonds, aided by another reduction in time money, made some progress.

So far as stocks were concerned, the improvement seemed to be largely technical, a normal reaction from the recent, strenuous selling which had been severe enough to intimidate holders of the short position and to encourage support from influential quarters. Most observers preferred to withhold judgment until it could be learned how much of the stock bought on the rally would be held and how the list would react to profit taking. Commission-house opinion was divided as to whether the bottom had been reached and continued to advise in and out traders to be cautious.

BANK CUTS RATE

The New York Federal Reserve Bank's reduction in the rediscount rate to 2½ per cent, the lowest point in the history of the system, was a surprise. The local bank has been more or less acting with the Bank of England in the matter of rate cuts, but today's step was taken without a corresponding move in London.

In recent months, with money available in almost unlimited supply on an exceedingly favorable basis, the financial community has not been so interested in the rediscount figures except in so far as it is a barometer of the general situation.

Coincident with the announcement of the downward revision came a further concession in bankers' acceptance rates, amounting to 1-8 of 1 per cent on all maturities to the lowest levels in six years. Short-maturity time money was pared 1-4 of 1 per cent, with sixty to ninety-day loans at 2 3-4 per cent flat, also the lowest in some time.

LOAN TOTAL DROPS

Brokers' loans were anybody's guess in this spectacular week. The decline of $211,000,000, the most extensive this year, was more than double the drop of the previous week and carried the total down to $3,787,000,000 compared with $5,420,000,000 a year ago. The largest decrease was in the loans for out-of-town banks, which were off $147,000,000, while those for the account of others shrank $115,000,000. New York City member bank loans, however, rose $51,000,000.

The weekly Federal Reserve statement showed a decline of $15,000,000 in open-market purchases of bills, a gain of about $19,000,000 in holdings of United States government securities, but almost no change in the total of bills and securities.

ADVANCE STEADY

Stocks opened higher and with only brief interruptions occasioned by minor profit taking, the advance was sustained throughout the day

Gotham Broker Failure Going to Grand Jury

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—Asst. Dist.-Atty. Hastings announced this afternoon charges that Woody & Co., New York Stock Exchange brokerage house which failed today had accepted payment for securities which were not delivered, would be presented to the grand jury for investigation.

Suspension of Woody & Co. from the New York Stock and Curb exchanges for insolvency was announced this morning at the opening of trading, following notice from the concern of its inability to meet its obligations. This is the first failure since the crash of last November. The company has no out-of-town offices.

Later in the day, in involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against the company by three customers claiming a total due on their accounts of approximately $88,000. The Irving Trust Company was appointed receiver. Assets are estimated at more than $200,000.

Pig'n Whistle Sales in May Show Increase

May sales of the Pig'n Whistle Company, following up successive monthly gains over corresponding periods of the preceding year, reached a total of $332,634, against $298,416 in May, 1929, an increase of 11.47 per cent, Sidney Hoedemaker, vice-president and general manager, announced yesterday.

Net earnings of the company for its fiscal year to end the 30th inst. will be at least as great as in the preceding fiscal year, with the outlook for the summer season unusually favorable in view of the fact that income will be increased by the new stores which were started in the winter, Mr. Hoedemaker said.

Sales for the twelve months ended May 21 represented a gain of 5.7 per cent. A new unit is expected to open in the Granada Theater Building, San Francisco, about September 15. There are more than twenty restaurants in the chain which include bakery and candy shops. These are distributed throughout the Coast with the majority in Los Angeles and Southern California.

CHAPMAN'S PROFITS AND SALES GAIN

Gross sales of Chapman's Ice Cream Company for the first five months of the year totaled $222,-596.88 as against $210,430.84 for the same period last year while net profits before Federal taxes amounted to $31,459.12 as against $27,-967.42, a gain of 12½ per cent, according to a statement issued yesterday by A. A. Comey, president. Six new stores have been opened this year and three more will be added soon, the expansion being paid for out of surplus earnings. The regular quarterly dividend of 31 1-4 cents will be paid July 15, next, to stock of record the 25th inst.

EARNINGS ON WALL BOARD OUTPUT GAIN

Net Increase for Year of $73,082 Reported by Schumacher Concern

Net profits of Schumacher Wall Board Corporation for the fiscal year closed April 30, last, amounted to $163,206.68 after all charges, including taxes, equal after preferred dividends to $1.47 a share on 66,000 common shares outstanding, stockholders were told yesterday at the annual meeting of the company.

These earnings, it was stated, are greatly in excess of those of previous years. They compare with $90,-124.16 reported for the preceding year, equal to 36 cents a share on the same capital basis, and represent an increase of $73,064.52, or $1.05 per cent. Preferred dividends totaled $66,000.

Directors meeting after the close of the annual meeting discussed placing the common stock on a dividend basis, but, due to the illness of A. R. Moylan, vice-president and general manager, it was decided to delay any action until the next meeting of the board.

During the year bank indebtedness of $125,000 was written off entirely and in addition the company increased its investment in Gypsum Products Corporation of Seattle, Wash., which has just completed installation of new machinery for the manufacture of its board. Current assets of $304,439 compare with total liabilities of $99,760.27.

Broker Margin Scale Revised

Forecasting a general downward revision of margin schedules by brokerage houses, E. A. Pierce & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, yesterday announced a lower scale of margins effective the 23rd inst. Stocks selling around $40 and $50 a share are chiefly affected, according to the announcement released here by Norman B. Courteney, resident manager.

Ten-point margins are extended under the Pierce schedule to stocks selling between $10 and $40 a share, contrasted with the former range of $10 to $30. Between $40 and $50 the margin is 13 points, compared with the former range of $30 to $40. Above $50 the requirements are 25 per cent of the market value, against 30 per cent for stocks above $40 under the previous schedule.

Freeport Texas Earnings Drop

NEW YORK, June 19.—Freeport Texas Company today reported for the quarter ended May 31, last, net income of $824,376 after expenses, depreciation and taxes, equal to $1.13 a share on 729,944 shares, as against $1,136,482, or $1.55 a share, in the corresponding quarter of 1929.

For the six months ended May 31, last, net income was $1,822,160, or $2.51 a share, as against $1,973,-519, or $2.56 a share, in the 1929 period.

SECURITY LOAN ADDS PASADENA BRANCH

As one of the first steps in the expansion program of the Security Building and Loan Association, a Pasadena branch on Colorado street will be opened the 26th inst., C. T. Owen, president, announced yesterday. The company recently established headquarters on South Vermont avenue to supplement Hollywood offices. The Metropolitan Capital Corporation Holding Company recently purchased both the Security and the International Building and Loan associations and further mergers are planned with operations to continue under the Security charter.

MONOLITH PASSES USUAL DIVIDENDS

Directors of Monolith Portland Cement Company yesterday voted to omit payment of the regular semiannual dividend of 40 cents a share on the 8 per cent cumulative preferred stock and also a similar dividend on the common stock usually payable July 2. Shrinkage of business, with earnings not sufficient to warrant dividend payments caused this action to be taken, officials of the company announced.

Utility Holding Unit Registers Gain in Earnings

NEW YORK, June 18. (Exclusive) Commonwealth and Southern Corporation and subsidiaries reported today consolidated net profits for twelve months closed May 31, last, of $31,024,177 after interest, depreciation, amortization, minority interests, etc., equivalent after all preferred dividends to 70 cents a share on 34,010,902 common shares outstanding at the close of the period.

The provision for preferred dividends includes that on the corporation's stock from April 1, last, and prior thereto on preferred stocks of subsidiary holding companies which were eliminated by mergers pursuant to the plan dated January 7, 1930. After these provisions the balance available for the common stock and surplus was $23,908,230, or 70 cents a share.

Gross earnings for the period totaled $147,287,920, against $142,224,-838 a year ago and the net operating income, derived after operating expenses, maintenance and taxes other than Federal income taxes, amounted to $75,295,319, against $72,300,311 a year ago. May gross totaled $12,007,867, against $12,143,-373 in May, 1929, and net operating income, $6,032,969, against $6,081,-676.

Bank Names Two Board Members

Election of two new directors to the board of the National Bank of Commerce was announced yesterday by Erle M. Leaf, president. H. H. Shields, president of Metropolitan Associates, was made a member of the board, as was also S. Jack Hellman, who for some time has been connected with the bank in an executive capacity.

Mr. Shields was formerly general passenger agent for the Western Air Express, and has also been active in the purchase and development of real estate in various parts of the city. Mr. Hellman was also elected vice-president of the institution. For more than a year he has held the office of assistant vice-president with the bank.

DIVIDEND RATE CUT BY MAGMA COPPER

NEW YORK, June 19.—Magma Copper Company today declared a quarterly dividend of $1, placing the stock on a $4 annual basis, against $5 previously paid. The dividend is payable July 15 to stock of record the 30th inst.

DOYLE PETROLEUM REPORTS PROFITS

Doyle Petroleum Corporation reported yesterday net profits for the five months closed May 31, of $113,-345.71 after all expenses including lease and drilling expense and reserve for depletion. Oil and gas revenue totaled $345,292.84 and other income $3147.45. Par value of capital stock outstanding amounts to $505,000. Current assets of $107,-794.73 compare with current liabilities of $86,766.32.

STOCK MART LISTS ADDITIONAL SHARES

Governors of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange approved yesterday an additional listing of 9513 no-par capital shares of Paraffine Companies, Inc., covering a recent 2 per cent stock dividend, and 3572 additional shares of Pacific Gas and Electric Company common stock recently issued in exchange for the remaining one-third interest in the Modesto Gas Company.

RIO GRANDE OIL WILL ADD ETHYL GASOLINE

Rio Grande Oil Company of Delaware has signed a contract with the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, and will market Rio Grande Ethyl gasoline in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas in the near future, it was announced yesterday. It is planned to distribute this gasoline in California starting July 1, in Arizona and New Mexico by July 8, and in Texas by July 15.

NEW BLOCK OF LIENS RETIRED BY BULLOCK'S

Bullock's, Inc., has just retired $135,000 of its 6 per cent bonds due October 1, 1947, meeting the sinking fund provision three months prior to requirement, it was announced yesterday by the Citizens' National Company. Of the $4,000,-000 originally offered in 1927, there has been retired $380,000, leaving $3,620,000 outstanding.

BANKRUPTCY PLEA FILED

Three asserted creditors yesterday filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the Commonwealth Securities Company of Los Angeles. The petition was filed in the United States District Court. It was stated that the company is a copartnership, consisting of J. J. Costello, W. W. Costello and Frank Creasey. The petitioning creditors are Fred J. Perry, John R. Doolittle and J. E. O'Donell, whose claims exceeded $3000.

REDISCOUNT RATE PARED TO NEW LOW

New York Reserve Bank Makes Finance History by Cut to 2 1-2 Per Cent

NEW YORK, June 19. (Exclusive) The New York Federal Reserve Bank made financial history today. It reduced its rediscount rate, which is the charge at which its member banks may borrow, from 3 to 2½ per cent. This latter rate is the lowest ever made by a reserve institution since the Federal Reserve banking system was established in 1914.

The reduction came as a distinct surprise to Wall street. While it was interpreted as another move in the policy of the reserve authorities to stimulate trade and industrial recovery by easy money rates, it drew comment that successive reductions in recent months have had little effect in that direction or in bolstering up securities prices. However, it is designed to foster business recovery at such time as it may appear.

The reduction was the more of a surprise because it came without a corresponding cut in the 3 per cent discount rate of the Bank of England and coincided with a drop of $211,000,000 in brokers' loans. Recently, and because of world-wide ease in money rates, the New York and English institutions usually have acted in concert. England has had difficulty with its gold reserves and now the lower New York rate may influence a shift of gold to London.

But the drop in brokers' loans, which was the largest reduction of this year, would appear to indicate that speculators do not want even easy credit particularly more than do business men. At least, the recent smash in the stock market has made them more cautious and conservative.

7% Completely Tax-Free Bonds

Unaffected by market fluctuations, over-production and curtailed buying power.

Events of the past year have re-established more firmly than ever the importance of maintaining at least the major portion of your investment funds in sound, fixed income bonds of stable market value.

Such a program is not only wise but profitable when you invest in California municipal improvement bonds which yield a full 6½% to 7% income completely exempt from all Federal Income Tax and California Personal Property Tax.

These bonds are direct liens ranking prior to all present or future mortgages on specific real properties in Los Angeles and surrounding cities. The liens represent a very small proportion of the valuation of the property, and prompt payment of principal and interest is a matter of first importance to property owners—for, like taxes, street improvement bonds must be paid regardless of stock market fluctuations, over-production and curtailed buying power.

We shall be pleased to submit a list of municipal improvement bonds, giving locations, prices, etc., on request. Simply send name and address below.

Stronger Tone in Trading on Grain Markets

CHICAGO, June 19. (AP)—Reassuring statements credited to Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board had a notably steadying effect on wheat values today. He was quoted as announcing to Kansas growers that wheat holdings of government-sponsored organizations will not compete with other sellers so long as prices remain low. Less favorable French and Italian crop reports tended to give encouragement to wheat buyers.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm at the same as yesterday's finish to ¼c higher. Corn closed ½ to ¾c up, oats ¾ @ ⅞c advance and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 10c.

Right from the start, wheat prices showed an upward slant, and although selling increased whenever the market rallied, reactions were invariably overcome. The fact that more general confidence in stock exchange quotations appeared evident was a help to traders friendly to an advance in wheat, especially as export demand for wheat from the United States was better.

Purchases for Europe included moderate quantities of new crop winter wheat being harvested in the Southwest. It also was pointed out that despite world-wide fall of commodity values, wheat shows a decline of only about 6c a bushel compared with quotations three months ago, and a serious wheat crop losses from now on in any of the major-producing countries could easily result in much higher quotations.

Contributing to the steadier point of the wheat market was a statement from a leading unofficial crop authority here the time is about at hand when reports of black rust infestation can be expected from the spring wheat belt.

Corn and oats developed strength on account of better cash demand for corn.

Provisions averaged higher with grain, notwithstanding a break in hog values.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—The listed bond market made moderate improvement today. Coincident with the lifting of pressure from the share market, the downward course of bonds which was climaxed by a sharp reaction yesterday, was halted. The price movement was more orderly and mostly on the constructive side.

Convertible and other issues with stock features were strong. The chief beneficiaries from the buying of lien issues were the rails. Many grade rails were very active and steady, but secondary issues eased.

The stock market rally and an easing of time money rates were the chief factors in the recovery.

Convertibles did complete right-about-face to eliminate partially the losses of the past three days. American Tobacco 4s, Anheuser-Busch 4½s and Philadelphia Coal and Iron 6s were the best gainers, with closing prices 2 points higher. Among amusements issues, Warner Brothers 6s moved up 1¼, but General Theaters 6s were off ¼ point at the close.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in order given. To expedite transmission, the cipher is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

7% Yield

Backed by Earnings of

4½ Times Interest Charges

Very rarely, we believe, in today's bond market is it possible to purchase the short-term obligations of a prosperous and growing business priced to yield 7%.

Such an opportunity is offered today by one of our current issues—the 6½% five-year Gold Notes (with stock purchase warrants attached) of a Los Angeles company—one of the largest and most successful of its kind west of Chicago. Net earnings for the year ended December 31, 1929 were equal to 4½ times maximum annual interest charges on these notes which are the prior obligation of the corporation.

A sinking fund is calculated to retire approximately 70% of the issue prior to maturity.

Price 98 and Interest, to yield about 7%

INCREASE IN CRUDE OIL PRICES

Every year there is a substantial increase in the value of crude oil.

KETTLEMAN HILLS OIL FIELD, it is estimated, will be producing vast quantities of oil fifty years or more from now. It has been called repeatedly by the foremost oil men and leading petroleum engineers and geologists potentially one of the largest oil fields in the United States, if not the entire world.

There have been few, if any, opportunities to purchase royalties in this particular area—first, because half of the entire KETTLEMAN HILLS FIELD is owned by the Standard Oil Company, and the balance is owned by major companies, or large interests that do not sell any of their royalty holdings.

The offering of KETTLEMAN HILLS ROYALTY SYNDICATE No. 1 gives you a chance to buy in the property that expert opinion estimates will produce sufficient oil to pay back to the investor (at the present selling price of $1000.00 per interest) twelve times his principal in a period of twenty years.

Let me send you the proof of this statement, which is contained in a geological report on KETTLEMAN HILLS OIL FIELD, and an appraisal valuation of the royalty holdings of the KETTLEMAN HILLS ROYALTY SYNDICATE No. 1. This report has been made by Roy G. Mead, Merwin H. Soyster, Petroleum Engineers and Geologists, and concurred in by the nationally known Engineer and Geologist, Mr. Ralph Arnold.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—The curb market rallied substantially today, the more active issues closing 2 to 3 points higher, but its short selling is not as popular on this market, it was not stimulated by short covering to the degree the big board was, and its recovery was less pronounced.

On the whole, curb shares failed to retain yesterday's losses, while the more active big-board stocks more than cancelled the declines.

The popular utilities led the rally. Electric Bond and Share closed at 88¾, up more than 3 points, and 6 points above its recent low. American Light and Traction new advanced 4 points, and such issues as American Superpower, United Light "A" and Niagara Hudson gained about 2. Northern States "A" closed 3 more than 2 and Commonwealth Edison gained 2¼ in a few sales.

In the oils, Humble was a firm spot, gaining about 5 points. Ohio Oil was depressed a couple of points, but later rallied to close up 1. Gulf ranged 3½ down a loss of 2½ and a gain of 1¼, and closed unchanged. Cities Service moved up 4 point in active trading. In the Standards, Indiana "A" was up a fraction and Kentucky 2.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low and both low and close when same as the high.

SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19. (Special to the San Francisco Bulletin)—Irregularly higher today, many issues showing substantial progress at some time from low levels.

Pronounced recoveries were registered in the utility and oil sections, while industrial and bank issues showed only general reversal of form.

Transamerica was the outstanding feature with a turnover in excess of 20,000 shares at 20¼, off ¼ from the record set at that level yesterday. Pacific Gas & Electric, Pacific Lighting and Pacific Telephone and Telegraph were the leaders in the preferred list, while Standard Oil of California preferred and Edgewater Steel preferred were conspicuous among the industrials.

Among the oils, Shell Union, Superior, Pacific Western, Honolulu, Ohio, Associated, Tidewater Associated, Pacific Petroleum, Union Oil and Richfield preferred issues were all higher, while Standard Oil of California preferred and Edgewater Steel preferred were down fractionally.

Among the industrials, Columbia Steel, Bunker Hill, Hale Bros., Pacific Coast Aggregates, Pacific Cement preferred, Golden State Dairy preferred and Hancock Oil preferred issues were all higher, while Crocker First National Bank preferred was down fractionally.

Among the utilities, Pacific Gas & Electric first preferred issues, Pacific Lighting preferred issues and Pacific Telephone and Telegraph preferred issues were all higher.

Among the banks, Bank of America, Anglo California National, Security-First National and Wells Fargo Nevada National were down fractionally.

CALIFORNIA VEGETABLES GO IN RIVER

Railroads in New York Destroyed Goods Spoiled on Arrival

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—Further information about dumping of large quantities of vegetables into the ocean by railroads entering New York was furnished by railway officials today.

It was obtained by the Packer, Shipper and Produce, newspaper, which said that in the ten days ended today the Pennsylvania Railroad had dumped forty-nine cars of perishables from southern and southwestern States and California. The total included eight cars of California lettuce. The Erie Railroad reported dumping three cars of California lettuce last week.

Both railroads are quoted as denying that any of the food was fit for human consumption. Some of the vegetables, officials said, were spoiled on arrival. Others were refused by consignees on account of a price slump.

Philip E. Reed, perishable agent for the Pennsylvania, said rules require railroads to sell refused foodstuffs if there is a market for them. If not, they are dumped.

Violin Prodigy's Need to Appear in Public Told

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—If Ruggiero Ricci, 9-year-old violin prodigy, were to be prevented from appearing publicly it would mean his "emotional death," Charles D. Isaacson, music critic, testified today at habeas corpus proceedings brought by the boy's father to regain custody of Ruggiero and his brother Georgio.

The children are in custody of Beth Lackey, their guardian. Isaacson was called to the stand by the defense.

"The violin is the child's natural method of expression," said Isaacson, "as natural as breathing."

Ward Kramer and Ray C. B. Brown, critics, agreed the child would not be harmed by ten concerts in as many weeks.

LEADER IN SOCIETY CALLED BY DEATH

[Ray Huff studios]
Mrs. A. Hays Busch

FUNERAL OF MRS. BUSCH TO BE TODAY

Young Matron Active in Social Affairs of City Victim of Pneumonia

Stricken with pneumonia about a week ago, Mrs. Mary Hawpe Busch, wife of A. Hays Busch of 120 North Fuller avenue, died at 7 p.m. Wednesday at St. Vincent's Hospital. Funeral services will be conducted today at St. Vincent's Church with Father O'Malley officiating and burial, which will be in Inglewood Park Cemetery, will be private.

Mrs. Busch, who was 23 years of age, was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason H. Hawpe of 817 Tremaine avenue. She was a popular member of the younger set of Los Angeles and had been an active worker in the Assistance League. She was married to Mr. Busch about two years ago.

She leaves her husband, a 10-month-old daughter, Mary Amelia, her mother and father and a sister.

SALVATION ARMY BEACH CAMP OPENS

Seventy Children in First Contingent at Redondo; Mothers Invited Later

Official opening of the Salvation Army Fresh Air Camp at Redondo Beach was held yesterday afternoon. Commissioner Adam Gifford and Brig. James C. Bell, with divisional staff officers assisting, were in charge. The camp is under the direction of Mrs. Bell, and is designed as a recreational center for city boys and girls who are denied the privileges of proper vacations.

Seventy youngsters are being cared for in the first contingent at the camp. Surf bathing, playing on the beach, outdoor sports and games, plenty of fresh air and wholesome food are the things which make the camp one of the best institutions maintained in the State by the Salvationists.

The mothers' camp is maintained later in the season, where little babies are given the opportunity of the fresh air with their mothers, both receiving the same fine care that the youngsters do earlier in the season. A convalescent home is maintained during the autumn months.

IMPROVEMENTS APPROVED

Approval of petitions for the improvement of Cleon avenue and Satsuma avenue between Burbank and Chandler boulevards, the improvement of Loma Vista Place at Allesandro street and for the improvement of Lakme avenue between Anaheim street and G street was voted yesterday by the City Council. 8 to 6.

FLEET ARRIVES IN PORT TODAY

Eight Vessels as Vanguard to Come Steaming In

Fifteen Thousand-Mile Trip Will Come to End

Other Craft Reach Home Port Tomorrow

Blue will bloom on the water front again this morning as the vanguard of the battle fleet, returning from its 15,000-mile training cruise to the Caribbean and New York, anchors in the San Pedro roadstead at dawn. Eight ships will arrive this morning, three more tomorrow afternoon and the remainder of the armada will straggle home throughout the summer.

Admiral Frank H. Schofield, new commander-in-chief, will lead the squadron aboard his dreadnaught flagship, the California, accompanied by the battleships West Virginia, Tennessee and New Mexico, the train flagship Procyon, the hospital ship Relief and the minesweepers Brandt and Tern. Three other battleships, the Maryland, Oklahoma and Nevada, will put in at San Diego early today with the aircraft carrier Saratoga, which tomorrow will fire a delayed target practice off Los Coronados Islands. The Maryland will tow the target for the Saratoga while the Oklahoma and Nevada will also be present as observing ships. Immediately after the gunnery exercise, the three battleships and the Saratoga will proceed to Los Angeles Harbor, rejoining the fleet here at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

Other ships putting in at San Diego this morning will include the aircraft carrier Langley, the aircraft tenders Gannet and Aroostook, the subnarines V-2 and V-3, the submarine tender Argonne, and the destroyers Decatur, Litchfield, William B. Preston, Hulbert, Preble, Noa, Sicard and Pruitt. The tankers Cuyama and Neches, traveling behind the main body, will put into San Diego before returning here.

The battleship divisions will spend the next ten days at anchor here for machinery overhaul and leave and liberty for personnel. Various units will begin the departures for Fourth of July holiday ports on the 29th inst. On that date the Maryland and Oklahoma will sail for Seattle, accompanied by the New Mexico and Nevada, going to Tacoma, being due at the two ports July 3. On July 1, the California will sail for Oakland and the Tennessee for Monterey via San Francisco. The West Virginia will remain at the harbor until July 21 before sailing north to rejoin the fleet, which will then be in the midst of its summer cruise on Puget Sound. The Tennessee, returning from Monterey July 6, will remain here for gunnery training until July 20, before going to Puget Sound.

Of the absent battleships, the Colorado is at the New York navy yard for repairs to her plotting-room necessitated by the $200,000 fire at the Canal recently; the Mississippi in cruising on the east coast with Navy R.O.T.C. units from east coast colleges; the Idaho is cruising in the Pacific with R.O.T.C. units from the Universities of California and Washington; the New York is undergoing annual overhaul at the Puget Sound navy yard; while the Texas, flagship of the United States fleet, is en route here from the Panama Canal.

The Texas, carrying Admiral William V. Pratt on his farewell inspection cruise as commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, will arrive at Los Angeles on the 29th inst. She will sail on July 9 for Honolulu, arriving there July 17 and remain until July 25 while Admiral Pratt inspects the Hawaiian establishment. From Honolulu she will proceed to Puget Sound, rejoining the fleet at Seattle on August 2 and returning to San Pedro with the armada on August 27.

The aircraft carrier Lexington, now completing overhaul at the Norfolk navy yard, will depart Hampton Roads for Los Angeles Harbor on the 23rd inst., arriving here about July 7.

BIDS TO BE ASKED

The City Council yesterday instructed the Board of Public Works to call for alternate bids on two types of pavement for the improvement of Washington street from Alameda street to Figueroa street. A report of the Public Works Committee, sponsored by Councilman Randall, was adopted by a vote of 8 to 6.

UNEMPLOYED TOTALS LOW

Census Shows Two and Half Out of Each 100 Jobless in Fourteen of County's Townships

Two and one-half persons out of each 100 in fourteen of Los Angeles county's forty-nine townships were unemployed April 1, last, returns from the United States census of 1930 show. An unemployed person in the county is one who had no job on that date but was looking for one and was able to work.

The figures are the first released here for unemployment and cover scattered townships among three of the five census districts in the county. The only other announced unemployment average under the new census, so far as is known here, was at Cleveland where unemployment ran four and one-half persons for each 100 of population. All unemployment figures are as of the date nearly three months ago and, census supervisors point out, employment conditions generally have improved considerably since that time.

The total population of the fourteen townships is $53,216 and of that number 9070 are listed as unemployed. The population includes persons of all ages.

Pasadena township is the most populous of the fourteen. Its figures showed 2896 unemployed out of 112,854 total population or 2.5 per cent, that is two and one-half persons for each 100. Pasadena city showed 2136 unemployed out of 75,996 population, or 2.8 for each 100. Glendale is the next largest city with 1580 unemployed but of a population of 62,702, or 2.5 for each 100.

The townships, their unemployed and their populations were given as follows:

Covina township, 203 unemployed out of 9561 population; Whittier, 793 out of 26,879; El Monte, 327 out of 12,117; Azusa, 118 out of 10,086; San Dimas, 45 out of 3095; San Jose, 473 out of 29,048; San Gabriel, 1343 out of 58,533; Rowland, 62 out of 4650; Monrovia, 227 out of 12,365; Redondo, 670 out of 21,218; Inglewood, 1488 out of 38,645; Lomita, 423 out of 13,187; La Rambia, none unemployed in 978 population.

The cities, towns or communities, their unemployed and their populations were given as follows:

Arcadia, 184 unemployed out of 7559; Sierra Madre, 58 out of 3542; Altadena, 350 out of 17,961; San

A protest against heavy trucking in Bates avenue was submitted to the City Council yesterday by A. Z. Monell, who states the trucks have broken the pavement in many places. His complaint was referred to the City Planning Commission.

CLARK GETS HONOR FROM HIS COLLEGE

Degree at Iowa School Awarded Financier for Services and Interest

In recognition of his services to the school and great interest shown in its welfare Ell P. Clark, financier, was awarded the doctor of laws degree from Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa, at the commencement exercises held early this month.

Ell P. Clark

Mr. Clark was a student at the institution during the years it was known as Iowa College, and his degree, presented by James Hanson T. Main, president, was in the name of Iowa College. The capitalist attended the college in 1865 and 1866. The name was changed in 1890.

The presentation came at the same time the degrees were awarded the members of the 1930 graduating class.

Grinnell is the old home of Mr. Clark and it has been his custom for a number of years to attend the graduating exercises at the college. He was accompanied on the trip this year by Mrs. Clark.

Valuation of City Schools $116,063,069

Valuations of Los Angeles school property show a total of $116,063,069.55, according to a report presented by the building committee to the Board of Education at the regular meeting yesterday afternoon. The report included land, buildings and equipment, also buildings in course of construction.

Elementary and special schools were valued at $67,275,365.07. This total is made up of land value, $22,183,959.06; buildings and appurtenances, $39,653,311.31, and equipment, $5,438,094.70.

Senior and junior high schools show a total valuation of $48,787,704.48. Included in this total is the equipment in executive offices, classes in adult education for policemen, Clear Creek reforestation camp, motor vehicles and other items. The land is valued at $12,364,706.77; buildings and appurtenances, $29,593,997.43, and equipment at $6,829,000.28.

SEA YIELDS TWO MORE AMECO WRECK VICTIMS

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, June 19.—The sea today surrendered again to man's vigilance and yielded the bodies of two more victims drowned last Memorial Day when the fishing boat Ameco sank off Topanga Canyon with a loss of sixteen lives. They have been identified as Joseph Memoli of 1237 Bundy Drive, orchestra director of University High School, and Andrew J. Walker, 5163 South Cimarron street.

Memoli's body was sighted through marine glasses by Mrs. Margaret Dunham. It was floating not far from shore about a half-mile north of Las Flores Canyon, and taken from the water by Constable Golding and Deputy Constable Thompson of Malibu township, assisted by Buster Crabbe and H. F. Smith, University of Southern California swimmers.

The body of Walker was recovered by the crew of the Cobra, county fish and game patrol boat, at a spot one and one-half miles off Castle Rock.

Both bodies were removed to the Todd & Leslie mortuary here.

Ten bodies of the sixteen victims of the tragedy now have been recovered. One of them, however, that of a man found last Sunday, remains unidentified.

POMONA BOY'S ORATION WINS

Harold F. Pettee, Jr., Wins Intercollegiate Event

Annual Constitutional Event Held Here

Hoover and Shortridge Send Greeting Messages

The brilliant address of Harold F. Pettee, Jr., of Pomona College, Claremont, Cal., on the subject, "Constitutional Guarantee to All American Citizens," won him the intercollegiate oratorical championship of America and a cash prize of $1500, in the finals of the sixth annual event, held last night at the Biltmore.

The contest was conducted by the Better America Federation of California in the Sala de Oro before an audience of 1000 persons.

Second place was won by Edward Darr Doyle, of St. Xavier College, Cincinnati, O., and a cash award of $1000 went to the winner.

Third place was awarded to Arthur Larson of Augustana College, Sioux Falls, S. D., with a cash award of $750.

Fourth award, with $550, went to James P. Casey of Fordham University, New York City.

Fifth, sixth and seventh places were not designated. An award of $400 cash was given to Robert Elliott, Emory University, Atlanta, Ga.; John A. Burke, College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass., and Franklin P. Cole, De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind.

HOOVER GREETINGS

President Hoover wired his greetings to the contestants, the message being read from the stage.

"I send cordial greetings to those present at the Sixth National Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest. The inspiration to young citizens in preparation for such contests through study of American fundamentals of government is a valuable service to the nation," the telegram read.

President A. C. Denman of the Better America Federation introduced the chairman of the evening, Orra E. Monnette, who in turn introduced the orators. Casey was the first to speak, the winner, Harold Pettee, speaking forth. Each address was limited to 1500 words.

The judges were William A. Barnhill, former United States District Attorney for Alaska; Benjamin F. Bledsoe, former United States district judge, Southern California district; Dr. Frank A. Bouelle, superintendent of Los Angeles city schools; Dr. Martin Luther Thomas, office of the City Prosecutor; J. A. H. Kerr, first vice-president of Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Letitia J. Lytle, member of the Board of Education, city of Los Angeles; Pat Millikan, governor, California-Nevada district Kiwanis International; Louis B. Mayer, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, and Mrs. Frank Phelps Toms, State regent, Daughters of the American Revolution.

SCORES OF TELEGRAMS

Musical numbers were given by Charles Wakefield Cadman, noted American composer, and Margaret Messer. Leroy D. Owens, president of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, was introduced by President Denman of the Better America Federation. Owens said it was with great pleasure that he announced that the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce would co-operate hereafter with the Better America Federation in conducting these annual contests at Los Angeles. At the recent gathering of the Junior Chamber at Brooklyn it was decided to get back of this movement, it was announced.

Telegrams were received by the score yesterday from well-wishers of the contestants. Besides President Hoover governors of States wired their hope for success and from scores of friends and college mates letters and telegrams poured in.

SHORTRIDGE MESSAGE

Senator Shortridge wired the following greeting, which was read at the contest:

"From the capital of the nation I send you greetings. But for the Constitution of the United States we would not now be the great republic made up of forty-eight quasi sovereign States indissolubly united by common interests, pride and hope. The more that great instrument of government is studied and understood the more we real-

CITY BUDGET SLASH GETS APPROVAL

Council Adopts Report of Finance Group and Action Slated Today

The City Council yesterday adopted the report of the Finance Committee, slashing $393,340 from Mayor Porter's budget. The budget in its revised form will be adopted this morning by the Council and returned to Mayor Porter, who has five days in which to act on it.

The action of the Council is required by the fact that receipts are estimated at approximately $1,000,000 less than the Mayor's estimate. The Council, however, hopes no employees will be discharged and that the income of the city will take a jump by September 1, next.

On motion of Councilman Davis, the Council also struck out Mayor Porter's allocation of the special funds, amounting to $1,790,000 in excess of the general government figures. With the estimated income amounting to $25,000,000, the Council proposes to expend $24,006,660, compensating for the estimated drop in revenue.

Some illuminating facts were brought out by the discussion. Assistant Budget Director Donner explained that his department and the Mayor still believe incomes will not be cut.

"The fact is the budget was made up before you knew the income?" asked Councilman Martin.

"Everybody knows that," said Council President Sanborn.

Donner also suggested an increase in revenue by the milk tax, fire department fees and increase in City Planning Commission fees. These suggestions did not fare very well.

Councilman Cooke, chairman of the Finance Committee, stated that, while the Department of Water and Power will pay all its bond charges for the first time in history, the city must pay for water service, which is estimated at $400,000. This sum must come from the sadly depleted budget somehow. The interest payments by the department will lighten the general tax rate, where bond charges are spread.

CITY WORKERS TO MEET

There will be a mass meeting of the All City Employees' Association today at 7:30 p.m. in the assembly room of the Department of Public Works to discuss the budget and retirement funds. The City Hall symphony orchestra, of which Anthony Dorn is conductor, will furnish music.

PARK CITY FOLK TO MEET

Park City (Utah) folk will have their annual basket picnic next Sunday at South Park, Main and Forty-ninth streets, it is announced by Dr. Lawrence H. Raddon.

CLARA BOW ORDERED HOME

Studio Official Recalls "It" Girl from Dallas; Harry Richman Wants Ring Back

Clara Bow was ordered yesterday by B. P. Schulberg, general manager of west coast productions at Paramount, to return from Dallas, Tex., at once, and she has promised to start back to Hollywood today.

Miss Bow, who was summoned both by telegraph and telephone, admitted she is worried concerning the effect the publicity attending her visit to Dallas will have on Will Hays, chief adviser of the motion-picture industry, but added it didn't matter so much, after all, since she expects to quit the films when her contract is up, a year from October.

"I have nothing to fear from Mr. Hays if he will investigate what I really have said concerning my visit to Dallas," the "it girl" told reporters at Dallas last night, "because it is not true, as the papers have quoted me as saying, that I came here to see Dr. William Earl Pearson, but to visit some other friends I'd met when here before."

Miss Bow admitted the request she depart from Dallas at the earliest possible moment was prompted by the desire of Mr. Schulberg for a personal explanation of what she actually did say while in Dallas, and there are two others who, she further admitted, shared the studio official's desire in this respect.

One is Harry Richman, New York night club owner, whose engagement to the young woman has not been officially broken; the other Rex Bell, screen actor, at present in Hollywood, for whom the actress was quoted as having admitted having a deep regard.

Both called her on the telephone, and Richman was quoted in New York as vehemently asserting that if it is true Miss Bow had gone to Dallas to wed another man he thought it no more than fair she return to him his engagement ring, reputed to be worth $10,000.

Exceedingly troubled by the numerous telegrams and telephone calls for explanation, Miss Bow declared it is not true she had made a payment of $30,000 to avert publicity in na contemplated alienation suit.

"I didn't even have the money to pay such a thing," she said last night. "My money is tied up in a bonus trust fund which the studio

CROW TOO SOON

The wets need not kid themselves that the nomination of Ambassador Morrow to the United States Senate means anything.

Morrow is one of the best advertised men in the United States. His career as Ambassador to Mexico was picturesque and interesting. The marriage of his daughter to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh brought him into the public eye in the most charming and entertaining way imaginable.

The nominee from New Jersey could have been so dry that he fainted at the sight of a beer bottle, but he would have received the votes just the same.

NEWSIES

Harold Kraft, a fellow at Yale, joins the distinguished group of Los Angeles men whose start in life was selling The Times on the street corner. Many of the men who lead in the learned professions and stand at the top of the business world in California have been newsies.

There was once a little boy on the street corner whose manners were so good and who kept such careful track of the credit accounts of his patrons in the rush hours that business came to look for him. The old California Club was at that time on Spring street near Second. The little newsboy used to go into the club to deliver his papers to his regular customers.

The contacts he made there opened doors for him. He became assistant Attorney-General of the United States. His name is Oscar Lawler.

MY FAVORITE AUTHOR

It will be a great gratification to his friends to know that J. A. Graves is slowly recovering his health. He is one of the men we couldn't do without.

Had he not been a banker and a lawyer he would have been a great journalist and author. What I love about his writings is that he is not afraid to call a spade a darned dirty old shovel. "Seventy Years in California" has already become one of the standard works on California life. He has just written a new one.

ONLY MEMORIES REMAIN

I visited a place of sad memories the other day—old Terminal Island. Twenty-five years ago this was the most fashionable resort in California. It breathed romance, summer girls, engagements, heartburns and marriages.

It is now a decrepit row of tumbledown houses—boarding houses for fishermen. The Graves cottage stands knock-kneed against the sea winds; the old Rule cottage, the Tolhurst cottage—all of them are weatherbeaten and forlorn. The old Gordon Arms Hotel was burned to the ground some years ago.

Terminal was ruined when the city's dredging operations threw so much land up that the famous "surf row" of cottages found itself half a mile from the ocean.

SAN FERNANDO ROAD IMPROVEMENT URGED

The City Council yesterday approved a report by the City Engineer proposing that two curves about half a mile south of Weldon Canyon along San Fernando Road, between the City of San Fernando and the Newhall Tunnel, be combined into one longer curve, thus eliminating much of the turn.

PAN AMERICAN SUIT DISMISSED

Action Against Doheny and Company Settled

Reimbursement for Lease Losses Had Been Asked

More Than $10,000,000 Said to Have Been Involved

As the result of stipulations entered into by counsel for all parties concerned, the suit of Frank H. Kunkel, a Cincinnati attorney, representing various stockholders of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company, against Edward L. Doheny, formerly head of that and other Pan-American companies, and against the company itself, was dismissed yesterday by United States District Judge Cosgrave.

Kunkel, on behalf of himself and other stockholders, sued Doheny to compel the latter to reimburse the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company for losses that resulted from the cancellation of leases and contracts with the government in the Elk Hills oil reserve in Kern county. The suit was said to have involved from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000, but upon the filing of the stipulations by attorneys for both sides yesterday it was stated that no mention would be made of the terms of the agreement which resulted in the dismissal of the suit.

LEASES NOT VALID

Under the terms of a lease executed by former Secretary of the Interior Fall to Doheny the Pan-American Company was to erect oil depositories at Pearl Harbor, Honolulu, to receive oil from the Elk Hills field. It was held by United States District Judge McCormick that, as the Pan-American company spent from $7,000,000 to $8,000,000 erecting depositories it was entitled to recover from the government. It was also held by Judge McCormick that the leases were not valid because obtained by fraud.

The government appealed to the United States Supreme Court with relation to the reimbursement to the company, and Doheny appealed with regard to the fraud matter. The Supreme Court held that the leases were fraudulent and that the company could not recover from the government for the erection of the oil depositories, because the transaction was fraudulent.

COMPANY NAMED

Kunkel and other stockholders demanded that Doheny reimburse the company for losses resulting from the government's cancellation of the leases and contracts. When the board of directors of the company did not join as a plaintiff in the contemplated action the company was made a defendant.

In stipulations, signed by the various attorneys and filed yesterday before Judge Cosgrave, it was stated that the case had been settled out of court. The stipulations were signed by Olin Wellborn, Jr., Charles Wellborn and Frank J. Hogan for Doheny; Root, Clark, Burke and Ballantine, Overton, Lyman and Plumb for the Pan-American company, and Kunkel & Kunkel, William L. Day, Luther Day and Parres & Williamson for the plaintiffs. It is understood the agreement was reached recently in New York.

OPERALOGUE TONIGHT

SLICE TAKEN FROM BUILDING

Eighty-Ton Front Put Back Five Feet

Huge Brick Pile Moved by Eight Men

ARCHIMEDES, who boasted that he could lift the world with the right kind of a lever, might have been pleased if he could have stood on the east side of Flower street yesterday and watched eight men on the opposite side of the street, in the 1800 block, move an eighty-ton slice of an apartment-house a distance of five feet in less than an hour.

The work, which was done by the Kress House Moving Company, with Earl Walker in charge, was made necessary in the course of the widening of Flower street. Five feet of pressed brick had to be chiseled from the walls of the Matthias Apartment-house, after which the front section, which had been separated from the building, was moved back into place. The great gap cut in the structure and the moving of the front section to join up with the rest of the building was accomplished without marring either of the severed sections and with several tenants of the house viewing the work from fire escapes.

C. C. C. TATUM NOT B. F. TATEM

C. C. C. Tatum, head of the C. C. C. Tatum Realtors, and former president of the California Real Estate Association and Los Angeles Realty Board, yesterday asked that attention be called to the fact that he is no relation of, nor has any connection with, Benjamin F. Tatem, the missing Beverly Hills financier. The widely known realty man, whose name is spelled differently from that of the Beverly Hills man, said he has been considerably embarrassed by the similarity in names.

come lawyers must be high school graduates, have had at least two years of college work or an equivalent in education, and must have graduated from a full-time three-year course in a school of law, or from a four-year course in a part-time school of law.

Mr. Beardsley added that the report to be made by the committee, of which Mr. Morrow is the head will be submitted to the third annual meeting of the State Bar Association at the Huntington Hotel in Pasadena September 18-19-20, next, and there shaped into the form of the bill to be presented to the Legislature.

DISBARMENT RECOMMENDED

Disbarment of Joseph F. Devin of Los Angeles, accused of embezzling funds of a client, was recommended by the State Bar board of governors yesterday. It also recommended that Lewis A. Schaffer of Los Angeles be suspended from practice for six months on charges of appropriating money given him by clients to settle claims, and that Attorney J. D. F. Jennings of this city be publicly reprimanded on the ground he provided a client with false copies of an interlocutory decree of divorce.

A fourth attorney, Ben H. Johnson of Fresno, also was recommended for public reprimand on charges of having made false statements to a client.

The board adopted a resolution accepting the Alexander F. Morrison trust fund of $20,000 providing for the employment each year of a jurist of national renown to deliver an address on the practice of law, and its publication for general circulation.

Opposite views on the advisability of amending the State constitution regarding the obligation on the Supreme and Appellate courts of preparing a written opinion in every case were expressed last night at a banquet of the State bar group.

The meeting was attended by a large number of members of the bench and bar, who heard former Superior Court Judge Hewitt on the affirmative side and Superior Court Judge Stephens on the negative.

Hewitt pointed out the present congestion and delay in the Appelate courts. He asserted they are overburdened and not gaining ground, and expressed the view that the memo form of opinion and in some cases an oral one would serve to bring relief.

Shorter opinions, but written in all cases, was the suggestion of Judge Stephens as a remedy for the situation. He asserted that there are broad reasons why the people should know the reason back of all judges' decisions.

GAS COMPANY'S INCOME SHOWN

Fuel Wastage Said to be in Excess of Consumption

Gross revenue of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation in 1930 will total $16,657,190, according to an estimate presented yesterday by J. E. Spelce, assistant engineer of the State Railroad Commission, in an investigation on the commission's own motion into the rates, rules, practices and contracts of the public utility concern. The inquiry is being conducted before Railroad Commissioner Carr in the Associated Realty Building.

Spelce offered the estimate in testimony as to operating revenues and expenses of the company. Witnesses to be called later will consider the valuation of the gas department of the company and the rate of return on the capital investment. The hearing, which is expected to run into next week, will determine whether the company is earning more than the legal return of from 7 per cent to 7.5 per cent on its capital investment.

Spelce's estimate as to revenues for 1930 compares with actual revenues in 1929 of $15,837,874, and in 1928 of $15,211,615. In arriving at his estimate, Spelce testified that he accepted the conditions of 1930 as being like those of 1928.

The witness also offered estimates as to expenses in 1930. These estimates did not take into consideration taxes, uncollectible bills and depreciation. The partial estimated expenses were:

Production expense, $4,683,958; transmission, $4,640,000; distribution, $861,460; commercial and new business, $1,014,020, and general expenses, $518,000.

The actual figures for 1929 for phases of the company's business expenses still to be included in the 1930 estimate were: Depreciation, $1,115,624; uncollectibles, $130,000, and taxes, $1,545,358.

Claude C. Brown, State gas administrator and gas and electric engineer for the commission, followed Spelce on the witness stand. In the early stages of the investigation some time ago, Brown estimated the company's return on its capital investment in its gas properties as 9.7 per cent. The company's investment in its gas properties is declared to be in the neighborhood of $60,000,000.

Brown testified on production, utilization and wastage of natural gas in California in the period from July, 1928, to April, last. He declared that more gas is wasted every month than is used. He further testified that the capacity of the outlets at the oil fields is great enough to supply all demands in the Los Angeles basin.

Every day, Brown testified, 231,000,000 cubic feet of gas are wasted in the Los Angeles basin and 651,000,000 cubic feet in the State. He also testified that Los Angeles' peak consumption was reached on January 11, last, when 136,000,000 cubic feet of gas was consumed by establishments served by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation's lines.

The witness estimated that the peak consumption here in 1931 will be 140,000,000 cubic feet.

A. V. Guillou, assistant chief engineer of the commission, was the final witness at the afternoon session. He testified relative to materials and their classification in records of the company's operations.

Herman Phleger questioned witnesses on behalf of the corporation, and Ira Rowell, assistant attorney for the commission, on behalf of the State body.

BIG TUJUNGA DAM DIGGING NEARING END

Pouring of Concrete Expected to Begin Next Month, Engineer Reports

With the excavation work rapidly nearing completion, contractors expect to be pouring concrete for the new dam being built by Los Angeles county in Big Tujunga Canyon, eight miles north of Sunland, by July 10, next, according to E. C. Eaton, chief engineer of the Los Angeles County Flood Control District, who returned yesterday after making an inspection of the project. The new dam will be finished in about one year.

"The rough excavations have been finished and workmen are now down twenty feet below the stream bed, showing excellent rock condition for a foundation for the dam," Eaton declared. He added that 120 men are employed at the dam.

When the plans for the project were drawn it was estimated that approximately 90,000 cubic feet of dirt would have to be excavated.

"The figures were high," Eaton said. "We find they will be around 60,000 cubic feet."

The new dam will be 240 feet high and will cost $1,000,000. It is being constructed under a bond issue of 1924. It is the first of four planned by the flood control district to regulate the flood waters of the canyon.

ORDINANCE APPROVED FOR FORESTRY SHIFT

The draft of the ordinance transferring the Department of Forestry to the Park Department, recently completed by the City Attorney, was approved by the Park Commission yesterday and ordered forwarded to the City Council for passage. The commission recently appropriated $80,000 for the department, which was created by the Council last year, but had no funds on which to operate. The department will have the handling of trees along streets and parkways.

DETECTIVES TAKE STAND FOR WIFE

Ford Divorce Contest Featured by Testimony About "Other Woman"

Two detectives yesterday testified in Superior Judge Hazlett's court that B. F. Ford, wealthy paving contractor, and Mrs. Christianna Castonguay occupied the same room in a Beverly Hills home. Mrs. Lilla May Ford is suing Ford, her husband, for separate maintenance. Ford, on a cross-complaint for divorce, is fighting the separate-maintenance action.

Olive Anthony and William Sandel, detectives, testified that from May 26 to June 7, 1929, they watched the home of Ford's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Helm, 507 Hillcrest Drive, Beverly Hills. It was there, they asserted, they saw Ford and Mrs. Castonguay together. William Ford, a brother of the defendant, testified that he and his wife occupied the room described on those dates. B. F. Ford testified that he roomed with Harvey Mehaffey. Mrs. Helm added that Mrs. Castonguay slept in her room, as her husband, George Helm, was occupying another room alone while recovering from an operation.

In her complaint, Mrs. Ford charged that Ford concealed $100,000 worth of paving company stock by a sale to Helm, which she contended is not a bona fide transaction, but done to prevent her from sharing the community property.

established, and it can't be touched by anybody."

The actress said she was "fed up" with the lot of being a celebrity.

"They are always bringing suits against me and printing scandals about me," she complanied. "My contract is up a year from next October, and perhaps after that I can lead my own life. I am going to retire from pictures then."

Her thoughts reverting to Bell, she said:

"He called me on the telephone and asked if I had come to Dallas to marry the doctor. I told him emphatically, 'No!'"

EXPLANATION WANTED

Miss Bow was to have remained in Dallas two weeks, and though she said she was leaving much earlier because Mr. Schulberg wanted her to come back and explain things, the studio official gave a more diplomatic explanation in Hollywood last night. He merely said Miss Bow's next picture is scheduled to get under way at once, and, therefore, her presence at the studio is imperative.

Incidentally, Mr. Schulberg gave an explanation of the two trust funds that had been established for the actress, one of which, for $25,000, added to by $5000 paid directly by her, was said to have been used to stop the alienation suit.

"Paramount has never retained a single penny out of any money out of any trust fund to which Clara Bow was party or out of any other fund which might belong to Miss Bow from whatever source. In fact, Paramount has given Miss Bow, in appreciation for her services, liberal bonuses from time to time.

HELPED HER SAVE

"As I have stated before, the primary purpose for creating the trust fund was to have her get into the habit of saving. We know this purpose in Miss Bow's behalf accomplished good, because with her knowledge and approval we have placed additional substantial funds in trust for her from time to time."

From the best of sources it was learned yesterday the first Bow trust fund was established in connection with her contract, which called for the weekly payment by her of $500 into this fund until the sum reached $25,000. Then a second trust was established after the other reached $25,000, which is still in existence, into which Miss Bow is still making substantial payments, and which is said to have reached beyond $100,000.

The $25,000 trust fund was terminated and the sum withdrawn from the California Trust Company October 17, 1928, the same date upon which Mrs. Elizabeth Pearson filed suit for divorce in a Los Angeles court against Dr. William Earl Pearson, young Dallas physician.

During her visit to Dallas, Miss Bow has been seen in the company of Dr. Pearson on at least two occasions, once for a golf game, and a second time on a party to a night club near Dallas. Dispatches yesterday said that Mrs. Pearson left Dallas on the day of Clara's arrival there to visit relatives in Birmingham, Ala. All efforts to locate her for a statement have been unavailing.

Clara met Dr. Pearson while he was serving as an interne at a Los Angeles hospital where she was taken for an operation about two years ago.

Mrs. Pearson got her divorce in October, 1928, from the doctor on the ground of nonsupport but a final decree has never been asked for. Recent dispatches from Dallas indicated the doctor and his wife had become reconciled.

Miss Bow said that if she is bothered much more by reporters she and her secertary, Daisy De Voe, will cut short their visit.

Miss Bow and Miss De Voe arrived in Dallas last Sunday and registered at a hotel under assumed names, later being "discovered."

Housewarming for Boys' Home

Invitations have been issued by the Hostel, a home for older boys, for a house-warming on the 26th inst., from 3 to 5 and 8 to 10 p.m., which will formally dedicate its new quarters at 1400 West Third street.

This home, established about a year ago, is operated under the auspices of the Episcopal church.

The new home, with Rev. Arthur Cotter as director, has capacity for twenty-five to thirty boys and has been completely furnished by friends of the institution.

Those who will act as hosts will include Mrs. E. M. Potts, Mrs. John Liveridge, Mrs. B. Franklin Bernson and Dr. and Mrs. Francis.

Welcome Plans for Evangelist Now Complete

More than 5000 of her followers are expected to assemble at Central Station tomorrow to welcome Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of Angelus Temple, on her return aboard the Continental Limited at 5:30 p.m. following a three months' tour of Europe and the Holy Land. Official greetings will be extended the evangelist by Councilman Sanborn, who is to be acting Mayor for the day. He will deliver his words of welcome from the platform of a decorated observation car.

Following ceremonies at the depot a police escort will head a procession to Angelus Temple, where Mrs. McPherson's homecoming is to be further celebrated by a dinner and services.

WIDER WALKS URGED FOR PERSHING SQUARE

City Engineer Jessup yesterday recommended to the City Council that the sidewalks in Fifth and Sixth streets bordering Pershing Square be widened. The cost is estimated at $2800, and the Engineer suggests that the sum be transferred to park department accounts. The department will do the work. The matter was referred to the Public Works Committee.

RECALL LEAGUE ELECTS

Newly elected officers of the Initiative, Referendum and Recall League were announced yesterday. They are Albert S. Falk, president, H. Fournier, vice-president, R. C. Green, secretary, and Miss Frances Friend, treasurer. Election took place Wednesday at 224 South Spring street.

how to guard in youth against the AFTER 40 AILMENT

"PROTECT health between 20 and 40," urges the medical profession. Upon the care taken during this span, determines health in later life.

The wear and tear of life begins to take its toll at 40 unless you fortify against it. One of the most prevalent after 40 ailments is kidney breakdown. Over half of men and women are affected.

Kidneys, through constant passing off of 75% of waste matter from the system, are overworked. Congestion occurs, throwing back into the system poisons which should be eliminated. This is the forerunner of more serious ills.

"Begin at 20 to protect against this after 40 ailment," doctors say. Drink 6 glasses of Puritas distilled water each day. Waste matter in the system is soluble in water; is absorbed and carried off. Thus the load of kidneys is lightened. Protected against excessive strain, their life of normal functioning is lengthened.

Ordinary water fails, in a large measure, in these results because of mineral contents it contains. These deposits clog kidneys, adding further to congestion. Puritas is both mineral-free and impurity-free, made so by scientific distillation. Thus Puritas is the purest water in purest, most healthful form. Though its taste seems flat at first, each drink you'll find you enjoy.

...praise our consti... ...of liberty. It ...duty to ap...praise them," said Harold F. Pettee, Jr., Pomona College, winner of first place.

"For years prior to the promulgation of the Constitution Americans underwent a succession of acts of injustice and tyranny. Did not four American States within seven years deprive their citizens of right of trial by jury?" he asked. "Did not other States abridge the freedom of the press? Did not nearly all the States rob, or take property from the people without due process of law? It was these demonstrations of arbitrary power that forced the people to the realization that to secure personal liberty, constitutional guarantees were a necessity.

LIBERTY GUARANTEE

"The result of their protests was the inclusion in the Constitution of the first ten amendments, which, together with the few guarantees contained in the original document, comprise the American Bill of Rights, which for 140 years has preserved liberty and freedom in the United States. In striking contrast to the usage of other democracies, these guarantees protect not only citizens of this country, but all persons within its boundaries. The provisions in the Bill of Rights make no distinction between citizens as such and persons as such. Thus is it, that the foreigner who comes to our shores and attempts to adjust himself to American ideals and American practice finds in the Constitution as much protection for his personal liberty as does the citizen who has lived here all his life.

"However it is one thing to read and to enumerate the general guarantees in the Constitution. It is quite a different thing to apply them to specific situations. That has been the duty of the Supreme Court."

He related briefly the function of the Supreme Court and declared that if our guarantees of liberty were to be made effective the court could alone render them so.

Concluding his oration, he said:

"The Constitution guarantees us freedom of speech, but it does not guarantee that truth will always be spoken. The Constitution guarantees us trial by jury, but it does not guarantee that jurors will always return just verdicts. The Constitution guarantees liberty, but it does not guarantee that under the police power our liberties will not be placed in jeopardy. The Constitution guarantees us freedom as long as our political system continues, but does not guarantee the continuance of that system. These things the American people must guarantee themselves. These are the guarantees for which you and I, as citizens of the republic, must assume the responsibility. If we believe in them, let us give the full measure of our devotion to the task of establishing them, firm and unshakable."

Edmund D. Doyle, St. Xavier College, Cincinnati, O., and winner of the central zone contest who was awarded second place, urged we as Americans should understand the significance of the Constitution and realise that this document, for the first time in the history of mankind, provided as a bedrock for government the God-given right of the individual and that this liberty was insured by an intricate check and balance system in this priceless document.

"When did a nobler vision inspire men in the political annals of mankind?" he asked. "What more ravishing music to the ear of the true American than the story of his own land, growing under the guidance and protection of its unique constitution from a small, despised people into the paragon of would leadership? What more stirring memory than that of those gallant souls heroically and gladly dying in defense of the Constitution in 1861 and 1918?

"The eternal verities contained in that immortal scroll are as living today as they were in 1789. It is not an outworn relic of antiquity, a mass of dry bones. It is a living organism of flesh and blood. It is not a code of laws but a charter of liberties and as such the fire of its words will never be quenched."

CONSTITUTION AND YOUTH

Arthur Larson, Augustana College, Sioux Falls, S. D., and winner of the Midwestern zone who won third place compared the Constitution to a lance so great that no one could wield it. Instead of cutting it down, wise men determined to raise a youth who could handle it. His subject was "The Constitution and American Youth."

"Some day soon—this is my plea and my sincerest expectation, American youth will meet this challenge squarely. This oratorical contest, representing 500,000 students, certainly indicates a beginning. When that day comes, what is it we must do? What is necessary is this: that the Constitution enjoy not only the understanding, but the genuine love and confidence of every person it rules; that, following the wise man's counsel, that if there must be change, we make it, not in the Constitution, but look to ourselves, make the change there; that if there must be revision, it be not a revision of the Constitution, but vision in its uses; and above all, that we raise up leaders, fill our offices with them, give them a generous discretion—leaders who have the soul and stature to wield this mighty instrument wrought for us and intrusted to us by the master hand of destiny.

"When that day comes—friends, I wonder if it is not almost here; for the youth of America have already roused themselves—in the words of Milton, 'As a strong man after his sleep'—and when thus awakened, God knows they are equal to any task."

"Constitutional Ideals" was the subject of the oration of James P. Casey, New York City, and student at Fordham University and winner of the eastern zone. He told of the attacks on the Supreme Court of the United States and the attack upon the Bill of Rights.

STOOD TEST OF WAR

"It is thought the test of time was that the Constitution of the United States has come to occupy the position of greatness which it holds today," declared Robert Elliott of Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., and winner of the southern zone contest in his oration on "The Constitution of the United States."

"Time has shown the wisdom of its framers in providing for the three departments of government and so adjusting their powers as on the one hand to guard against hasty and ill-considered action on the part of the people, and on the other to render despotism impossible. I say that time has proved its greatness because its essential principles have withstood the stress of three wars which have tested and refined American nationality."

SURVIVED MISTRUSTS

"The Constitution and International Relations" was the subject of John A. Burke of Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass., and winner of the New England zone contest. He compared the recent disarmament conference to the gathering of representatives of the thirteen Colonies in America following the Revolutionary War. He declared that all of the jealousies, the fear of power, the hatreds and distrusts existed among the representatives of the Colonies that today exists among the world powers, but that America at that time had men of great vision, who, realizing all these limitations, formed a document, through mutual sacrifice and exchange, that has given birth to our present liberties.

JUDGED BY ITS FRUITS

"By their fruits ye shall know them," declared Franklin P. Cole of De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind., in his oration on "The Constitution and National Progress." He held that the answer to attacks on the Constitution by critics was to look at the fruit of the Constitution and judge from that standpoint. He traced the progress of the nation directly from the clauses of the great document which he declared to have been the source of initiative on the part of our fathers.

EQUESTRIANS WED IN SADDLE

Hundred Horsemen Witness Ceremony

At End of Bridle Trail

Donald W. Harris, groom; Rev. E. W. Dorrance and Bonnie Jean Gray, the bride.

OUT in the wide-open spaces formed by a clearing on the old Lasky ranch in Griffith Park, Bonnie Jean Gray of Burbank, nationally famous horsewoman, yesterday achieved an ambition she has harbored since childhood—to be married in the saddle. Astride her performing roan, King Tut, she became the wife of Donald W. Harris, Burbank property owner, in an equestrian wedding attended by more than 100 guests on horseback. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Earl W. Dorrance, with Miss Winifred Napier of Pacific Palisades serving as maid of honor and Ralph Walton of Burbank as best man.

Mrs. Harris says she has been in the saddle since she was 6 years of age. Graduating from the University of Idaho, she became a trained nurse and served through the World War. After the armistice she adopted a professional riding career, appearing at fairs and rodeos all over the world. She has won trophies at the Cheyenne, Pendleton and other notable roundups and at rodeos in Chicago's Coliseum and New York's Madison Square Garden.

HOSPITAL RULE PUT UP TO WOOD

County Ordinance Makes Him Solely Responsible

County Supervisor Shaw Cites Law of Case

Superintendent May Make Changes as Required

Administration of the affairs and the handling of the personnel of the medical staff at the Los Angeles County General Hospital is squarely up to Dr. N. N. Wood, the superintendent, and not under the supervision of the member of the County Board of Supervisors in charge of public welfare.

This is set forth in a communication calling the superintendent's attention to County Ordinance No. 1022, which makes him the supreme head of the hospital, sent to Dr. Wood yesterday by Supervisor Shaw, head of the Public Welfare Committee of the board. It is as follows:

Dr. N. N. Wood, superintendent Los Angeles County General Hospital.

Dear Dr. Wood: Following your discussion this morning with me relative to the necessity of making certain administrative changes in the management of the Los Angeles County General Hospital, this is to advise you that under Ordinance No. 1022, Section 4a, Rule I, you, as superintendent of the Los Angeles County General Hospital, are the head of it and it is your duty to direct, supervise and control all activities of the hospital, and you have immediate charge and control of all medical work of this institution.

You are alone responsible for the good management of the Los Angeles County General Hospital and under this ordinance it is your prerogative to make any changes you deem advisable for efficient management of the hospital.

Yours very truly,
FRANK L. SHAW,
Supervisor, Second District.

HUNTINGTON ART WILL BE CATALOGUED

C. H. Collins Baker of London Arrives Here for Important Task

C. H. Collins Baker, surveyor of the King's pictures and keeper and secretary of the National Gallery in London, has arrived at San Marino upon invitation of the trustees of the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery to prepare for publication a catalogue of the British paintings in the art collections.

Dr. Max Farrand, director of research of the library and art gallery, in making this announcement yesterday, said:

"An important service, though not generally recognized, is being rendered by the Huntington Library in the improvement of international relations and especially between England and the United States.

"The Huntington Library is a 'research laboratory.' Owing to the rarity of its material it is attracting scholars from all over the United States and from England and the continent.

"However, the collection of British portraits of the eighteenth century in the art gallery is much better known to the great majority of the people. It is these British portraits together with a number of figure groups and landscapes, that Mr. Baker has come to catalogue; and when the catalogue is prepared for publication, Sir Charles Holmes, former director of the National Gallery, will write the introduction.

"Mr. Baker has made a reputation in cataloguing collections. He has previously catalogued in the United States the collections of the Ann Mary Brown Museum of Providence, R. I., and the Frick Collection in New York."

City Again Has but Negligible Trace of Rain

Los Angeles received another mere trace of rain yesterday, but, as was the case of the day before, it was not epough to measure. In this respect the city was less fortunate than some of the near-by communities.

The season's total stands at 11.52 inches against a normal to date of 15.21. The normal for an entire season, ending June 30, is 15.23 inches. The normal fall for June is .08 of an inch. None has fallen in measurable quantities this June.

Yesterday's maximum temperature was 65 deg., which is 12 below the average of June day maximums. Generally fair weather is forecast for Friday and Saturday, except near the coast, where clouds may appear.

San Fernando reported .03 of an inch of rain yesterday. Glendale received a light shower yesterday morning as well as the day before. Glendora reported .03 of an inch yesterday, Hermosa Beach .02 and Ventura .04.

Heavier rains were recorded north of here, Santa Barbara receiving .12, Santa Mario .05 and Painted Caves, .59.

NORTHERN AREAS GET LIGHT RAINFALL

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19. (Exclusive)—Coast counties experienced their first rain of the month today from a light storm that left a trace inland also. Only a trace was recorded in each instance. The Weather Bureau sees a possibility of light showers again tomorrow.

Precipitation in inches as reported by official northern stations at 5 p.m., was:

	Last 24 Hours	Seasonal to Date	Seasonal Last Year
Eureka	T.	29.62	29.42
Sacramento	T.	13.62	16.89
Santa Rosa	.01	20.50	19.18
San Francisco	T.	14.56	15.90

Levine Loses in Attempt to Block Trial

Petition of Morris Lavine, former newspaper man, to restrain Superior Court from proceeding to a retrial on the 23rd inst. on an extortion charge was denied yesterday by Division Two, District Court of Appeal.

Lavine is accused of having obtained $75,000 from Charles H. Crawford in an asserted plot. Leontine Johnson, his codefendant, was denied a similar petition Wednesday.

The trial is scheduled to be held before Superior Judge Schauer.

OAKLAND GIRL SOUGHT HERE

In search of her mother, whom she has not seen for twelve years, 15-year-old Irene Fraga, 2185 High street, Oakland, is believed to be in Los Angeles, according to word received last night from the girl's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fraga. The girl's name was Grace Barber before adoption by the Fragas. She expressed a desire to find her mother and may make her way to the home of a relative here, Mrs. Lester Boardway, 4245 Union avenue, according to Mrs. Fraga.

FITTS MEETINGS PLANNED

More Than 100 Speakers Volunteer to Campaign for Los Angeles Gubernatorial Candidate

Three meetings to place before the people Buron Fitts's program of tax relief and return to economy in government will be held by his supporters in three different sections of the city today and tonight.

The first will be a luncheon today at the El Serrano Club, 3351 Eastern avenue. The evening meetings will be held by the Taxpayers' League of the Fifth Councilmanic District at the Sixth-avenue School and by the Independent Republican Club at 147 East Sixty-fourth street.

From now until the primary from three to five meetings will be held here daily in behalf of Fitts. Organization of a speakers' bureau has been placed in charge of Mark L. Herron, attorney. He announces that more than 100 men and women have volunteered their services.

Mrs. Charles W. Decker, in charge of the woman's division for Southern California, has announced that Fitts will be the principal speaker at a luncheon for women the 30th inst. at the Figueroa Playhouse.

Mrs. William T. Hearst, assistant director of women, yesterday announced the formation of a Fitts-for-Governor Club among the women of Bakersfield. At the same time a veterans' organization started functioning for Fitts in Bakersfield. A. W. Kincaid is chairman of this group and George Hughes, secretary.

Indorsements of Fitts continue to come in from temperance organizations. Yesterday, Mrs. Lucy M. Getchell, corresponding secretary of the Lynwood Woman's Temperance Union, announced that unit has lined up behind Fitts.

Mrs. Victoria Bannister, secretary of the Los Angeles County Woman's Christian Temperance Union, yesterday notified Fitts that the union has passed a resolution of appreciation of his work.

TERRE HAUTE PICNIC

The Terre Haute (Indiana) Society of Los Angeles will hold its annual picnic Sunday at Sycamore Grove Park, it is announced by Esther P. Beldomridge.

Rich Canadian Leaps to Death From Liner Deck

Alexander Mero, aged and wealthy Canadian, leaped overboard to his death Friday, the 13th inst., two days out from San Jose de Guatemala, Capt. A. C. Paulsen reported on arrival of his Panama Mail liner Guatemala yesterday.

Passengers told of seeing the man climb the railing and pitch himself into the darkness. A boat was lowered and scoured the seas an hour in vain.

Mr. Mero, now 90 years of age, was reported to have gone to Guatemala from Essex, Can., forty-six years ago and to have accumulated a fortune. He is said to have a daughter in Monterey.

GARMENT CLASS OPENS

An evening home economics class in apparel pattern designing at university college, University of Southern California, will open tonight from 6:10 to 9:30 in the Transportation Building in charge of Edmund Gurney. A theory of garment-making course opens Saturday from 8 a.m. to 12:10 p.m.

University Trio Will be Honored

One former president and two pioneer professors of the University of Iowa will be the guests of honor at a reception Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. William Duffield, 1015 South Manhattan Place.

Thomas H. McBride, former head of the Hawkeye institution, Melville B. Anderson, professor of English from 1887-1895, who later founded the department of English at Stanford University, and A. A. Veblen, professor of physics from 1883 to 1905, are the trio to be honored.

All former students of the university who were acquainted with these men are invited to attend the reception.

Today's Bible Text

Now if Christ be preached that He rose from the dead, how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead?—I Cor. xv:12.

FIGHTING BLOOD

The big Italian boss appears to envisage a dove of peace with spurs about a foot long.

TOUGH ON RECORD HOLDERS

It's almost as hard for a real athlete to win credit for a new record as it is for a real gang leader with a record to get arrested in Chicago.

NO BLOWING UP

The railroads of America moved more than half a billion pounds of dynamite last year without killing anybody, yet a man can stick around his own fireside and get blown up by a little woman weighing not more than 100 pounds.

BACHELORS

The German Cabinet has decided to tax bachelors 10 per cent in addition to their regular income tax. In a land where there are a million or two more women than men, this law ought to have its good points. It may come to be true that two can live as cheaply as one.

FIND A HAVEN

Will some gentleman kindly step up and make an offer for the Presidential yacht Mayflower? The government seems to have had a hard job in getting rid of it since President Hoover left it in the discard. Why don't the sports to the south of us buy the handsome craft and run up the flag of the Agua-Caliente navy?

BE DELIBERATE!

After playing in a golf tournament in which he and his partner defeated another pair in a foresome 75 to 85, John D. Rockefeller, who scored second high with a 40 on his own links, advised: "Be deliberate! Be deliberate!" And then he volunteered, "Talk less and play better." All of which might be commended to other lines of life.

CHILE COOLS OFF

Chile seems to have developed the right idea in its military program. The government figures on having no more soldiers in the regular army than would suffice for drill masters in the event of a real war. Chile has been operating under compulsory service for its young men, but the plan now is to call less than one-third to the colors. No need in putting up a battle front when the dogs of war are muzzled. What they crave in South America is more peace and plenty of it.

THE "IVORY" SHIP

Another Spanish galleon loaded with prospective treasure came safely to port in the Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor when the ground was broken with appropriate ceremonies for the building of the Procter & Gamble factory on the Pacific Coast. Thus was completed from east to west the string of industrial plants for supplying millions of American families with an indispensable household utility. We hail the presence of the Ivory Ship in our Southern California waters with the well-known slogan, "It Floats."

While the determination of the Procter & Gamble Company to build a factory in this neighborhood was taken last year, the ground breaking will draw again the attention of business leaders to the needs of the growing population here in other lines as evidenced by the late census. Thus the Ivory Ship promises to be the advance galleon of a fleet of commerce carriers destined to come to port for Southern California trade in the expansive years on which Los Angles is entering.

The Ivory Ship has a cargo for us of increased employment, more pay envelopes and another stamp of approval on the prospects of the Southwest, set by a concern in the forefront of big business. But this does not embrace its whole itinerary. It brings to us another example of the prosperity assured by friendly co-operation between employers and employees in contrast to the antagonism fostered by the sponsors of the closed shop and a promise of more industrial harmony where in the past such harmony has been the keystone of progress.

There is a warm welcome here from everybody for the Ivory Ship. May it float well and travel far.

CHICAGO TAKES STEPS

The resignations, under fire, of the Chicago Police Commissioner and chief of detectives are but two indications that Chicago, at last, is thoroughly aroused to the necessity of ridding itself of gangsters and racketeers. Whether or not these officials have connived at the past situation, they have demonstrated an inability to cope with it that required their replacement. That matters would also be improved by the resignation or removal of Mayor Thompson also is clear. There can be no public confidence in any administration which Thompson heads, and his ousting is necessary as much for its psychological effect as for its administrative. If Thompson stays, gangland will merely take cover until the storm blows over; if Thompson goes, gangland will begin to think about quitting for good.

Edwin Balmer, who has been discussing Chicago crime organization for The Times and North American Newspaper Alliance, points out that the gang slayers always work, when possible, in a dramatic way. A change of Chicago administration would help to dramatize the changed attitude of Chicago citizens. Another dramatic element, according to Mr. Balmer, is known as the "Secret Six," an under-cover organization within the Chicago Employers' Association, which finances and directs investigations of gangsters and racketeers and has turned in several important criminals against whom the police did not, or could not, operate.

The movement to induce Ambassador Dawes to take a hand in the situation, either as unofficial dictator or as actual Mayor, also senses the value of drama in the crime war. Picturesque forcefulness is better than the plain variety for the purpose.

But while dramatic manifestation of the decision of the Chicago public to root out gangsterism is desirable, the decision itself is the important matter. Whether the campaign will succeed depends upon the spirit in which it is undertaken. Histrionics will not answer the purpose, unless there is genuine determination back of them, a realization of all the decent people in the city, who are, of course, in the vast majority, that respect for and observance of law on the part of everybody is necessary to prevent anarchy.

No kind of crime can be tolerated if all kinds are not to flourish. When this fact is recognized, and when machinery is provided which accomplishes the arrest and punishment of the majority of criminals, instead of an insignificant minority, crime in Chicago, and in other cities which adopt the same program, will dimish.

It remains to be seen whether Chicago will genuinely experience the change of heart which a lasting clean-up requires. The city is aroused at present, but it requires to stay aroused. It needs to be continually vigilant if it is to put down crime and keep it down. It will have to learn to go to the ballot box and discriminate in the choice of officials. It will have to admit to itself that bootlegging and bank robbery are branches of the same tree, that extortion cannot be condoned because it is done in the name of union labor, and that a gangster ought to be punished for killing another gangster even if the slaying seems socially advantageous. It must appreciate that keeping law and order in Chicago is more important than keeping King George out.

Chicago has the choice between a hysterical crusade which will end in a restoration of the old conditions as soon as the enthusiasm dies out, and a real turning over of a new leaf. There are some indications that the latter is what is happening in Chicago now, that aroused public opinion means what it says. It will be well for the nation's second city, and for the nation itself, if these signs are read rightly.

Los Angeles also has a good deal to learn from the situation. Chicago is in bad shape because she has permitted her ills to become chronic. In such cases the cure takes longer and has to go much deeper. This city needs to guard against gangsterism and racketeering in their incipiency. So far as racketeering is concerned, maintenance of the open shop is not only advantageous in itself but a guarantee against this form of organized crime. Any increase of crime in a city is a bad sign, an indication that a crime ring is operating and that the hand of the police needs strengthening. It is hard work keeping crime and gangsters out of any large city, when the police department is efficient and has plenty of men and material; when the police department is hampered and skimped it becomes impossible. Only vigilance can prevent Los Angeles and other large cities from going the way of Chicago, and from having as difficult a time extricating themselves from gangdom's grip.

"JUST TO SEE IT BURN"

What was probably the oldest and largest Joshua tree in California has been destroyed by vandals. The tree stood in the Mojave Desert nine miles east of Roosevelt and often had been remarked by tourists and others for its weird beauty and enormous size. Rarely do Joshua trees grow taller than fifty feet. This one stood eighty feet high and was nine feet in diameter. Nobody knows how many hundreds of years it required to attain this magnificent size, but, with its readily inflammable bark and branches, it took but a few hours to destroy it.

From a purely utilitarian point of view perhaps little was lost by the destruction of this noble tree or of others of its species that have fallen before the wanton attacks of desert marauders. But from the esthetic standpoint the loss is considerable and cannot be replaced.

It would be difficult to find terms adequately to characterize its destroyers. They are in a class with those who for years have pillaged the habitat of the yucca whippiei, with its beautiful flowering stalks. But they are even worse vandals, for the reason that the Joshua is much less numerous and takes longer to grow.

No wonder that the Forest Service of Los Angeles county is aroused by the destruction of the giant Joshua and that strenuous efforts will be made to run down those who fired it "just to see it burn," for its poetic and artistic value was great and it will be sadly missed by those desert travelers of sentiment who have been passing it for years and admiring its wild beauty and huge proportions. To them its destruction, like the falling of the great cedar in the Markham poem, "leaves a lonesome place against the sky."

LOCKING THE GOLDEN GATE

An editorial writer comments on the new bridge projected across the Golden Gate at San Francisco and calls it "Unlocking the Golden Gate." The question arises, Will the bridge unlock, or lock, the famous gate?

As a commercial enterprise, the project has tremendous possibilities. It would open up the west end of San Francisco and the territory immediately north of it. It would probably reduce the rail time between the Bay City and Seattle by an hour. It would afford an automobile outlet to the north which motorists will greatly appreciate.

According to proposals now under consideration, the bridge would have piers 700 feet high and at least one of them sunk eighty feet below the waterline. The floor of the bridge would be 225 feet above the channel and between piers there would be a clear span of probably 4200 feet.

The longest suspension bridge heretofore designed is now being built over the Hudson at New York which will measure 3500 feet. This in turn is almost twice as long as the next longest span.

The bridge across the Golden Gate calls for a roadway 100 feet wide. Of this but thirty feet would be in use at first for vehicular traffic. Other engineers are recommending a stronger bridge to carry a roadway 150 feet wide with trolley and steam road tracks below.

The Golden Gate is known around the world. Argosies have come and gone through it. Stories have been fabricated around it and it has been enshrined in poesy. Possibly a bridge may add to its picturesque setting and be an aureole arched above it.

However, there is a serious possibility that such a bridge might prove a cork to bottle up the fleet in time of war. A few torpedoes from the air would sink the span beneath the water and effectually close the bay for exit to fight. The gateway is not too wide as it is. A fighting force needs the possibilities of the open sea. . . .

A bridge may mean a lock on the Golden Gate! A harbor may be too good. This may be one reason why Los Angeles is chosen as the base for the Navy on the Pacific Coast.

FIGHTING FOR IT

President Hoover says, "Peace is not a static thing." Certainly a number of movements are on foot to bring it about.

The LEE SIDE O' LA
BY Lee Shippey

OLD kerosene lamps, especially those which look like relics of pioneer days, are rather a fad in Southern California now. But many of them are electrically wired and comparatively few are the Southern California homes which rely on kerosene lamps for light. Yesterday, though, we were in a large room in which stately lamps shone brightly as on Belshazzar's feast, if you know your Byron. That was the lamp room of the General Petroleum Company's refinery at 2525 East Thirty-seventh street. In each of the tall brass lamps which stood all about the room the flame was a little higher than one usually sees it in a household lamp, yet every wick was crowned by a perfect arc of flame and there was not a sign of smoke. In each of those lamps a sample of kerosene was being tested, burned a minimum of twenty-four hours continuously and unless it would burn without forming a crust on the wick and starting to smoke it was not considered fit for sale.

For, according to statistics compiled last year, 34 per cent of the homes of the United States still use coal-oil lamps, there still being many parts of the Middle West and South which have little or no electrical power. Then vast quantities of kerosene are exported to foreign countries, especially to the Orient. The Standard Oil Company of New York, of which General Petroleum is a subsidiary, ships an average of 12,000 barrels of coal oil a day to China. About half of this is made in the General Petroleum plants here.

Why We Are Different

It is probable that fewer farmers and country village folks in Southern California depend on kerosene for light than in any other State in the Union, for the simple reason that most of them depend on irrigation. That has made electric current a profitable part of ranch equipment, and with both piped water and electric current at their doors, our rural residents have "modernized" as many in New England have not as yet.

But in our remote mountain and desert areas a good many dwellings still are lit with coal-oil lamps. And we'll wager that within a radius of one block from the Los Angeles Plaza one can find at least a score of households which use them regularly.

But Gas, on the Other Hand—

We may let plenty of other States, even some little ones, beat us in the amount of kerosene used, but we make up for it in the use of gasoline. Last year California used 42,000,000 barrels of gasoline. Figure that out at forty-two gallons to the barrel, if you have time. No wonder we poor straphangers are almost choked to death by gas fumes as we stand in the safety zones, awaiting our cars, in the rush hours.

More Efficiency Than Jobs

The Vernon plant of "General Pete" is one of the oldest in the district. To show us the contrast between it and the latest model, W. M. McElroy and Red Grace took us over to the Torrance plant of the same company. There we saw about $1,500,000 worth of equipment being handled by only five men. We'd describe it all to you, but you couldn't understand it, anyway. We feel sure you couldn't, because we couldn't, even while looking at it and while those experts were explaining it to us. The big jolt we got out of it was that only five men were operating that wonderful machinery, so mechanically perfect that it operated itself, for the most part. That plant can turn out gasoline at around 5 cents a gallon, but it's no place for a large crowd of workmen to go looking for jobs.

Employees' Safety

The Torrance plant has been operating over a year and has never injured anyone. It has an honor flag flying which has never had to come down. In all the plants of the General Petroleum Company every employee is invited to make suggestions for safety, efficiency or general welfare. Some of the suggestions are foolish, but many are very helpful and every man feels he has some say-so in his working conditions. A committee of foremen passes on these suggestions first, weeding out those which are unreasonable or adopting those which are good and comparatively inexpensive. Recommendations which involve more research or capital outlays are passed up to a higher committee. But the whole plan works for cohesion and efficiency. And if any workman works under any conditions which are dangerous it is his own fault.

And the men and departments take pride in their records. As we drove into the company's loading wharf at Terminal Island we saw three flags flying from big flagpoles. One was the United States flag, in the center. On shorter flagpoles on each side were two honor flags, each showing that the department of which it was the emblem had passed through the previous month without an accident. The racing spirit has been awakened in those departments and either would feel humiliated if its flag had to come down.

ALOHA OF THE ATOLL
By James J. Montague

Aloha finds life on an atoll
A little bit dready and flat
And her years are too few—she is just twenty-two—
To know that all life is like that.
So she waits in the shade of the palm trees
Till a ship has sailed into the bay
With a lad who says, "Gal, you're my own little pal
An' I'll wed you an' take you away."

But a trader—those rascally traders—
Who has futilely sued for her hand,
Intercepts their mad flight in the long-boat at night
With a knife in his sinister hand.
However, the undaunted hero
Whips a gat from his hip in the dark
And the trader—quite dead—is deservedly fed
To a casually loitering shark.

Next scene is a one-room apartment
In Flatbush, or maybe the Bronx,
Where there isn't a sound for the whole day around
Except sirens and motor-truck honks.
She longs for the rustle of palm trees,
She yearns for her big bowl of poi,
And she learns that the life of a New Yorker's wife
Is not quite her notion of joy.

She dreams of her verdure-fringed atoll
And the rainbow-hued showers of spray
And the breakers that roar on the white, sandy shore
Through the long and the languorous day.
And whenever her seagoing husband
Attempts to reproach or upbraid her,
Her stinging remark is "A curse on that shark
For eating my darling old trader!"

CHOOSING YOUR CAREER

XXIV

ENGINEERING

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

[This is the last of a series of twenty-four articles designed to help young men and women find careers which appeal to them and for which they are fitted. Ralph Modjeski is one of the world's foremost civil engineers. He has designed and built many of the greatest bridges in the United States and abroad. He won the John Frits Gold Medal, the highest honor the United States may bestow upon an engineer. He is a son of the famous Polish tragedienne, Mme. Helena Modjeska, and was educated at the College des Ponts et Chaussees, Paris, from which he was graduated at the head of his class.]

You should have a practical mind if you are considering taking up engineering, in any of its branches, as your life work.

You must be a hard worker and have high powers of concentration, for the profession is an exacting one whether you are a civil, mining, electrical, mechanical or chemical engineer.

You will have to have a bent for mathematics and mechanics and you should know early in your preparatory school course whether or not you have a leaning this way. Without a liking for these subjects you have little chance to get through an engineering course in college.

It is necessary in these days that you have a college degree if you are to get ahead in the profession. Years ago this didn't make so much difference, but competition and a higher general standard of work demand that the engineer of the present obtain the best of technical training.

You will find that most of the colleges and universities in the country offer courses in engineering and you can select the one that best suits you with little chance of making a mistake. You will have to work hard while you are in college or you will be under a handicap later on.

If you can take a course in architecture it will help you in your work as an engineer. Likewise you will benefit from getting as much practical experience as you can during your vacation periods.

You will help yourself by gaining a good general education, in addition to studying hard in all the technical subjects in your course. A knowledge of economics, finance and law aids an engineer.

You should be in perfect health, as field work as an engineer is likely to tax a young man's strength and endurance to hardship and exposure. Use what time you can spare from your studies to be out of doors and to engage in athletics. In that way you will be building well for the future.

Mentally, you should be alert, willing to carry out the orders of your superior in all detail and accurately, and willing to work at all hours of day or night, as circumstances may demand, once you obtain a position. In other words, you should have constantly on your mind the good of the work and its ultimate success, just as a good soldier has in mind the winning of a battle.

After graduation you will naturally look around for a position in the engineering field. If you have a chance, it is best to begin with field work, especially if there is to be some incidental drafting and clerical work with it.

Your next move should be to endeavor to get into a drafting office where you can get some experience in detail and, later, in original drawing. If you have been following the structural branch of engineering, you should endeavor to spend six months or more at the shops of some large bridge company as inspector.

As a graduate engineer just out of college, you can hardly hope to receive a higher salary than $150 a month to begin with. It might even be wise for you to accept a lower remuneration at first in order to obtain valuable experience, provided you are able to make two ends meet with your modest compensation.

You should bear in mind that, in getting valuable experience, you are amassing a capital which, eventually, will bring you adequate returns.

You will discover, as you advance in the profession, that if you have learned to obey your superiors from the start you will have the ability to handle men when it comes your turn to superintend a job. With experience, if you know your business, will come the knack of dealing with capitalists and others interested in big projects.

You will find that promotion comes fast enough, if you are a good apprentice. With it you will get pay increases that correspond to those in other professions.

There is an increasing demand for engineers all over the world and that means a big opportunity to those of you who can qualify.

THE ROAD NOG

I am a lady driver; I've driven all my days vehicular contraptions designed in diverse ways.
From kiddie cars to straight eights—I've guided them with care; an ambulance I sponsored when I was Over There.
O'erwhelmed with much derision we gentle gender are, anent our navigation by means of motor car. It has become a byword—the dumbness of the queen who ties up all the traffic and rouses people's spleen.
But I would rise and pray you to tell me if you will about a certain some one whose driving makes me chill. The "Nice Old Gent" road hazard, so placid and distrait, he simply won't get out of the other fellow's way; he has no place to go, and all day to go there in; he never dreams that others some daily bread must win. A good cigar enjoying he views the scenery; his arm outstretched means only cigar ash flying free. This "Nice Old Gent" plague spreads more annoyance than the lad who is a driving wizard and races by like mad. And though I ride deploring the path of the road hog, I watch for and avoid him; but oh, you road N.O.G.!

THE MARVEL OF THE AGE

BY WILLIAM HAMILTON CLINE

Emphasizing perhaps more pointedly than ever before the shrinkage of the world under modern scientific progress and its close-knit unity, is the return of Admiral Byrd from his South Pole expedition, and the complete disclosure of what he found there, by visual and oral record, simultaneously.

Never before has an exploration of unknown regions been so graphically told; never before has it even remotely been possible for one in one's own home to hear from an explorer's own lips the tale of his achievements; or to sit in a theater and see the whole journey miraculously unfold before his very eyes.

Radio and vocal pictures, today's accomplishments, undreamed a decade ago, are almost commonplaces with us now, yet perhaps in this instance more than in any other their unique and fairly unbelievable resources are brought out in wholly unprecedented fashion.

When Byrd sailed out of Los Angeles Harbor, bound south, and said good-by to America, for the first time a discoverer went into the unknown with full ability to keep in close touch with the rest of the world. Equipped with powerful radio apparatus which was set up at his Antarctic base, the vivid story of his long stay there and the success he attained was transmitted daily through this newspaper, among a few others, to all. Day by day, we in civilization lived with Byrd and his men through the long, cold winters and triumphed with them in the attainment of their objectives.

And no less was their task lightened by the added fact that they, too, were in almost equal touch with what was going on in the civilization they had left and with their own loved ones who remained at home. And now on his return, Admiral Byrd is able through the same medium to recite in his own words the history of his achievements and extend his greetings to his fellow-Americans.

This in itself is an unprecedented event, but even more so is the pictorial record of his journey and his stay. More than thirty miles of moving-picture films were made by his crew of two operators—thirty miles of authentic, historic, imperishable visualization. Hitherto, a few still pictures in such circumstances were the best that might be hoped, and these only in late years. Byrd, however, has the full and complete story of his entire experience on the celluloid. It enables us to travel with him through the illimitable wastes of ice and snow, to feel the hardships he underwent, to endure the struggles he knew and overcame, to share the great glory of his triumphs—not with the dangers and trials and sufferings necessary to Byrd and his intrepid men, but in the comfort and ease of a modern theater, amid conditions so far transported from his that it is almost fantastic to contemplate both in the same era.

First, the story, day by day, as it came out of the ether and was translated into type in these columns for all the world to read. Then the greeting on the radio, carried into our homes by the voice of the man who did all this. Then the clear, lifelike, inspiring visualization in scene and word of the actual events themselves, screened for all to see!

All in all, it is the marvel of the age, transcending anything glimpsed by an Aladdin of yore; epochal in its significance, primal in its attainment, theatrical above the creative genius of any dramatist, incomparable in its values—the final apotheosis of this age of marvels and wonders.

The story and films of Byrd's discovery tour will be preserved, and the future can write his history with the last degree of authenticity from them. What might we not know of mankind's records of the past had we equally authentic data from which to write them!

LAGUNA

Browns, agate browns, and shades of amethyst,
The gold of cat's-eyes and soft moonstone greys,
With bolder colors in gala displays,
Are yours, Laguna!

A sapphire sea afar
Has witched the eye—
For near are pools of jade,
Where crystal foams ride by!
The topaz sun sets in a purple haze!

The waves, bewildered at the ink of night,
Beat blinded hands upon the crouching rocks;
All unavailing, cannot find repose;
And fall back, wailing, calling, moaning for the light.

But day and joy are one to these.
So mad their happiness!
With frenzied feet they rush
And dash themselves to pieces on the shore—
Nor cry out more!

ERMA DENNY TAGGART.

RIPPLING RHYMES by Walt Mason

THOU SHALT NOT

The Ten Commandments are plain that any simple, untaught swain may get their meaning at a glance, and so to righteousness advance. "Thou shalt not kill" the good man reads, and from the stains from gory deeds refrains; tempted oft to take an axe and polish off with skillful whacks the super-salesmen who are wont to sell him cars with pistons grunt; the men who come from town to remote to tell him how he ought to vote, and all the rank and dreary pests who would annoy our human nests. The code of law admits no doubt; it's plain and severe it's written out. So he who'd walk the godly way must learn the statutes in a day, he will call not lawyers in to learn just what is meant by sin. But if a man sits down to read the laws our courts would have him heed, if he's ambitious in his days, to shun the sinful ways, the more he reads the more he finds he's in a net that snares and blinds. Our statute laws are so confused that even lawyers' brains feel bruised when they have studied, day and night, to find out which is right or white. And august judges on the bench experience a frightful wrench, when they are called to decide the tall accounts of the hids. I read the statutes at times, that I may shun common crimes; they're couched in simple language, containing common-sense's message. "Thou shalt not," they say briefly say, "monopolize the right of way; thou shalt not butt up such a gait as will enrage t'other skate." But there is such a waste of words engaged in all these legal birds, that I've read a statute through and know not what I meant to do. Ere I can master laws like these I have to pay attorneys fees, consult the judge, in person prayed, and ask the chairman said.

NEW WHAT'S ANSWERS

COLD SOUPS

J. B., Los Angeles—Your letter came some time ago, and I have been trying to answer some of the recipe requests in the recipe column during the week. It took me many years to the Orient, and during the summertime, we used soups almost exclusively. Then we came to New York, where the people, and a great variety, and the cold sour soups filled with either fruits or vegetables such as onions are delicious during the hot months of the year, in the middle of the day, and while I was working at the same time I have not been able to learn a cold gumbo, but I can send you some of the rest that you desire.

COLD RASPBERRY SOUP

Take one pound of sugar to two pints of raspberries, mash them and allow them to stand for one hour, then press through a fine sieve, then the pulp in a saucepan and stir it carefully until the sugar has been reached. Add one tablespoonful of corn starch, two tablespoonfuls of cold water, then clear and smooth and add one cupful of sherry. Remove at once, and when ready to serve pour over shaved ice in glasses.

MIXED FRUIT SOUP

Take one-third part of dried apricots, soak to two-thirds of water, and allow to stand all night. Pour over this two cupfuls of water, and allow to stand in the morning place the fruit and add one cupful of sugar, a teaspoonful of cinnamon, and a tablespoonful of tapioca or sago, add another cupful of water and simmer till the fruits and the tapioca are tender, add a little sugar and serve cold.

CHOCOLATE SOUP OF ITALY

Take two ounces of grated chocolate, add to it sugar to taste and a teaspoonful of vanilla extract, and four cupfuls of milk, place in a double boiler and cook until smooth and the chocolate is dissolved. Beat the yolks of four eggs, add a little of the hot mixture to them, then pour in slowly stirring constantly. Allow to simmer for two minutes, cool, place a piece of stale sponge cake in a bouillon cup, pour the soup over it and serve cold.

BAKED ORANGE SOUFFLE

M. B. McG., Los Angeles—One tablespoonful of butter, seven-eighths of a cupful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of orange juice, the yolks of four eggs, the whites of four eggs, and one tablespoonful of grated orange rind. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually to it, then add the well-beaten yolks of the eggs, mix well, add the strained orange juice, and grated orange rind, and beat again, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, pour into a well-buttered baking dish, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven. Serve immediately.

RASPBERRY SHRUB

School Pupil—Pour four cupfuls of cider vinegar over two quarts of red raspberries in a jar or crock, and let them stand for three days, then mash and strain them through a jelly bag, and to each two cupfuls of juice add two cupfuls of sugar, stir until the sugar is dissolved, place on the fire, and boil slowly, skimming well for twenty minutes, bottle when cold.

CARAMEL FLAVOR

No Name—The real caramel flavor is to be had only from caramelized sugar, which may be made into a syrup and kept for months; for a small quantity made from one cupful of sugar a light-weight pan may be used, but make sure that it has a smooth surface. Put the sugar in the pan on a very low flame and keep it in constant motion with a spoon so that it warms through evenly before beginning to melt, then continue the stirring until entirely melted, being careful to keep the whole mass in motion so that it does not cling to the pan or scorch. Even with the greatest degree of care, the sugar may still form into large hard lumps when it begins to melt, but do not let this trouble you for it will melt quickly if you just continue the stirring and if you are sure that the flame is turned very low. Gradually the melted sugar will become a light brown and as soon as every grain has disappeared pour into the pan half as much water as the sugar used, preferably hot water. Should the sugar harden in a sheet, it will again soon dissolve. When used to flavor custards, the syrup may be stirred right into the mixture or some of it poured into the dish, and the custard on top of it. In that case, great care must be used, using only a tablespoonful of the syrup, rest the spoon over the custard cup, then slowly pour the custard in. After the sugar has melted, boil down quickly to a thin syrup which when cool will thicken to the consistency of an ordinary syrup. It should be stored in a tightly covered jar, and used as needed.

LIBRARIANS WILL INSPECT ROBOT THAT LENDS BOOKS

Science has invaded the field of library work with the invention of a robot which checks books in and out of the library.

This machine will be on public display for the first time in the exhibition of latest methods used in printing, bookbinding and library work, which is to be given in conjunction with the fifty-second annual convention of the American Library Association here, starting Monday.

Ralph A. Ulveling of the Detroit Public Library will describe the new self-service machine method of lending books. The invention has been tested out in Detroit and is now in use in more than fifty libraries in the East and Midwest, according to Everett O. Fontaine, manager of association publications and inventions.

More than 2000 delegates from all parts of the United States as well as a number from Europe, Canada and Mexico will attend the convention, Fontaine said yesterday. In addition to the robot, a miniature Hawaiian village, illustrations of the California county library work, a small model library fully equipped, a motion picture of bookbinding, and hundreds of the latest books from eastern publishing houses are to be included in the display.

NEWS OF THE CAFES

Ushering in a new Sunday-night program of dining, dancing and entertainment, George Olsen's new club, Culver City, will open at 5 p.m. next Sunday, serving a popular price steak and chicken dinner and offering a special performance of Olsen's new summer revue at 8 p.m. in addition to the regular show. There will be no cover charge from 5 to 9:30 p.m. The current show at this nocturnal rendezvous includes Olsen and his music, George Murphy and Juliette Johnson, dancers; Jack Shutta, comedian; Babe Kane, Dave Franklin, McCune sisters, and Olsen's ensemble of sixteen show girls. Patrons may dance nightly until 2:30 a.m. This feature attracts many after-theater parties.

PLAYERS TO BE GUESTS

"Hell's Angels" night in the Blossom Room of the Roosevelt Hotel next Monday will bring one of the most notable stellar delegations and programs of entertainment seen there in recent weeks. Guests of honor will be the stars of the Howard Hughes epic of aerial warfare, while occupying the highlight on the entertainment program to be given will be numbers from the prologue of the production now playing at the Chinese Theater. The occasion also will mark the first "guest star" event to take place in the Blossom Room since the advent there of Ben Bernie and his Roosevelt orchestra. They are scheduled to present special musical entertainment and play the newest dance music Monday evening in the supper room.

ACCORDIONIST HONORED

Louis Pella, accordionist at the Paris Inn Cafe, East Market street, has announced his appointment by the Los Angeles French Musicians' Guild to represent the Paris Inn Cafe and Los Angeles at the French national picnic to be held in San Francisco in July. Bert Rovere, proprietor of the inn, with L. Pedroli, is expected to accompany him north. Jack T. Arnold, assistant maitre d'hotel of the novel establishment, will supervise the special send-off banquets which Los Angeles Chapter, French Musicians' Guild, will hold in honor of Pella.

NEW CAFE OPENS

Queen's, one of Southern California's newest restaurants, located on Beverly Boulevard, near La Brea avenue, opened last week. A combination of good food and excellent environment at popular prices will prevail. Luncheon, dinner, afternoon tea or supper may be had in the romantic early California atmosphere. For those with less keen appetites the Coffee Room or Charcoal Broiler will have their appeal.

KNEE PATTING DENIED BY DIVORCE WITNESS

Miss Madeline Hume, witness in the divorce case of Agnes Irene and Edward Henry Solomon, denied on the stand in Superior Judge Sproul's court yesterday that she ever had her knees patted by Solomon, for loss of whose love Mrs. Solomon is suing Mrs. Hume for $200,000.

Improper conduct by both parties in the case is charged, and when Mrs. Solomon introduced Miss Hume into the case, Solomon produced a love letter said to have been written by his wife to an asserted sweetheart. The case will continue today.

ASSAULT ON SWEETLAND WILL FAILS

Action of Destitute and Blind Son Dismissed on Motion of Plaintiff

Albert I. Sweetland, destitute and blind, failed in his attempt to break the will of his mother, Mrs. Anna A. Sweetland, who died in Norwalk State Hospital leaving an estate of $30,000, when Superior Judge Fleming on motion of plaintiff, dismissed the suit yesterday.

The plaintiff's motion came after proponents of the will had moved for a nonsuit, which the court said it would be compelled to grant for lack of proof that Mrs. Sweetland's will had not been properly executed. When this proof is assembled, the court stated, another action to break the will can be commenced.

Mrs. Sweetland left her entire estate to Ralph W. Kramer who, according to the son's petition, exercised undue influence on the aged woman. The will was dated September 1, 1921, and mentioned a grand-daughter, who, according to the contestants' petition, was not born until 1922. It was asserted that the will was not written until 1928.

Sweetland, the son, was given $100 and a diamond ring, and the granddaughter mentioned got $1. Besides Sweetland, other contestants were C. B. Kinnamon, Hattie Appell, Oliver O. Clark, Anna Bowders, Andrew Mackay and Murray K. Sweetland.

Two Injured in Battle at Rooming-House

Joseph Santi, 45 years of age, and Mrs. June Graves, 30, are in Georgia-street Receiving Hospital and an unidentified man is being sought as the result of an asserted three-cornered altercation yesterday in a rooming-house at 821½ East Fifth street.

Santi, lessee of the rooming-house, had an argument with Mrs. Graves, his landlady. According to police Santi, brandishing a gun, pursued Mrs. Graves to her room and attacked her with his fists, when the roomer took a hand. As the police entered the house the roomer jumped through a window and fled.

Santi suffered a brain-concussion and minor stab wounds. Mrs. Graves is being treated for bruises. There is no record of the roomer's injuries, if any.

Film Woman Loses Suit Over Realty Deal

The old legal admonition of "caveat emptor," or "let the buyer beware," was vindicated in Superior Judge Schmidt's court yesterday when the court refused to grant an injunction against the sale of the Park Lane Apartments by a trust company to foreclose a deed on Lois Weber, film director and owner of the apartment.

Miss Weber sued the realty company that acted as agent in the sale of the property, Clinch & Thurtle, and also the sellers of the place, asserting misrepresentations in the value of the apartment and the amount of its rentals.

According to Miss Weber's attorneys, further court action will follow refusal of the injunction.

STRAWBERRIES CAN BE SERVED IN NOVEL WAYS

Luscious Berries Give Hostess Chance to Surprise Guests

When strawberries are plump and large it is a pleasant variation to put several on a plate unstemmed, garnished if possible with their glossy leaves. Include a little mound of granulated sugar on the plate, and then eat the berries after taking them by the stem and dipping them in the sugar. The experience is quite as pleasant as plucking and eating the berry from the vine.

Another inviting way is to pour three or four spoonfuls of sweetened orange juice over each individual serving of stemmed berries.

The value of sugar in improving the flavor of early summer fruits should be kept in mind. Many of these fruits have a tartness that will be pleasantly modified by sugar. And if berries, peaches and early apples are stewed, sugar is essential for real enjoyment.

Of course, it is exceedingly profitable to take advantage of opportunities that occur and "put up" a supply of jellies, jams and preserves. These foods help make balanced meals more appetizing. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

Of Interest to Women

Society

by JUANA NEAL LEVY

Cards are being issued by Mr. and Mrs. James Herbert of 5151 West Boulevard for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Maybell Claire Howard, to Hugh Kelso Walker, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. H. K. Walker of Van Buren Place, the ceremony to take place tomorrow afternoon in the gardens of the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Stoddard, 902 North Linden Drive, Beverly Hills, at 4 o'clock, with Dr. Walker officiating in the presence of relatives and a few close friends.

The bride will wear a gown of blue lace with hat and slippers to match, and carry bride's roses and lilies of the valley, while Miss Margaret Walker, sister of the bridegroom, who is to assist as maid of honor, will wear lavender lace with hat and slippers to match, and carry an armfull of pink roses.

W. E. Walker will serve his brother as best man and Mr. Howard will give his daughter in marriage.

A reception and wedding supper will follow the ceremony, after which Mr. Walker and his bride will leave for an extended wedding trip and after their return will make their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard and their daughter came from Topeka, Kan., about five years ago to make their home in Los Angeles, and owing to a recent serious illness of Mrs. Howard the ceremony will not take place at the family home.

Miss Howard was graduated from Washburn College and took her postgraduate work at University of Southern California, while Mr. Walker is an alumnus of Stanford and took his degree in law at the University of Southern California law school.

Dr. and Mrs. Hugh K. Walker of Van Buren Place will leave early next week for New York, where they will be joined by a group of friends from Los Angeles and Birmingham, Ala., sailing the 28th inst. for a Mediterranean cruise, and will also visit Norway and Sweden, returning to Los Angeles about September 1.

Summer Vacation

Miss Letha Mansfield of 348 West Fortieth Place left yesterday for a six weeks vacation in the Canadian Rockies. She is flying to her destination.

Sorority Installed

Installation of a chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary journalism sorority, at the University of Southern California took place at the Kappa Delta Sorority house recently, when members of the local organization, Sigma, were initiated into the national sorority.

Miss Elizabeth Hawkins, a member of Theta Sigma Phi from Columbia University, was installed as president of the Trojan chapter for next year, and Miss Wilma Goodwin is to be the vice-president.

Members of Sigma who were made members of Theta Sigma Phi are Misses Grace Wright, Dorothy Banker, Mary Caldwell, Alice Doty, Wilma Goodwin, Elizabeth Hawkins, Jessica Heber, Margaret Kraus, Isabel Loftus, Janet McCoy, Janet Murray, Mary Alice Parent, Rebecca Perdew, Ruth Stein, Elinor Wilholt, Grace Wright, Lorraine Young, Dinette Zimmerman, Esther Shelhamer, Vivian Murphy, Jessica Heber, Mrs. Frank Wice and Mrs. Selly Taft Teschke.

Unique Affair

Tau Lambda Gamma Sorority of Woodbury College was recently entertained at a "children's party at the home of Miss Elaine Beach. Many school day games were enjoyed during the evening, the guests being in kid costumes. A unique feature of the entertainment was the "baby picture contest."

The honored guests included Misses Esther Scott, Linnea Anderson, Joan Whittengill, Margaret Pollock, Lucile Gleen, Dorothy Foust, Zazel Kane, Betty Raw and Sally Kiester. Members included Misses Lucile Ingersoll, Aileen Perriguey, Marianne Howell, Jane Layton, Josephine Kelly, Doris Rear, Marie Seybold, Beverly Blake, Irene Hillyer, Mildred Olsen. Other guests were Miss Isabel Basore and Miss Eleanor Beach, who assisted the hostess in serving. The refreshments consisted of ice cream, animal crackers, all-day suckers, popcorn and peanuts.

Going 'Round the World

Mr. and Mrs. James G. Early of 402 South Occidental Boulevard will sail from Los Angeles Harbor Wednesday aboard the Chichibu Maru for a six months' trip around the world. They are planning to visit in Honolulu, Japan, China, Philippines, Malaya, Sumatra, Ceylon and Egypt, and on arrival at Naples will make an extended automobile tour of Europe, visiting Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France, England and Scotland.

Birthday Celebrated

In celebration of the fifteenth birthday anniversary of Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McDevitt of 150 South Wilton Drive, a dinner party was a recent event of interest at the Santa Monica Breakers Club.

The guests included the Misses Evelyn Shipley, Helen Jean Shipley, Harriet Blanchard and Dorothy Smith of Santa Paula; Misses Mary Hunsaker, Lee Fernandez, Dorothy Lieb, Ruth Daly, Miriam Fiohri, Mary O'Sullivan, Gertrude Gore and Patricia McDevitt, and their escorts Roscoe Brown, George Chessman, John Bogue, James Shomate, Gray Bohan, John Dutcher, Bob Houser, Jack O'Sullivan, Rex Rosenberger, James Humphry, Donald McManuamy and William Hunsaker.

House Party

Honoring Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish, who is leaving the last of the month for an extended European trip, Mrs. John Boyce-Smith will entertain with a house party in her mountain cabin "Stoneholm" at the Paradise Valley Trout Club.

Included in the party will be Mrs. Norman Johnson, Miss Gertie Lou Johnson, Mrs. Earl Rively Holland, Mrs. Irish and Mrs. Boyce-Smith, who motored up yesterday for the week-end.

Miss Johnson is one of the popular subdebs who was graduated this month from Marlborough School. She is the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Wells of Chicago.

Farewell Luncheon

As a farewell courtesy to Dr. and Mrs. William F. Jordan a luncheon was given recently at the Chapman Park by Mrs. Ralph R. Hartley and Mrs. George G. Sheppard. The table was attractively decorated with roses and spring flowers, with tall lighted candelabra and covers arranged for twenty-four guests. Dr. and Mrs. Jordan are leaving shortly for a summer abroad.

Luncheon Party

One of the lovely affairs of the week was the luncheon Tuesday afternoon at which Mrs. Norma Barlow Christchurn of New Zealand, who is visiting in Southern California, entertained at Mme. Helene's Rose Villa, Flintridge, honoring Mmes. H. H. Works, K. A. Kelley and Miss J. J. Mackey.

Celebrate Birthday

One of the charming affairs of recent date was the birthday party given by Mr. and Mrs. Laird L. Neal of North Avenue 49 honoring their small son, Charles Cyril Neal. Assisting the host and hostess were several of the mothers of the twenty small guests.

Sorority Elects President

Miss Evelyn Pugh was recently elected president of the Eta Delta chapter of Phi Mu at the University of California at Los Angeles. She has just returned from Berkeley, where the Phi Mu district convention was held.

Miss Pugh will be a junior at the university next semester. She has been prominent in student activities, being a member of Spurs, women's national honorary society for sophomores, and has served on numerous class committees. She is a member of the women's varsity debate squad and has engaged in forensic contests throughout the year.

For the past few months Miss Pugh has been engaged in working on the Phi Mu building committee which has just completed plans for the construction of the chapter house in Westwood.

SORORITY SISTERS WILL MEET

Week's Convention Set for Del Monte

[G. Edwin Williams studio]
Mrs. Benson L. Smith

MEMBERS of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority from all over the Southland are planning to meet Alpha Chi Omega sisters from all the States in the Union at Del Monte next Friday for a week's convention. Many social festivities and sightseeing tours are planned about the scenic and romantic Monterey Bay and Santa Cruz.

Mrs. Benson L. Smith (Mildred Tousley,) is the delegate from the Los Angeles alumnae chapter. Prominent alumnae taking active part include Mrs. Paul Dodds, chapter exhibits; Mrs. Harry Masser, registration, and Mrs. Marjorie Scott, music.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

RUSSIAN BORSCH

Place in a sauce pan one pound of fat brisket of beef, cut in small pieces, two peeled and thickly sliced beets, and two medium-sized onions, peeled and sliced, cover with seven cupfuls of cold water, bring slowly to a boil, and simmer for two hours, add half a cupful of sugar, and the strained juice of two medium-sized lemons, and allow to simmer for one hour. Remove the meat, and the onions. Cut the beets in small dice, season with salt, and paprika, and allow the mixture to cool, remove the cake of grease, place in cups and serve.

BRAISED CARROTS WITH TOMATOES

Pare four medium-sized carrot, and cut them in long thin strips, boil until tender, then drain, being careful not to break. Heat a half a cupful of tomato sauce, with half a cupful of water. Fry the carrots gently in two tablespoonfuls of butter, then add to them the tomato puree, season with salt, paprika, and a scant teaspoonful of sugar. Thicken the sauce with a little flour, place in the center of a platter and garnish with fried toast.

CUCUMBER FRITTERS

Make a fritter batter of one cupful of flour that has been sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two tablespoonfuls of corn starch and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Beat one whole egg into the flour and beat it in thoroughly, then stir into the mixture approximately one-half a cupful of milk, adding it a little at a time, and mixing until you have a batter that will drop from the spoon, add one tablespoonful of melted shortening or salad oil. Pare the cucumbers, and slice them lengthwise in the same shape as for French-fried potatoes, if the seeds are large, remove some of them, dip the cucumbers in the batter, thoroughly coating them and fry in deep, hot shortening.

MELON SALAD

Cut a melon in half, and scoop out the pulp with a ball cutter, or a small teaspoon, thoroughly chill. Take cream cheese, mash it to a paste, and if necessary, add a little sweet cream to it, and a few chopped nut meats, a little chopped parsley, make it into small balls, and allow to chill. When ready to serve the salad, fill the empty shells with alternate amounts of cheese balls, lettuce cut in fine strips and the chilled melon. Pour over this a boiled dressing.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, June 22nd:

SUNDAY

Breakfast—French omelet, toasted cereal biscuit, stewed figs.

Lunch—Ice cream with one kind of fresh fruit if desired.

Dinner—Broiled chicken, spinach, buttered beets, salad of cucumber and celery, jello or jell-well.

MONDAY

Breakfast—Cottage cheese, Melba, toast, apple sauce.

Lunch—Corn, string beans, lettuce.

Dinner—Roast mutton, zucchini (Italian squash.) McCoy salad (lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers,) apricot whip.

TUESDAY

Breakfast—Baked eggs, retoasted shredded wheat biscuit, stewed prunes.

Lunch—One kind of fresh fruit, as much as desired.

Dinner—Broiled steak with mushrooms, cooked small carrots and peas, salad of head lettuce, sliced pineapple (fresh or canned.)

WEDNESDAY

Breakfast—Retoasted breakfast food with cream (no sugar,) stewed peaches.

Lunch—Combination salad molded in gelatin. Wholewheat bread and butter sandwiches.

Dinner—Roast pork, carrots, cooked with the meat, spinach, salad of shredded raw cabbage, baked apple.

THURSDAY

Breakfast—Eggs poached in milk, serve on Melba toast, dish of berries, fresh or canned without sugar.

Lunch—Raw apples as desired.

Dinner—Salisbury steak, asparagus, salad of fresh raw spinach, prune whip.

FRIDAY

Breakfast—Coddled eggs, crisp bacon, Melba toast, stewed raisins.

Lunch—Potatoes boiled with the skins on, served with butter, string beans, celery.

Dinner—Baked white fish, eggplant, cooked greens, salad of sliced tomatoes, no dessert.

SATURDAY

Breakfast — Crisp waffle, butter, small amount of maple syrup, stewed apricots.

Lunch—Berries with milk or cream (no sugar.)

Dinner—Roast veal, summer squash, green peas, salad of shredded lettuce and endive, date pie.

*Fresh spinach leaves make a most appetizing salad when washed carefully to remove all trace of sand and grit, and served crisp and cold. The leaves may be shredded and combined with lettuce, parsley, etc., and a small amount of olive oil or peanut butter dressing may be added if desired. Raw spinach has a pleasing flavor, and is one of the richest in iron of the leafy greens. Those who have a deficiency of hemoglobin or red corpuscles in the blood should use a great deal of it.

Little Helps

The wire cornpopper is splendid in which to cook the "hot dogs" over the camp fire.

Keep the cereals nice and crisp if you want the children to keep their interest in breakfast.

A piece of orange skin placed on top of the stove just over the pilot light will take away the odor of cooking from the house and leave a very pleasing aroma in its place.

All wooden buckets of washtubs should have about two inches of water left in them when not in use. This will prevent the wood from they leak.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

HOW JERRY FOOLED PETER

The smarter folks are, as a rule,
The easier they are to fool. . . . .
—Jerry Muskrat.

Peter Rabbit sat on the bank of the Smiling Pool not knowing just what to think. Jerry Muskrat had told him that he was sitting on the roof of Jerry's new house. Peter knew better than that. At least, he thought he did. How could he be sitting on Jerry's roof when he was sitting on the bank of the Smiling Pool and that bank had been there just as it was as long as he could remember?

"I don't like to be told things that are not true," said Peter indignantly. "No, sir, I don't like to be told things that are not true."

"Has some one told you something that is not true?" inquired Redwing the Blackbird.

"Yes," replied Peter. "Jerry told me that he had a new home and that I am sitting on the roof of it. Of course, that isn't true, because I'm sitting right here on the bank of the Smiling Pool and there isn't any house here. What are you chuckling about?"

"Jerry Muskrat likes his little joke, doesn't he? said Redwing. "It is true that he has a new house, and it is also true that you are sitting on the roof of it."

Never in all his life would Peter Rabbit look more foolish than he did when he stared up at Redwing the Blackbird. His mouth was open, his lower jaw hanging in a most foolish way. It was no wonder that Redwing chuckled more than ever.

"Peter," said he, "what is the matter with your wits? You haven't been using them. You have quite forgotten that a house can be in the ground as well as on the ground. Jerry Muskrat has a new house and you are sitting on the roof of it, just as he said."

"You mean——" began Peter, but Redwing interrupted him.

"I mean," said he, "that Jerry's house is in the bank of the Smiling Pool right under you."

"I don't believe it!" snapped Peter. "Where is the entrance? Tell me that. If he has a house in the ground, he must have an entrance. Where is it?"

"Jerry Muskrat likes his little joke, doesn't he?" said Redwing

"Just where it should be," replied Redwing good-naturedly. "Where was the entrance to Jerry's old house? That house stood out of water, but you didn't see any entrance. Where was it?"

"Under water, of course," replied Peter. "Every one knows that."

"Of course," replied Redwing. "That is where the entrance to the home of a sensible Muskrat will always be. That is where the entrance to this new home of Jerry's is. It is down at the bottom of the Smiling Pool right in front of where you are sitting. If you will look over the edge of the bank, you will discover it for yourself."

Peter hopped over to the edge of the bank and leaned over. He couldn't see very well, but he could see enough to feel sure that there was a hole leading into the bank right under him. He knew that that hole probably was the entrance to a hall that led up above the water to where the ground was dry and that at the end of that hole was a comfortable bed, and that probably Jerry Muskrat was in there at that very moment chuckling.

Cruise this year around the PACIFIC!

On the GREAT MALOLO to hidden corners of the globe

Away from the beaten path of tourists, the luxurious 23,000-ton Malolo goes cruising to strange Pacific lands where every day holds adventure for you.

Smoothly she'll pass through crowding junks in the Yellow Sea and you'll look down on scenes real, practicing pirates! She'll saunter through the Gulf of Siam to fantastic Bangkok and down to "wicked" Singapore on the tip end of Asia. Then she'll wander among the fabulous isles of the East Indies.

At 19 ports in 12 countries, she'll stop for you to make shore excursions with expert guides. You'll be in Japan at chrysanthemum time and in Java at Celebes when their October "spring" fills the jungles with rare orchids. You'll shop ecstatically in native bazaars, buying silks and jade at unheard-of prices.

BETTER BRAN FLAKES

peppiest flavor you ever tasted

CRISP FLAKES. Crunchy flakes. Full of the delicious flavor of PEP. Packed with the rich nourishment of whole wheat. That's what you get with every bowl of Kellogg's Pep Bran Flakes.

No wonder people say they're better than ever. Pile them high in your bowl and breakfast with real appetite eagerness.

Kellogg's Pep Bran Flakes are virtually a ready-to-eat food with milk or cream. They have just enough extra bran to be mildly laxative.

A family favorite everywhere for breakfast. Equally good for lunch or the children's evening meal. Serve with fruit or honey for extra zest.

At your grocer's in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

IMPORTANT—Kellogg's Pep Bran Flakes are mildly laxative because of BRAN—another Kellogg product—is all bran and guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

JOBLESS MAN WILL TRADE TWO CLEAR LOTS FOR HOME

For trade—two clear lots for a home!

This was the verbal advertisement submitted yesterday to Franklin Padan, Chief Deputy Public Defender, by John Tracy, 60 years of age, of 220 South Dangler street.

According to Padan, Tracy appealed to him to find a home during his old age, announcing that he is willing to give title to two lots which he owns to reliable parties who are willing to care for him in his old age.

Tracy stated that he resorted to this move because he has been out of employment for two months and no longer can meet his personal obligations.

Druggist Tried for Auto Death

Harold Hickox, 35-year-old Walnut Park druggist, was on trial before Superior Judge Fricke yesterday charged with manslaughter as a result of the death on March 21, last, of Mrs. Belle E. Bower, 30 years of age, in an automobile accident.

The principal witness against the defendant was Mrs. Ida May Emmet, who also was a passenger in the automobile at the time of the accident. She testified that they all had been drinking wine tonic shortly before the accident.

More than $17,000 worth of antiques were taken out of Hungary last year.

DISCIPLINE CAN EXIST WITHOUT FORCE

With our modern conflict of guidance versus force, the parent who is modern in thought (if not in practice) admits that she understands spanking does no lasting good to the child and that it isn't a means of teaching anything, but she demands: "What else can I do?"

None but the blindest of parents argues that the removal of spankings, as one kind of discipline, means that no discipline is used at all. Such a supposition is absurd.

Perhaps some parents have thought that freedom meant the child was to go his own sweet way without hindrance or frustration. Far from it. The child must be taught to obey in the home, otherwise how can he possibly meet all the taboos and rules and laws which he will encounter as soon as he goes out into the world, whether that is at five years or twenty-five? Parents with that idea have given no thought at all to the problem but simply jumped to conclusions. Between liberty and license there is a golden mean, and it is that path we hope to point out to the child under our guidance.

STUDY EACH SITUATION

The trouble is that parents, who are eager for new ways of handling the problems of child training, demand the impossible — a method of discipline applicable to all situations and all children. There is no such thing. She takes into consideration nothing whatever. She doesn't study the situation or the child to see in what way the two may peacefully be adjusted. She supposes that by some magic in the rod's stinging bite misbehavior and faulty conduct (from whatever cause) will end.

Never having been spanked myself, I don't know from personal experience what a child's reactions to it are. My mother was wiser than her generation and decided without a trial that a child need not be spanked to be made to mind. I cannot even imagine the sensation of being slapped . . . but I hewed to the line, nevertheless, and chiefly, as I recall it, because I was mortally distressed at displeasing my parents. I still am.

VIOLENCE UNNECESSARY

With such a background it would have been utterly impossible for me to use violence with my own family. Slapping and hitting are repugnant to me. We know quite well that without the angry emotion to key one up a child would never be spanked. No child is ever punished in cold anger, the whipping has to be done at the height of a parent's "righteous" indignation. To quell her shame after it's over she has to alibi herself. "He just drove me crazy. I was desperate!"

If we want to guide a child along the paths that are best for him to follow, we must think, if I am right why am I getting the wrong response from the child? How can I manage so that he will understand he'll be happier if he obeys me?

Patience, and understanding of all children, tact and constant observation are necessary for the modern mother. It isn't as easy as whipping. But it's humane, educational and lasting. We're rearing children for tomorrow and not for today.

Bandit Suspect Arraigned for Killing of Clerk

Wilbur McCabe, alias Jerry O'Regan, was arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Ballard, charged with the murder of Henry Miller, night clerk at the University Club.

Miller was wounded fatally early on the morning of the 16th inst. while defending the club's cash register against a bandit who appeared and demanded the money. Defying the gunman's orders to hand over the money, Miller seized a knife and slashed the agressor's face.

Later officers trailed McCabe to his residence at 1537 Wilshire Boulevard by blood drops along the sidewalk. Miller then identified McCabe as his assailant. Miller died on the 17th inst.

After the arraignment, Judge Ballard set McCabe's preliminary hearing for the 25th inst.

TRIANGLE TO BE BOUGHT

The City Council yesterday approved the plan for the purchase of the triangular plot of land formed by the rectification of the jog at Eighth and Valencia streets. The price agreed upon is $16,491.

ETHYL GASOLINE TO BE SOLD BY RIO GRANDE

Rio Grande Oil Company of Delaware has signed a contract with Ethyl Gasoline Corporation and will market Rio Grande Ethyl gasoline in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas in the near future. It is planned to distribute this gasoline in California starting July 1, in Arizona and New Mexico by July 8 and in Texas by July 15. A meeting of all division and bulk plant managers was held at the Biltmore last night, where complete plans for the retailing of Rio Grande Ethyl gasoline were discussed and new pump designs and curb signs were shown. Rio Grande's Los Angeles and El Paso refineries to handle the Ethyl gasoline will be in readiness to handle the large distribution anticipated with the introduction of the product. An advertising campaign will be carried on to acquaint the motoring public with Ethyl gasoline.

PARK ADDITION URGED

The Sunland Improvement Association yesterday requested the City Council to institute proceedings for the acquisition of additional land for Monte Vista Park. The request was referred to the City Engineer and the Parks and Playgrounds Committee.

City's Sierra Camp to Open Next Sunday

Late snows in the high Sierras having melted enough to permit the opening of Los Angeles' municipal mountain playground at Camp High Sierra in Mono county, Members of the city Playground and Recreation Commission and Supt. Hoyt left last night for the camp to participate in the beginning of the vacation season Sunday.

With the opening of Camp High Sierra, the municipal vacation season conducted by the Playground and Recreation Department will enter its full stride for the summer. Outing programs at Camps Seeley and Radford in the San Bernardino ranges already are under way. All three playgrounds offer all-inclusive outings to the public at little cost, being run by the city on a nonprofit basis.

On Saturday, just prior to the opening of Camp High Sierra, the Playground Commissioners will participate in the opening ceremonies at Tioga Pass, which will be made accessible to automobile traffic for the first time this year.

PROF. HULSE WILL BE LAID TO REST TODAY

Prof. Granvyl Godfrey Hulse, instructor in political economy at the University of Washington, who met death a week ago in an automobile accident on the Crater Lake Highway near Medford, Or., will be laid to his last rest today in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Funeral services will be conducted at the Reynolds and Eberle chapel in Pasadena at 3 p.m. Prof. Hulse, who was 28 years of age, resided at 10636 Huston street, North Hollywood. He leaves his widow, a baby boy, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Hulse, and a sister.

FRESH!..FULL FLAVORED!
because it's Dated!

★ LOOK FOR THE DATE ON THE CAN

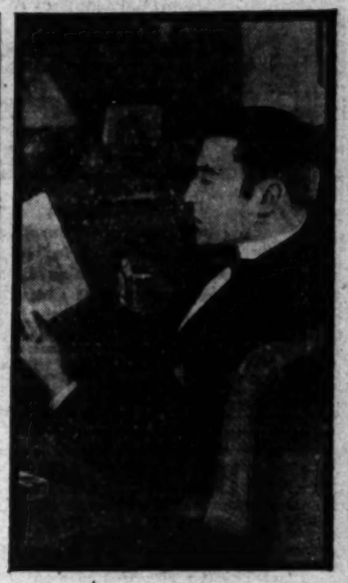
THERE it is, Madam! Right on the label! The date that guarantees freshness . . . full flavor . . . delightful aroma!

For that date shows you just how long your grocer has had any given can of Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee. You can't buy coffee that has had a chance to go shelf-stale under any circumstances.

For we watch those dates, too! And we take back any can that the grocer hasn't sold within ten days after delivery . . . replacing it with a fresh one!

And what a difference it makes in the coffee you drink! You get all the flavor . . . the fine aroma, the satisfying richness, the tip-top perfection . . . of coffee straight from the roaster.

Try a can of Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee! See what a difference there is. How much more fragrant each brimming cup . . . how much more satisfying its rich, mellow taste. Your grocer has it . . . Look for the date on each can.



CLIVE BROOK COMMENTS. "Most men enjoy a meal heartily, regardless of what is set before them," says this star of many Paramount pictures. "With coffee it is different. They demand that it be fresh. That's why so many insist on their coffee being dated."

U.C.L.A. CONFERS HONORS TODAY

About 100 Will be Cited for Scholastic Merits

Record Class of 906 Will Receive Diplomas

Hollywood Bowl Exercises Begin at 4 o'clock

Citations for outstanding scholastic achievements during their college course will be conferred upon approximately 100 of the members of the graduating class of 906 students of the University of California at Los Angeles when commencement exercises are held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Hollywood Bowl.

This is the first class to be graduated from the university since it has occupied the Westwood campus site and is the largest class in the history of eleven previous commencements. Last year there were 867 degrees conferred.

ADDRESS BY MORRIS

According to the plan followed at a rehearsal at the Bowl yesterday morning, graduates, in caps and gowns, will start the processional promptly at 4 o'clock. They will march from the rear of the Bowl down the two main aisles and take their places in the front seats before the stage for the program, which will include addresses by four of the graduates, an address by Dr. Walter Morris, vice-president of the University of California, and several musical selections by the university orchestra.

Candidates for degrees and honors will pass in single file across the stage to receive their degrees from Dr. Ernest C. Moore, director. The opening prayer and benediction will be given by Rev. George Davidson, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church.

R.O.T.C. HONORED

Word was received at the university yesterday from Maj.-Gen. Hines, commanding the Ninth Army Corps at the Presidio in San Francisco, that following his inspection of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the university, the War Department has authorized that it be awarded a grading of "excellence," the highest commendation which can be given a R.O.T.C., and also that 8 per cent of the senior students enrolled in the second-year course of the R.O.T.C. be designated as honor graduates of the corps.

The last event of senior week before commencement was the senior ball last night at the Beverly-Wilshire Hotel.

Pretending He Had Killed Self Laid to Husband

Pretense of suicide was one form of mental cruelty described yesterday by Mrs. Hazel Pangborn in the trial of her suit for divorce from John Frank Pangborn. Superior Judge Tryon granted her a decree with custody of their three children.

"He sprayed carbolic acid on his clothes, and then took some pills which made him unconscious," testified Mrs. Pangborn. "I found him in that condition when I came home. When a doctor revived him, my husband told me he did it just to scare me and make me suffer."

The Pangborns were married in 1911, and separated in March of this year.

STREET LEVIES APPROVED

Assessments for the improvement of Park avenue between Glendale and Sunset boulevards were confirmed yesterday by the City Council, while protests were denied against the improvement of streets in the Yorkshire Drive and Parrish avenue district.

POLICE JUNK TO BE AUCTIONED

Freak Items Date Back Two Decades

Deer Head Will go to Highest Bidder
R. R. McDonald examines work of taxidermist that has long reposed in police vaults.

ANYONE wanting a football of the vintage of 1906, or a handsomely mounted head of a deer "shot somewhere in Canada in 1911," or a bicycle built in 1914 (tires flat,) or a score of other articles ranging from an up-to-date radio to a Civil War saber, may attend the police department auction to be held at Central Station at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Guns, however, will not be on the list of articles to be sold, as an ordinance decrees that such property be destroyed.

The auctioneer's list for tomorrow furnishes a wide latitude in tastes for junk seekers. Why the deflated football should have been retained in the vaults for almost twenty-five years the ablest detective in the department refrained even from making a guess. Seventy bicycles, one of them sixteen years old, are to be put on the auction block.

A survey of the property revealed such articles as a deer head upon which was attached a brass tag indicating the victim had been brought down in "Canada, 1911."

In a corner of the room sits what the police describe as a Chinese "bull fiddle." It has only one string and is almost six feet high. It is believed to have been taken in a raid on a clubhouse during a "tong war" of a decade ago.

Along the tables are umbrellas, water bottles, electric toasters, radio tubes, handbags, purses, can-openers, typewriters, china vases, alarm clocks and a variegated array of articles that once filled a need from the cellar to the garret.

The police custodian asserted yesterday "that he will ask no questions and expects to be asked none" when the sale begins tomorrow.

Swedish Holiday to be Observed Here Saturday

"Midsummer Day," the great national holiday of Sweden, will be celebrated in Los Angeles tomorrow at Sycamore Grove Park, commencing at 2:30 p.m. This will be the twenty-fifth annual celebration in Los Angeles and it is expected that between 10,000 and 12,000 persons will attend. Dr. Albin Peterson, acting chairman, will preside in the absence of G. Ekdahl, regular chairman.

FLORENCE TIDLUND

On the program will be Swedish folk dances in native costume. The musical program will consist of solos by Miss Garda Nord, noted Swedish singer, while a large male chorus will sing Swedish national songs and other northern melodies.

Mayor Porter will speak, as will Charles O. Johnson, State treasurer, and Dr. F. A. Lundberg. The climax of the program will be the crowning of the Midsummer Queen. The principals in the pageant are Miss Florence Tidlund, queen; Miss Aline Gustafson, Columbia, and Miss Eleanor Strum, as Svea. These participants and others acting as attendants have been chosen from the various Swedish societies of Los Angeles. Costumes have been designed and, according to Mrs. Carl Rode and Mrs. P. G. Christenson, who are in charge, the pageant promises to be the most elaborate and beautiful ever undertaken by the local Swedish colony.

Following the pageant and speaking a sports program will be given. Many of those attending the festival will come attired in native costume, according to reports.

BEACH LAND STATUS TO BE TESTED

Strip Along Shores of Alamitos Bay Subject to Inquiry by Mattoon

Efforts to obtain the legal status of tideland valued at $325,000 along the shores of Alamitos Bay, with a view to taking it over for Los Angeles county, is being made, according to a statement from Supervisor Shaw yesterday.

County Counsel Mattoon, acting on instructions from Supervisor Shaw, filed a map of the land, consisting of six and one-half acres, with the County Recorder and is making an investigation as to the status of the property.

The land is located at the east end of Alamitos Bay, adjoining county beach property. Several months ago several squatters took up quarters on it, seeking to obtain title.

If the property title lies with the State steps will be taken by the county at once to have the title transferred to Los Angeles county for more beach frontage, Supervisor Shaw declared.

EVERYONE INVITED TO 'TIMES' COOKING CLASS

The demonstration at the Los Angeles Times free cooking school today will be devoted to dishes of especial interest to everyone who is planning to entertain, since it includes an especially delicious cocoanut cake—Sungold cocoanut cake with cocoanut frosting; an unusual salad—a molded beet and cucumber salad; a raisin custard pie that is very different from the common raisin pie; Mocha rolls with Mocha filling, and a tomato omelet. The Times invites everyone to come to the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway, at 2 p.m. today and watch Chef Wyman prepare this menu.

ROSS FIELD TO BE USED FOR PLANES

Plan to Raze Buildings of Balloon School Will Wait Till After Olympic Games

Ross Field, better known in years past as the army balloon school, will be turned over to the State by the War Department on July 1, after which all buildings will be demolished to make the field suitable as a heavier-than-air flying station, according to communication received by the Arcadia City Council from Adjt.-Gen. Mittelstaedt of the California National Guard.

The communication further states that the Olympic Games Committee has requested that action in the razing of buildings be deferred until after the games in 1932, as it is planned to use the field for equestrian sports and to house foreign participants in the vacant barracks.

The communication comes in response to the request made recently by the City Council to the War Department that the buildings be razed due to their condition as a fire menace.

Investigation of conditions at Ross Field will be made by Capt. Coombs, in charge of the Griffith Park field, and a plan will be worked out whereby the Olympic Games Committee will clear the dried grass from around the fences, repair and paint them, and further eliminate the existing fire hazard.

VICE-CONSUL GETS "KICK" OUT OF JOB

Excitement, Romance and Adventure in Mexico Lot of Envoy, Here for Rest

For excitement, adventure and romance, E. W. Eaton recommends being an American vice-consul. He is one (has been for twelve years,) and he came back from Mexico on the Panama Mail liner Guatemala for a vacation to soothe his nerves.

E.W. EATON

It was Eaton, who some months ago effected the ransom of J. E. Bristow, rich American oil man, whom the Cristeros bandits held in the fastnesses of Nayarit for $30,000. What Eaton finally paid them to deliver Bristow is a secret, but it wasn't $30 000.

Diverting also was Eaton's sojourn in Ciudad Obregon, held by the rebels in March, last year. The Federal flyers mistook his consulate for rebel headquarters and plumped a bomb down through the roof, right where he was typewriting a report to Washington on the situation. Then they rained machine-gun bullets all over the place, dropped a few more bombs, and later sent their apologies.

Eaton said the Mexican West Coast is striding ahead as fast as a country ever did.

How to Breathe, Lecture Topic

"Most people think that because breathing is a natural process it will take care of itself, as does the process of digestion or of sleep," says Irwin Kellog, author of "Why Breathe?"

"It is natural to breathe correctly, and in infancy we all do," continues Mrs. Kellog, "but as we near maturity and sit bent over, studying or at work at a desk, much of the time, we are liable to depart from the simple active way on which nature started us."

In a lecture entitled "That Tired Feeling . . . How to Avoid It," to be given in the May Company Exposition Hall this afternoon at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Kellog will attempt to prove that practically all nervous diseases are due to oxygen starvation. She will also demonstrate exercises which give increased breath capacity for singing.

Thousands Hear Science Lecture

More than 10,000 persons gathered in Hollywood Bowl last night to hear a lecture on Christian Science by Richard J. Davis, C.S., of Chicago, member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston.

The lecture, one of a series to be delivered by Mr. Davis, was given under the sponsorship of the Fifth, Thirteenth and Seventeenth churches.

Members of the large audience were in their seats fully a half-hour before the lecturer rose to speak, and joined in the singing of hymns pending his arrival.

Tribute Paid to Dairyman

George E. Platt, pioneer Southern California dairyman, has been elevated from the general management of the southern division to the vice-presidency of Golden State Milk Products, Inc., it was announced yesterday.

He was elected at a stockholders' meeting Wednesday, after which employees of the Towne avenue plant presented him with a floral design six feet in height.

Platt founded the old Los Angeles Creamery Company, which two years ago was absorbed by the Golden State concern.

FIRST NATIONAL SIGNS HUSTON

John Wayne to be Featured in Two Fox Productions; Winnie Lightner Will Star in "Red Hot Sinners;" Rouben Mamoulian Assigned to Film

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Naturally everyone has been wondering what would be the ultimate professional fate of Walter Huston, noted Broadway actor, who already has three big talking screen roles to his credit under his free-lancing activities, "Abraham Lincoln," "The Bad Man" and "Adios."

WALTER HUSTON

Now it is with pleasure we have to announce that First National has signed Huston on a long-term contract.

Not only this, but, according to the word of Messrs. Hal Wallis and C. Graham Baker, it is announced that his first vehicle under his contract will be "The Honor of the Family," which served Otis Skinner as a starring vehicle on the stage for so long.

Lenore Coffee has been given the highly important task of writing the adaptation and dialogue for the screen talker. Miss Coffee, indeed, seems to be one of the few scenarists of the silent drama who have held their own against the onslaughts of Broadway playwrights. And not only has Miss Coffee held her own, but she has been busy every minute during the past year of talkers. I hear it whispered that Miss Coffee is to sign a long-term contract with First National.

It is reported that John Francis Dillon will direct "The Honor of the Family," which is based on a story by Honore de Balzac, and is announced as one of First National's specials for the coming year.

EX-PROPERTY MAN WINS FOX CONTRACT

So exceedingly well has John Wayne, ex-property boy for Fox, done in the leading role in Raoul Walsh's current picture, "The Big Trail," that he has been signed on a long-term contract by Fox Films.

Under the terms of his new contract, Wayne is to play the featured leads in two productions. The first of these will be titled "Wyoming Wonder," and in this one Rex, the noted equine actor, will appear. The story is based on "Alcatraz," a story by Max Brand. A. F. Erickson will direct.

Mae Clark will play opposite Wayne, while other important players will be Joyce Compton and Warren Hymer.

Comedienne's Next

Winnie Lightner, at this rate, never will get back into vaudeville or musical comedy.

The lovely Winnie has just been assigned a new story by Warner Brothers, bearing the rather spicy title of "Red Hot Sinners." The story is an original by Lynn Hollister and concerns high society life at Palm Beach.

WINNIE LIGHTNER

Ray Enright is to direct the picture, which is naturally to have some musical features.

Rex Taylor is writing the adaptation and dialogue for the new film.

Lila Lee Wins Lead

That charming young actress, Lila Lee, seems never to have a dull moment, these days, professionally speaking.

LILA LEE

Miss Lee has just been assigned the leading feminine role opposite Edward G. Robinson in "Little Caesar," the underworld story by W. R. Burnett, which Mervyn Leroy is to direct.

The actress seems to be something of a fixture at First National, as she has just completed another leading role for that organization, preceded by various leads in Warner Brothers pictures.

Barbara Bedford in It

Perhaps, after all, the movie producers have found out that the former actresses of the silent movies know a thing or two. At any rate, these actresses, who have been a bit out of it since talkers came in, seem to be trouping back into pictures.

BARBARA BEDFORD

All of which leads up to the fact that Barbara Bedford is heard from again.

Miss Bedford has just been signed by First National for a featured role in "Adios," Richard Barthelmess' current starring vehicle. The part is that of a dancer. Miss Bedford has recently been studying dancing, and we are promised a fine exhibition of her work in "Adios."

Noted Director With Lasky

When Claudette Colbert returns from her round-the-world trip, presumably all freshened up for her year's work before Paramount's cameras, she is to have as director of her first picture following her vacation no less famous a guide than Rouben Mamoulian, who, you may remember, directed a notable picture called "Applause" for Paramount, following a distinguished career in New York.

Mamoulian it was indeed who directed the stage production of "Porgy" in New York a season or two ago, the play being considered one of the most artistic and successful of that year's output.

So far there is no intimation what the story will be, but it is expected that an announcement will be forthcoming within a short time.

Virginia Sale in Comedy

It was naturally to be expected that Virginia Sale would gravitate toward the comedy studios, and so we aren't surprised to learn that she is to take a short flyer into the two-reelers.

Miss Sale has just been signed for an Educational two-reel comedy, as yet untitled, which Stephen Roberts will direct. This will be her first comedy for the organization.

Shipman With Universal

Just to make doubly sure that "East is West" is a success, Universal has hired no less expert a person than the author himself to supervise the production of the talker, and to write the adaptation and dialogue.

Sam Shipman, as of course you remember, wrote the original stage play, and is now on his way west to see that nothing slips up in the talking-screen version.

MELODRAMA SCREENED AT R.-K.-O.

Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon Play Leading Roles in "Alias French Gertie"

BY JOHN SCOTT

Keeping step with the present screen period, the R.-K.-O. Theater this week presents a crook picture, "Alias French Gertie," with Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon, newlyweds in private life, featured as sweethearts and co-workers against the law.

The picture is adapted from the stage play, "The Chatterbox," and depicts Miss Daniels as a French maid and Lyon as a gentleman safe-cracker, or rather combination-manipulator. Carefree and nonchalantly, Jimmy (Lyon) is about to purloin some valuable jewels from a wall safe when he is interrupted by Marie (Miss Daniels,) who is also bent on the same "job." To facilitate matters the two decide to work together, but Kelcey (Robert Emmett O'Connor,) the detective, walks in, and Jimmy takes a trip to the "big house."

He proves himself a model prisoner and is soon discharged, tipping the guards generously as he leaves. Marie meets him with a swanky roadster and the two decide to be what the underworld calls "square guys."

Jimmy has some $30,000 cached away and through Marie's influence invests it in a brokerage business with a Mr. Maton (John Ince,) who, in turn, fleeces the reformed crook and runs away with the money. This is the last straw and Jimmy decides to return to his "safe" business. Marie has totally reformed, though, and saves her sweetheart from himself by calmly shooting him in the hand, making any more safe-cracking impossible. Kelcey happens in again, but this time merely wishes the couple good luck and a pleasant married life together.

Much of the color of "Alias French Gertie" is provided by the dialogue written by Wallace Smith. The snappy and to-the-point speech of the underworld forms a genuine background for the plot. The direction, smooth and agreeable, is credited to George Archainbaud. Minor roles are handled by John Ince, Daisy Belmore and Betty Pierce.

The stage presentation this week is headlined by Kitty Doner, noted male impersonator. Others are Lytell and Fant as "Two Chocolate Cake Eaters," the De Toregos, continental dancers, and Frank Gaby, the talkative comedian. A newsreel completes the current program.

DOWNTOWN TO PRESENT "BACK PAY"

Corinne Griffith Vehicle Adopted from Novel by Fannie Hurst

"Back Pay," Corinne Griffith's First National production, adapted from Fannie Hurst's story of the same name, starts at Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater today. In "Back Pay" Miss Griffith plays the role of a southern girl and is said to be especially well adapted to the part.

The story deals with the colorful adventures of a girl who sacrifices love for beautiful clothes and an easy life. In the supporting cast are Grant Withers, Montagu Love, Hallam Cooley and Vivian Oakland. William Seiter directed.

Added attractions include Lew Fields in "23 Skidoo," Harry J. Conley in "Slick as Ever" and a musical revue.

Plot of Film Based on True Story, Claim

A strange love story gleaned from an actual occurrence of several years ago, is nacted in "The Big House," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's film drama, starting Wednesday at the Criterion Theater.

Chester Morris and Leila Hyams play the romantic leads in the story of a forger and crook who, reformed by the love of a woman, saves the besieged guards in a prison riot. Frances Marion, who wrote the new story, says that the incident was suggested by one that actually took place in England some years ago.

Wallace Beery, Chester Morris and Robert Montgomery play the central male roles. The cast also includes Leila Hyams, George Marion, Lewis Stone, De Witt Jennings, Matthew Betz, J. C. Nugent, Claire MacDowell and Eddie Lambert. George Hill directed.

WITTICISMS OF ROGERS DIVERT

Celebrated Humorist Scores Triumph in New Film

Humanness, Pathos Also in 'So This Is London'

Notables Attend Premiere at Carthay Circle

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

"Yes, I'm an American. My father was part Cherokee, and so was my mother. I'm not one of those people whose ancestors came over in the Mayflower, but . . . we met them at the boat."

With this clever introduction of himself on the screen Will Rogers, triumphant humorist of the pen, the stage and the radio, not to say the film, starts a reign of fun that will doubtless cause his newest feature, "So This Is London," to gladden many audiences during ensuing weeks at the Carthay Circle Theater.

"So This Is London" opened last evening to a thronging audience. It was not, perhaps, the usual first-night audience of stars, but it comprised an interested group of picture followers and Rogers's devotees and they are numerous. There were sparklers of the screen, of course, present, and there were many directors and studio executives. But the Rogers premiere is a different sort of event in filmdom and it brings the satisfaction of sheer entertainment.

"So This is London" is but a small hop (speaking airplanewise) from "They Had to See Paris," and it is a wholly diverting one. The Rogers witticisms pervade the film. There are flashes of humanness, and, indeed, even of agreeably reserved pathos.

There is the story of the wealthy American cotton manufacturer who has to take a trip to Europe, and whose family, wife and son, accompany him. The son meets an English girl aboard the liner, and falls in love with her. Will is born and bred American, and is not too enthusiastic about the English cousins. He can't exactly see the marriage of his son to the girl any more than her titled father can bring himself to give the match an immediate benediction.

The picture brings the opposing factions together gracefully, however, at an over-the-week-end at a country home on John Bull's Island. The party starts off well just a bit "in the rough" for everybody, but it winds up in a festival of brotherly love and hands across the sea.

I believe that "So This Is London" is the kind of picture that does material good in breaking down national prejudices. About it hovers a friendly spirit, and the very digs that Rogers takes at the English-speaking gentry of another country are the sort that tend gayly to produce congeniality.

One does not essay, naturally, to take this picture seriously. It is fashioned simply for enjoyment. But there is a certain amount of nutriment under the humorous garnishing of this particular movie entree.

The picture visualizes (also auralizes) one masterfully funny moment. It is right at the close, and shows Rogers as Hiram Draper and Lumsden Hare as Lord Percy Worthing singing that national anthem which in America is known as "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and in England as "God Save the King." It is a real touch of genius, the manner in which this is presented in the picture, with Rogers and Hare each singing the words as he is presumed to know them. And, quite according to custom, Rogers forgets the words about the middle.

Hearing Rogers sing at any time is a treat, as those who viewed "They Had to See Paris" will well remember. His falsetto in the new production is unsurpassable.

Of amusing talk there is plenty. Rogers refers to his elegant hotel room as a "ripping old bunk house." At a dining table, he remarks as anent the bill-of-fare: "The French may never conquer the world, but they've made it tough on an ignorant guy to get something to eat." "Now don't order ice-water," he says to his wife, "or you'll disorganize the whole cafe." Which the tourist to Europe can appreciate.

"There are Englishmen and Englishmen," declares his son in trying to justify his appreciation of the British. "That's two too many," replies Rogers. On the trip over when he is desperately seasick some intrusive soul asks him:

"Is this your first trip?" Whereupon Rogers naively inquires, "Does anybody go twice?" Also he adds at one point more seriously that no country should be judged by its tourists, for the busy people who compose a nation generally have little time to be among them.

The picture is more than ordinarily interesting in its people, and it is especially effective, I believe, in illumining the talents of Maureen O'Sullivan, the Irish find of the Fox studio. It looks very possible that this girl may attain stardom, and she seems to have gained greatly in assurance since she played in "Song o' My Heart." She is very distinct as a type, and unusually charming in "So This Is London."

The characterization of the Britisher with drooping mustache by Mr. Hare is also expert. There is both dignity and humor to the way in which he plays the role, and the scene where he and Rogers go forth to shoot birds English fashion is rendered thoroughly enjoyable by their joint efforts.

Irene Rich conveys the true note of sympathy in her portrayal of the wife of Hiram. There are several scenes of fine sentiment between her and Rogers. Frank Albertson is good in the role of the son, and excellent quality distinguishes the acting of Dorothy Christie and Mary Forbes.

In adapting the George M. Cohan stage hit, considerable departures have been made by Owen Davis, Sr., as scenarioist, and John Blystone as director. The one scene wherein the Americans burlesque themselves seems one of the least genuine, and the burlesques were outstanding in the stage version. However, the picture has the wholesomeness and comedy of Rogers, which no stage presentation of "So This Is London" ever possessed. "They Had to See Paris" might be classed as more spontaneous than "So This Is London," but the new film is an exceptionally good following up of a somewhat sensational success. I think that the Blystone direction and Davis adaptation has given considerable vitality to a very well known stage piece, and those especially who like Rogers will be attracted by his further adventures in the foreign setting.

POST-CIVIL WAR PERIOD PICTURIZED

"Border Legion" Rides Across Paramount Screen; Jack Holt Excellent

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

From the army post at Philadelphia, the drawing-rooms of Albany, the gambling salons of Ohio River packets they come—wastrels, failures, renegades, or those with the cards stacked against them. Here, on the receding frontier of American outlawry, they band together to plunder and rob those others, the ones who have had all the "breaks." These are the men of "The Border Legion;" fast-riding, quick-firing, making their own laws and abiding by them, they bring the post-Civil War period to the screen at the Paramount Theater for a week in time.

It is a corking good western, this "The Border Legion," by Zane Grey—the best of its kind, I think, since "The Virginian." In its favor may be noted at once a canvas of gleaming whites and grays, the great West unfolded as it really is, and a courageous disdain for studio-made plains and sky; an acceptable yarn, and a cast which blends humor, romance and suspense in nice proportion. All for your delectation.

Jack Holt has the part of the legion chief; and it must be said for him that he acts it in a manner that would do credit to his actual prototype. Unlike nine out of ten leaders of film outlaws, he does things throughout the narrative which make his position clear, justify it and cause one to understand why these hipped brigands take him at his word. Opposing him is Stanley Fields, an unsavory menace to the boy who "joins up" with the outfit because it seems the easier alternative, and to the girl who, kidnaped and made prisoner, immediately precipitates a clash among the men.

The boy is Richard Arlen, the girl Fay Wray. Both are charming romantic figures—a little naive, perhaps, but the sort we like to read about in Zane Grey's novels. Miss Wray, I might add, possesses one of the most lush voices the microphone has yet picked up. Both are quite excellent in the tender interlude which begins with their setting-out for a shady spring, there to stammer out incoherent stanzas to one another.

Comedy rests principally with Eugene Pallette as Bunce Davis, a morose individual who is constantly aware of the truism that "there ain't no future in this business." His extravagant anecdote about a trout which he trained to follow him, only to lose it when, one sad day, it fell into a pool and drowned, is matched, however, by the one Arlen spills in retaliation. You may have heard them both before, but remember, in the 1860's they were probably news.

The drama is concentrated in the raid on Alder Creek by the legion by night, at a time when it is believed the sheriff and his posse have been lured away on a wild-goose chase. Not since Trampas and the Virginian went gunning for one another has there been a similar tension in westerns. One doubtless has Directors Edwin H. Knopf and Otto Brower to thank for it—a duo, incidentally, which has improved noticeably in the interim between this film and their last, "The Light of Western Stars."

Milton Charles, organist, assisted by Tom Waring and Fred Thompson, heads the supplementary program.

YIDDISH PLAYERS WILL APPEAR HERE

The Yiddish Art Theater Players will open a series of performances at the Biltmore Theater on the 29th inst. Associated is Ben-Ami, an actor of note.

The troupe will offer several plays, including "Samson and Delilah," "Jew Suss," "Green Fields," "Nora" and "Out of the Beyond." The engagement will open with "Samson and Delilah."

'Old and New' Opens Tonight at Filmarte

Sergei M. Eisenstein, the young Russian director who amazed the film world with "Potemkin" and "Ten Days That Shook the World," has completed another cinema, "Old and New," which will be given its western premiere tonight at the Filmarte Theater.

In "Old and New" Eisenstein has turned to the problem of agricultural rehabilitation in Russia and is said to have derived another of his striking films of strange elemental forces.

GAY NOTE STRUCK IN NEW FILM

Ramon Novarro Stars in Colorful Tale of Youth at Loew's State

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

A romantic view of college life in Spain, as visualized by attaches of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, moves across the screen of Loew's State Theater this week under the title of "In Gay Madrid."

Frolicsome Spanish lads, in well-tailored clothes, indulge in adolescent horseplay (hazing,) attend jolly little dinners where wine flows freely, go dancing, flirt, and in general conduct themselves as undergraduates the world over supposedly do.

"In Gay Madrid" is based on the novel "La Casa de La Troya" (The House of Troy,) by Perez Lugin, a colorful Spanish tale of life in Santiago de Compostela, the "Old Heidelberg" of the Mediterranean. The House of Troy is the name of the famous students' hostelry in Santiago.

It is here that Ramon Novarro, son of a wealthy Madrid man, takes up his residence when he arrives in the college town. A gay, irresponsible young blade, he has been banished by his father from Madrid because of a series of madcap escapades.

In Santiago he falls in love with the pretty and reserved daughter of an old friend of his father's. The girl (played by Dorothy Jordan,) at first will have none of him because of tales told of his extravagant conduct. They are just arriving at an understanding when an old flame, a dancer of Madrid, pops on to the horizon. The understanding is broken off, Ramon fights a duel with the girl's brother, and a reconciliation is effected.

"In Gay Madrid" is no great shakes of a picture. It moves slowly, and the story, not without charm, verges too much on the melodramatic to capture attention. The acting, for the most part, is spotty.

Ramon Novarro sings rather nicely and has his good moments. He is the best part of the picture, of course. Other members of the cast include Miss Jordan, Lottice Howell, Claude King, Eugenia Besserer, William V. Mong, Beryl Mercer, Nanci Price, Herbert Clark, David Scott, George Chandler, Bruce Coleman and Nicholas Caruso. Robert Z. Leonard directed.

The "Cadet" Idea is carried out in the accompanying Fanchon and Marco revue, which is, as usual a colorful pot-pourri of music and dancing.

LANGDON GIFTS CITED AT TRIAL

He Turned Over Large Home to His Future Wife

Profer Held Mere Return of Housing Courtesies

Presents of Money and Ring Listed in Suit on Notes

Harry Langdon, mournful-eyed screen comedian, turned his large home over to Mrs. Helen Walton O'Brien, when she was ill, he testified yesterday in Superior Judge Blake's court. Langdon is being sued by Leo Rosecranz and Otto Emme, for payment of notes aggregating $11,500, executed by the comedian when he faced the possibility of defending a $250,000 alienation-of-affection suit. They were attorneys for Thomas J. O'Brien, first husband of the present Mrs. Helen Langdon.

Langdon's proffer of his nine-room house on Hollymount Drive was a return courtesy to his future wife, because the comedian admitted having lived in Mrs. O'Brien's five-room home on Sunset Boulevard for maybe two weeks. Under cross-examination, he detailed how six persons were dispersed for the night in the small house. He slept in a rear bedroom, Mrs. O'Brien's mother, Mrs. Laura Walton, and two girls slept in the front bedroom, Mrs. O'Brien had a couch in the living-room, and Charles Love, a boarder, bedded in the dining-room. That was late in 1928.

JUST DEAR FRIEND

"You were in love with Mrs. O'Brien then?" demanded Attorney Rountree, plaintiff's counsel.

"Not in love," said Langdon. "She was a very dear friend."

"Her friendship was one of the most important things in your life?" was asked. Langdon answered yes.

A motion-picture star's idea of what constitutes an inexpensive gift was brought out when, under cross-examination, Langdon reluctantly admitted sending Mrs. O'Brien a rug on approval. He was asked if it was not an expensive rug.

"No, not very expensive. Only $500 or $600," said Langdon. The ring was sent back. He admitted giving his future wife a $1000 bill and a $900 diamond ring for Christmas, 1926, and helped trim the Christmas tree that Yuletide, but denied he was in love with her then.

SCREEN PLAYS DISCUSSED

Langdon testified to three of his hits, and to others which he admitted were not profitable. He denied that they were "flops," and explained that a flop would not be booked at a first-run house in a key city. His contracts were brought into court to establish that they contained a morality clause by which a producer could end his services. Fear of such contingency, he testified, induced him to stave off the impending O'Brien alienation suit by signing the notes now the basis of the present action. He also signed, he said, to protect his future wife and her daughter, Virginia O'Brien.

Langdon testified that in the summer of 1925, his present wife informed him that Mrs. Rose Frances Langdon, then his wife, had confronted her and accused her of "chasing around" with the actor. He also admitted that Mrs. Rose Langdon obtained a divorce after accusing him of frequenting the then Mrs. O'Brien's company.

Attorney Paul Schenck is representing Langdon. The hearing will be resumed at 10 a.m. today before Judge Blake.

THREE DOZEN PETS DESERTED

Wife Granted Divorce from Arthur Davenport, Film Actor

When Arthur Davenport, film actor, left his wife, he took his baggage with him, but abandoned his pets, Mrs. Ruth Rankin Davenport testified at her divorce trial in Superior Judge Fleming's court yesterday.

"Where did he go?" Attorney E. E. Doherty asked the plaintiff.

"I don't know," said Mrs. Davenport. "I know he didn't go to the dogs, because he left thirty-six of them on my hands to care for. I nearly went broke paying for their food."

The divorce was granted.

Inspector Opens Quiz on Malibu Claim Staking

Norman P. Waddell, an inspector from the United States Land Office at San Francisco, yesterday began an investigation of circumstances surrounding the staking of claims by more than 100 persons on the Malibu ranch last Saturday night and Sunday morning, which resulted in the arrest of twelve of the asserted squatters.

Waddell will be in Los Angeles for several days, inquiring into the matter and reviewing the claims of the entrymen, and then he is expected to present all of the gathered facts to the Land Office at Washington.

The claimants to the oceanside property they staked say that the land on which they settled—a strip along the ocean for twenty-one miles, varying in width from thirty to 150 feet—is government property and is not in title to the Rindge estate. Spokesmen for the estate, as well as the local government land office, contend that the Rindge property extends to a mean high tide line, and all land seaward belongs to the State. It is from those two positions that Waddell is gathering data for his formal report.

HEARING ON BEACH OIL PLEAS SET

Playground Board Will Confer With Applicants on Drilling Tuesday

With more applications received for permission to drill for oil in the ocean opposite the Venice beach between Avenues 31 and 66, the Playground and Recreation Commission yesterday set Tuesday at 4 p.m. as the time for a hearing.

The latest application for permission to drill is Phillip L. Bixby of Long Beach who offered royalties of 20 per cent to the playground department.

Other applications include those of James P. Britt and Arthur T. Whitehead, for drilling in the ocean between Avenue 42 and 52 and Stuart M. Salisbury for the area between Avenues 31 and 66. The former offers 16 2-3 per cent royalties and the latter 10 per cent. The Salisbury petition is the only one which has been heard.

Attorney Phil Jacobson, for Britt and Whitehead, yesterday stated that early action is necessary if the city seeks to obtain revenue from ocean drilling, as fifteen wells shortly are to be under construction on property back of the beach and will drain a large portion of the oil.

SETBACKS APPROVED

Resolutions of intention for the establishment of setback lines in El Paso Drive, Burbank Boulevard, One Hundred and Fourteenth street and Harvard Boulevard between Seventh street and Wilshire Boulevard were adopted yesterday by the City Council.

CAVE-MAN STORY TIRES JUDGE

Bible Institute Tale Too "Fantastic"

CAVE-MAN stuff at the Bible Institute sounded too fantastic to Superior Judge Yankwich, h announced, in denying Mrs. Evelyn Seavey Shelton's plea for annulment of her marriage with Samuel Shelton, now of Cleveland, O. The petite young woman named that institution as the place where Shelton threatened to kill her if she didn't marry him.

"Shelton asked me to go to the Bible Institute with him," she testified. "When we arrived there, he said 'We are going to get married.' He produced a marriage license, declaring 'I will kill you if you don't marry me.' So I went through a ceremony, but ran away from him forty minutes later."

Mrs. Evelyn Seavey Shelton

Judge Yankwich wanted to know how Shelton had a license unless he and the plaintiff signed notice of intention to marry. Rosamond Rice, deputy marriage license clerk, was called and she swore that the girl had signed a notice of intention to marry. Mrs. Shelton protested that she signed the paper on Shelton's representation that they were signing as witnesses for a friend.

"The young lady must have understood what she was doing," commented Judge Yankwich. "I am tired of hearing fantastic stories from people who wish to obtain freedom from marital bonds. Decree denied."

Mrs. Shelton left the courtroom weeping, accompanied by her attorney, Don Lake.

FREAK AUTO MISHAP FATAL

Motorcycle Rider Injured Two Weeks Ago Dies; Three Others Injured in Traffic

A head injury received in a freak traffic accident on the 5th inst. caused the death yesterday in Georgia-street Receiving Hospital of Leland Parrish, 19 years of age, of 7228 South Hobart Boulevard.

The accident occurred at Melrose and Fairfax avenues. Parrish was astride his motorcycle when his foot came in contact with the running-board of an automobile driven, according to police records, by A. H. McCord, 9033 Steel Place. He lost control of the motorcycle and was thrown to the pavement. An inquest will be conducted at 2 p.m. today.

Charles J. Rennie, 8, of 4417 Sixth avenue was knocked down by a car while crossing Forty-third Place on his way home from school yesterday. The car was driven by S. H. Fukuyama, 1349 West Thirty-seventh Place.

Henry Melton, 73, of 4627 Lexington avenue, suffered a fractured skull, broken ribs and internal injuries when he was struck at Vermont and Willowbrook avenues by a machine driven, according to police, by Henry P. Flores, 4449 York Boulevard.

In a collision at Harbor Boulevard and First street, San Pedro, R. E. Hopkins, 48, of 1206 Ravena avenue, Wilmington, received injuries which surgeons at San Pedro General Hospital say may cause his death. His car was rammed by another machine driven, police report, by Morise Bugarin, 21, a taxicab driver, of 551 Bonita street, Wilmington. The later was booked on a charge of reckless driving.

Inquest into the death of Mrs. Porfina Covarrubias, 43, of 1440 Tremont street, struck down Wednesday night by an automobile driven by Frank Mason, chauffeur, according to police, for Dolores Del Rio, the actress, will be conducted at the County Morgue today at 1 p.m.

The accident occurred on Alhambra Road near Eastlake Park. Mason, who gave his home address as 1622 Wilcox street, was held blameless by police. The car which he drove was registered to the actress, police said.

Holiness Group Camp Meeting Date Announced

The ninth annual camp meeting sponsored by the Southern California Holiness Association will be held at the Pacific Palisades assembly grounds, beginning at 3 p.m. next Friday, the 27th inst., it was announced yesterday by President R. L. Wall. It is to be of ten days' duration, terminating on the evening of July 6, next.

The sessions will be addressed, it is announced, by an imposing array of speakers, including Commissioner S. L. Brengle of the Salvation Army; D. Willa Caffey, evangelist of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Fred H. Ross, also an evangelist. Musical programs will be in charge of Rev. Joseph Reece.

SEARCH CASE DISMISSED

Officers Who Entered Miss Johnson's Apartment in Extortion Investigation Exonerated

When the resident of a private dwelling willingly admits officers to his home, there is no legal ground for charges being brought accusing the officers of illegal entry and seizure of private documents, Municipal Judge Stafford ruled yesterday in dismissing a complaint against Jack Chriss and Tom Cavett, District Attorney's investigators.

Chriss, Cavett and Bradford Burgess, all investigators for the District Attorney's office, went to trial before Municipal Judge Stafford charged with entering the apartment of Miss Leontine Johnson at 236 Coronado street, and taking various personal belongings without a legal warrant.

The papers were seized on March 10, last, in connection with the arrest of Morris Lavine and Miss Johnson on a charge of attempting to extort $75,000 from Charles H. Crawford, Los Angeles politician, and others. It was charged that Lavine and Miss Johnson conspired together to extort the money, and Miss Johnson's apartment was searched under a warrant a few minutes after Lavine's arrest.

At the recent trial of the two defendants, it developed that the address of Miss Johnson's apartment written on the warrant was in error, and consequently the evidence thus seized was not admitted in evidence.

At the same time Superior Judge Schauer ordered a complaint issued against the raiding officers charging them with illegally entering Miss Johnson's apartment and seizing her personal belongings.

The charge against Burgess was dismissed during the first day of the trial. Burgess then was called as a prosecution witness.

In dismissing the case yesterday Judge Stafford indicated that in his belief Judge Schauer had acted hastily and without hearing all the facts in the case. Judge Stafford also criticised Judge Schauer, who signed the complaint, for not appearing as the principal prosecution witness supporting the charges.

The dismissal was based on the grounds that Miss Johnson, in person, admitted the officers to her apartment and did not object to their search.

Judge Schauer declined to comment on the case after the dismissal, but released a statement he had prepared for the grand jury when he ordered the arrests. In the statement he referred to the Constitution's admonition as to "unreasonable search and seizure" and asserted the place entered was not the place described in the warrant nor was the property to be taken described; that ten days elapsed without the warrant being returned to a magistrate with inventory of the property taken and receipts were not given by the officers for the property.

LAWYERS CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Attorney Brand Sentenced to Pay $300 Fine

Penalty of Jay Grossman Will be Set Today

Judge Bogue Takes Issue With Prejudice Plea

Edward R. Brand, Los Angeles attorney, yesterday was sentenced to pay a fine of $300 or serve a term of fifty days in the County Jail for contempt of court by Municipal Judge Bogue.

Jay Grossman, who was associated with Brand in the case before the court, also was cited for contempt, but his sentence was deferred until today.

The contempt citation was issued against the attorneys because of an affidavit of prejudice filed against Judge Bogue by Ben Gerson of 2022 Pernell avenue, on trial for possession of liquor. The court denied the affidavit forthwith and ordered the trial to proceed. Gerson was convicted and sentenced to ninety days in the County Jail. Brand and Grossman represented Gerson.

The affidavit of prejudice charged that Judge Bogue is prejudiced against liquor-law violators and also held personal prejudices against Attorney Brand.

In citing the attorneys for contempt, the judge declared that the affidavit indicates a lack of respect for the court.

Attorney Brand announced that he will appeal the matter to the Superior Court by bringing a habeas corpus action which will requre a hearing of the facts and bring a decision as to whether the punishment is warranted.

ANGELENOS ATTENDING ARMY CAMP

Eighty Youths of U.C.L.A. and Six of U.C. Comprise Local Representation

Eighty-six young men from the Los Angeles district are attending the Reserve Officers' Training Corps infantry camp at the Presidio, Monterey, where they will remain until July 28, next, Ninth Corps Area headquarters announced yesterday. Yankees Buy Meryl Hoag From Solons

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—After several contradictory announcements, it finally has been settled that Meryl Hoag, star outfielder of the Sacramento Pacific Coast League club, will come to the New York Yankees. Definite word of the acquisition of Hoag was announced by the Yankees today. The American League club apparently made a new and satisfactory offer to Sacramento, although the Yankee management would not state the terms of the deal except to say that cash and players would be given in exchange for Hoag.

ANGELS HIT ZINN HARD TO WIN OUT

Moore's Two Home Runs, Yerkes' Hurling Bring Cherubs 8-5 Victory

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19. (Exclusive)—The Angels gave Jimmy Zinn a terrific hammering today and beat the Seals 8 to 5. Zinn held them to three hits at Los Angeles last week, but he could hardly get them out today, and John Miljus relieved him in the ninth with one man out. John pitched only to Yerkes, who lifted a fly to Sulik and the latter threw out Haney at the plate.

JOHNNY MOORE

Ballou started yesterday and was lifted in the second inning. He came back today and did not survive the first round. Yerkes relieved him and got credit for the win.

Johnny Moore got two home runs and a single and drove in three runs. Sigafoos also got a home run for the Angels. The Seals looked as if they would tie the score in the sixth after two were out when Sheely, Sulik and Baker hit home runs in succession, but Gaston rolled out to retire the side and the Seals could not get going after that.

Sheely had batted in three runs and when he came up in the seventh with the bases clogged, the Angels were leading, 6 to 5. A long hit by Sheely right then would have put the Seals in the game, but his best was a pop fly to Dittmar and the Angels were out of trouble.

Zinn was hit hard from the start. Sigafoos opened on him for a double and took third on Moore's sacrifice fly. He scored on Dittmar's double and the latter took third on Harper's sacrifice fly. Jacobs tripled

WYKOFF HOME THIS MORNING

Celebrated Frank Greeted by Hundreds

Glendale to Fete Favorite Son Again

Parade and Dinner Part of Planned Celebration

A reception committee including citizens of Glendale and hundreds from Los Angeles, including schoolmates and teammates, will meet Frank Wykoff, "the world's fastest human," when he arrives home this morning over the Union Pacific System.

FRANK WYKOFF

The plaudits of Southern California will go out to this youth who has broken the world's record in the 100-yard dash and proved the sensation of two of the greatest track-and-field meets ever held in the East. It was Wykoff who charged down the cinder path to victory in these races held at Cambridge and Chicago a few weeks ago.

For his victory and accomplishments he will be made the home-town hero on Friday morning when all the city officials, leaders of the civic clubs and others gather in Glendale to welcome him. He will be escorted from the Los Angeles Limited by the committee headed by Mayor C. C. Kimlin, taken to the City Hall and then on a parade through the business district.

Following this there will be a public reception held at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, where it is expected more than 350 people will attend a dinner in his honor. Aside from Wykoff, his mother and father, and Dean Cromwell, coach of the University of Southern California track team, will be the guests of honor with the Mayor presiding.

No reservations will be made for this dinner and tickets will go on sale at noon at the clubhouse.

Wykoff returns alone from the eastern invasion, having left the rest of the team at Des Moines, Iowa, to visit relatives.

Stribling and Von Porat Mix

CHICAGO, June 19. (AP)—Stadium and State Boxing Commission officials were accused of doing a Sherlock Holmes shadowing act today as the puzzling ten-round heavyweight match between Otto Von Porat, the Norwegian bone crusher, and W. L. Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., tomorrow night neared a showdown.

Worried that Stribling, who claims his left hand was sprained and in no condition for the fight, may decide to "run out," one or more of the interested officials appeared to check his every movement, causing fans and sport writers to think they were shadowing him. Sidney Strotz, president of the stadium which is promoting the match, and Commissioner Fred Gardner spent their fourth afternoon watching the Macon boy and Von Porat work out.

Stribling and his father-manager laughed at reports they planned to "run out." They appeared before the commission's physician today for another examination and seemed satisfied when they were advised again nothing was wrong with the fighting implement.

MAX SCHMELING CROWNED KING

New York Commission Puts Official Okeh on Him

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—Max Schmeling trudged from the offices of the New York State Athletic Commission today, officially recognized as the new heavyweight champion of the world.

JACK "SHARKEY"

The German, first fighter from the Old World to gain that honor, won his point only after a bitter debate with the solemn fathers and over the outraged objections of William Muldoon, aged "solid man," of boxing and codonor of the Tunney-Muldoon heavyweight title trophy.

STANDS AS KING

With the title recognition extended him last week by the National Boxing Association, Schmeling stands as the heavyweight king in almost every center where boxing is sanctioned in America.

The 24-year-old Teuton did not come unscathed from his duel with the fistic fathers. Schmeling walked unnoticed through crowds gathered to welcome Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, with one of the most amazing challenges ever extended a champion ringing in his ears.

It was the defy of Jack Sharkey, the Boston sailorman, whom Schmeling defeated on a foul in four rounds in the Yankee Stadium one week ago tonight. It was a challenge to battle that wiped away any excuses Schmeling might have for evading a return match and made concessions almost unheard of before in the bickerings and undercover arrangements that feature the big business of heavyweight battle.

First Sharkey offered Schmeling 37½ per cent of the receipts to 12½ per cent for himself if the German would agree to a return engagement in September. Sharkey promised to pay Arthur Buelow, deposed manager of Schmeling, the 20 per cent he is entitled to under his contract

VETERAN ENGLISHMAN TRAILS ATLANTA STAR

Bobby Has Total of 142 Strokes; Horton Smith Third With 145; Leo Diegel Tied for Fourth

BY FRANK H. KING

HOYLAKE (Eng.) June 19. (AP)—The British open golf championship was still a "hoss race" this evening as the field rounded the halfway post. Bobby Jones added a par 72 to his 70 of yesterday to give him 142 and put him a nose ahead, with a stroke lead over the veteran Englishman, Fred Robson, at 143, and a three-shot lead on the tall Misourian, Horton Smith, who has a two-day total of 145.

Behind the leaders came a pack of 147s, Leo Diegel, Don Moe, MacDonald Smith, Archie Compston and Phil Rodgers, with "Long Jim" Barnes another stroke away.

BOBBY JONES

The qualifying gate again closed tonight cutting off all but the sixty leaders and one tie for sixtieth place. George Von Elm, with a thirty-six-hole score of 160, was the only American shut out of the punishing two-round finish tomorrow. A score as low as 158 was necessary to remain in competition. F. C. Stevens from Los Angeles, just slipped in.

Today's play was mainly a chase after Jones by competitors who wanted his lead and fans who wanted to see how he does it. A gallery of 5000 followed the Georgian through the sultry, humid afternoon and saw him pull up from a bad start to a steady finish for a par round of 72.

Bob was not playing any too well and little things bothered him, such as clicking cameras and a crying

SANGSTER BEATS CARTER

Young Danny Scores Victory on 19th Hole in Feature Match of California Invitational

BY BRAVEN DYER

Divot diggers who are laboriously engaged in excavating the verdant fairways of the California Country Club this week will have to worry along without the critical analysis of their efforts by Edward Clay Lawrence, Times golf expert, who unexpectedly and suddenly succumbed to an attack of the mumps yesterday.

Today's report, therefore, and that on the morrow and Sunday will be furnished by this nonexpert observer, provided a similar malady doesn't strike us down in the course of human events.

DANNY SANGSTER

Mr. Lawrence's withdrawal from the scene of hostilities was all the more tragic in that he has an important date with a minister and young lady of Glendale one week from tomorrow. To those of us who have been married some years this delay will be construed as a great break for the couple, but to the young lovers it is undoubtedly anything but that.

LONG STRUGGLE

To return to the California invitational tournament, which has been such a huge success, Danny Sangster of Potrero defeated Phil Carter of Rancho on the nineteenth hole in one of yesterday's feature matches.

The Sangster-Carter struggle was only one of many extra-hole battles. Carter was one up going to the twelfth hole, which is a par 5 affair but can be birdied without undue exertion. Sangster's second shot was bunkered, while Carter appeared to have the hole won as his ball rested on the edge of the green. Danny pitched out nicely, however, and went down in one putt for a birdie 4 while Carter 3-putted for a 5, thereby allowing his foe to draw up on equal terms with him.

The lead see-sawed back and forth with Sangster 1 up going to the eighteenth, but Carter won this with a 4. Sangster got his par on the nineteenth, however, and Carter didn't, so that was the match.

E. R. Hurst, popular secretary of the California club, lost one of the toughest matches of the day on the twenty-second hole when he was stymied by Cloyd Marshall. Had it

Teddy Palacosi Steps Into Main-Event Class Tonight When He Meets Johnny L

LEGION CARDS LIGHTWEIGHTS

Holder of Coast Belt Rules Favorite to Win

Rival Has Been Fighting in Preliminary Ranks

McGough Battles Radam on Hollywood Program

BY KAY OWE

Teddy Palacios steps out of the preliminary ranks tonight to become a main-eventer at the Hollywood American Legion Stadium tonight, when he fights Johnny Lamar, Mexican, who holds the belt awarded him at the stadium a few weeks ago for beating Hector McDonald in a fight billed for the lightweight championship of the Pacific Coast. Lamar is naturally a favorite. He is the more seasoned and experienced of the two fighters.

Johnny Lamar

It takes a good fighter to beat Johnny Lamar and if Teddy Palacios can jump from a semi-wind-up and cop a decision over the Mexican he will spill the beans all over the stadium. Lamar has fought his best fights at Hollywood. He beat Cecil Payne there a few months ago. The Mexican has a tough time getting fights. He has been matched with Goldie Hess but to lose to Palacios would be disastrous and the blowing up of the Hess-Lamar fight.

Last Friday night at Ventura Palacios flattened Omar Wright, a pretty fair fighter. Teddy has a sock and is thoroughly game. He has made good in the preliminaries but it is a question of whether or not he is taking on too big a job trying to handle Lamar. Palacios can fight and he has the Lamar crowd worried now that they have signed to fight Hess.

What appears to be good preliminaries support the main event. Tommy McGough, a clever bantamweight from New York, with a good sock for a little fellow, should win from Sergio Radam in the semi-wind-up. Radam is a Filipino who has been a hot shot at Pismo Beach. He held Tommy Gardner to a ten-round draw recently. Like all Filipinos, he is a glove-thrower.

Bob Patrick fights Joe Soldivar in one four-rounder and Veenie Brown meets Jack Shoemaker in the curtain-raiser.

MONTOYA, PACHECO PICKED TO TRIUMPH

Ramon Montoya, San Diego Mexican, and Pete Pacheco, Denver's best Mexican boxer, will be favored to win their bouts at the Main-street gym tomorrow night. They appear in the double main event, Montoya taking on Kid Avelino, Filipino featherweight, and the Denverite meet Bill McMullin, a hard-hitting welter from San Diego.

Both Montoya and Pacheco have a chance to establish themselves as big cards at Main street. Milton Wilkins and Bobby Flores, 134-pounders, will hook up in the four-round special event. Three fours complete the card as follows: Jack Hurd vs. Evans Fortune, 165 pounds; Eddie Rubio vs. Joie Rich, 118 pounds; Santo Miniano vs. Nimo Perez, 110 pounds.

ANOTHER TITLE AHEAD

TWO laps to go today, and Bobby Jones, the peerless, stands on the brink of another British championship.

Three strokes ahead of the man who is likely to give him the stiffest battle—Horton Smith—the stocky Georgian will be hard to catch over that nerve-shattering test of thirty-six holes today.

Stories tell of Bobby being bothered by clicking cameras and a baby's cry on the putting greens.

Well, Bobby wouldn't be human if he wasn't annoyed.

And he has to put up with more of it than all the rest of the field put together.

Other competitors can play their game with nothing to bother them. But the minute Mr. Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., sets foot on a golf course his troubles begin.

The army takes out after him, and it sticks with him to the bitter finish. It never gives him a vacation.

Although Mr. Jones naturally dominates the day's news from Hoylake it is some cause for gratification that F. C. Stevens, Jr., of this city, was able to stick in the select field of sixty which goes a-gunning today.

Stevens shot a 158 for his two rounds, and that's two better than George Von Elm, former national champion, who was eliminated largely by reason of the 9 he took on a 4-par hole in Tuesday's round.

THE FOUL CHAMPION

A GOOD heavyweight fight probably would be a tonic for the Cauliflower Alley sport in Los Angeles.

And, for that matter, so would any kind of a bout in which redbot competition without the set-up element was the keynote.

But it is rather hard to believe that Jack Sharkey, the foul champion, is necessary as an ingredient.

The Boston tar has done more to injure the heavyweight division than any man in years.

And when the heavyweight division is in disgrace the other divisions, which radiate about the larger class, suffer.

Sharkey, in foul fights at Miami and New York, has given cash customers who forked over close to $1,000,000 about two-bits worth of real fighting.

No wonder New York writers holler for foul checks a la rain checks at a baseball game to protect the public.

And if Sharkey ever fights here, that is one thing the Boxing Commission should insist upon—foul checks and a rematch with no additional "sugar" if a foul is committed.

A REPENTANT SINNER

WITH the official crowning of Max Schmeling as heavyweight champion by the New York Boxing Commission yesterday it is interesting to note Sharkey's penitence over the foul situation.

He wants to fight Schmeling again, the German to take 37½ per cent of the gate receipts.

All Sharkey wants is 12½ per cent and in addition he will pay Arthur Buelow, deposed manager of Schmeling, the 20 per cent he is entitled to under existing contracts.

That means Sharkey fights for less than nothing, literally speaking.

He must take 7½ per cent out of his own pocket to make up the deficit.

And he wants "rain checks" with a free fight for the cash customers if there is any more foul throwing.

That's a repentant sinner for you.

Indians Upset Solons Twice

SACRAMENTO, June 19.—Seattle dealt the league-leading Sacramento Senators' first half pennant hopes a double blow today, the Indians winning, 3 to 2, this afternoon, and then coming back to annex the night game, 9 to 7, in ten innings. Rudy Kallio outpitched Louie Vinci in the afternoon affair, each allowing seven hits. The double defeat reduced Sacramento's lead over the Angels and Seals to two games.

Buster Crabbe Cracks Record

"Buster" Crabbe of the Los Angeles Athletic Club set a new world's record for the 300-yard medley swim in the Southern Pacific Association championships at the Pacific Coast Club in Long Beach last night. He swam the distance in 3m. 38 3-5s., as against the old mark of 3m. 41 1-5s. held by Walter Spence of New York. Austin Clapp of Hollywood was second in the race, with Norman Ketterind of the Pacific Coast Club third.

Dutch Smith, L.A.A.C., won the low-board diving, followed by Jimmy Riley, L.A.A.C., and Bob McAllister, Pacific Coast Club.

The 220-yard handicap event went to Art Lindstrom, P.C.C., who was followed to the finish by L. Bixler, P.C.C., Dick Callahan, H.A.C., and C. Best, H.A.C. The time was 2m. 34 1-5s.

Two stars from the Illinois A.C., here to take part in the national championships to be held at Long Beach July 4 and 5, were introduced. They were Al Schwartz, who gave a 50-yard free-style exhibition, and Bob Howlett.

MACK HOUSE KAYOES NEIL CLISBY IN THIRD

Mack House knocked out Nel. Clis. by in the third round of their scheduled eight-round go at the Pasadena Arena last night, in one of the most sensational fights ever staged in the Crown City. Previously House had lost three verdicts to Clisby, but fully redeemed himself last night when he led the battle al the way, and had his foe on the floor several times before administering the finishing blow.

All the other bouts on the card ended in knockouts with the exception of one four-round preliminary. Jack Hurd stopped Jack Hayward in the first round of the semi-win.-up. Tim Sharpshire took the decision over Tony Randolph, and Del Price kayoed Herman Hayes in the second round. In the other matches Frank Rudinsky knocked out Otis Curry in the second, while Bill Cooley stopped George Simpson in the third round.

BAKER STOPS HEIB IN SECOND ROUND OF GO

Bud Baker, battling 180-pound Long Beach traffic cop, handed Gus Heib, former sparring partner of Max Schmeling, a ticket for a second-round knockout in last night's Culver City main event. Baker had Heib on the floor when the bell ended the first round and needed but twenty seconds of the second stanza to finish the job. In the other bouts Hymie Rudin and Johnny Martin boxed a draw; Mel Cowey defeated Eddie Rubio; Melvin Bobo and Frank Abendino went four rounds to a draw; Herb Russell trimmed Sol Ortega, and Jack Donovan knocked out Jim Williams in the second.

BOBBY JONES LEADS GOLFERS

Atlanta Ace Has One Stroke Lead Over Robson

baby in its mother's arms at the seventeenth. The mother, however, was good enough to put her hand over the infant's mouth and Bobby sank his putt.

Cyril Tolley's 71 was the best score today, but coupled with 84 yesterday it means hardly anything. The big Englishman played Hoylake as it should be played, scoring 34 on the first nine and thus girding himself for the fierce homeward test.

Those who failed to beat par on the outward journey had a hard time on the long homeward half. Again today, as yesterday, reports flew over the course of this player and that, two, three or four under 4's at the thirteenth, only to take 5s and 6s on the difficult home holes. Leo Diegel, for example, played only two shots on his first nine that could be criticised and started homeward with a flock of 3s and 4s only to mark down a pair of 6s at the close, where he explored the rough at two holes.

HORTON GREAT

Horton Smith, who seems to be the real threat to Jones's lead, played a great game today. He hit his long shots to perfection and his boyish smiling progress in contrast to the grim intensity of most of the other players indicated not only was he playing good golf, but also having a good time.

A shot out of bounds at the seventeenth cost him dearly. But he came right back to hole a putt for a birdie 3 at the finish to be in striking distance of Jones.

The showing of Robson in getting a 71 yesterday and 72 today greatly cheered the British. Had he been able to hole putts as Jones did today he would have smashed the Hoylake course record. He captained the winning British Ryder Cup team last year.

Compston, Cotton and Charles Whitcombe probably are too far back to be considered in striking distance for if the present weather holds predictions are being made that Jones's record score of 285 for the event will be broken. Yesterday Bobby was deadly to the greens and most of the time putting for birdies. Today he couldn't hit the greens with his second shots, but calmly adjusted his game and chipped and putted his way to a par.

Horton Smith will be the first American out in the third round tomorrow morning, followed by Moe, Stevens, Jones, Barnes, Diegel and Mac Smith. They will play in the same order in the fourth and final round in the afternoon.

with Der Maxie, thereby binding himself to a flat loss of 7½ per cent of the gate before the milling began. He asked prices be scaled low so that all could come.

UNIQUE SOLUTION

Furthermore, Sharkey offered a unique solution of any controversy that might arise from another foul. He suggested a "rain-check" arrangement and another fight free of charge to the customers the following night if the return battle ended in another wild pitch. He agreed not to allow himself to be declared a winner on a foul and all but promised to go jump in a lake if he dropped one low again.

Schmeling countered with an appeal for time to talk the matter over. Heretofore he has insisted he would not fight again until after his contract with Buelow expires in October.

Commissioner Muldoon first demanded that the commission refuse to accept the referee's decision because he had reversed himself under the persuasion of Joe Jacobs. Then he asked the bout be declared "no contest," because of Referee Jim Crowley's "unsatisfactory decision and the disorder in the ring at the time it was made." Finally, he moved that inasmuch as the title was held by neither man going into the ring and there had been no definite answer to the question of who was the better man the commission refuse recognition to the winner as a champion worthy of the name. Each time he was voted down.

The commission explained its failure to suspend and fine Sharkey under the new "Baumes law" for fouls with the statement Schmeling had demanded the clause, for which the commission battled valiantly and finally gained legislation sanction, be stricken from the contracts.

DEAUVILLE SWIMMERS TO MEET SAN DIEGO

Tom Pierce's Deauville Beach Club swimming team meets the strong San Diego Rowing Club combination in a dual battle tonight at the San Diego Army and Navy Y.M.C.A. The Santa Monica group of fifteen paddlers who are out for trophies in the Silver Gate swim in San Diego Sunday afternoon, will be pitted against the best southern city paddlers tonight.

The local squad includes: Norman Skeete, Tom Medlicott, Ray Skeete, Sheldon White, Jack White, Lloyd Lightfoot, Lester Knesel, Cy R. Washburn, Roland Skeete, Lyman Pratt, Harold Skeete, Francis Fober, Ray Patterson, Ray McClelland and Tom Pierce. They will stay over until Sunday at the San Diego Athletic Club.

NET STARS TO PLAY AT LAKE ARROWHEAD

Southern California's tennis spotlight will be shot on a series of exhibitions at Arrowhead Lake Sunday afternoon. The Southern California Tennis Association is sponsoring a doubles match between Elsworth Vines, Southland champion, and Les Stoefen against Clif Herd and Jack Tidball. These players will also play in singles matches. Perry T. Jones and Simpson Simsabaugh will accompany the players to the resort and handle the matches.

Boat Race Winners

Yale is picked to row a length or so away from Harvard today, but naming the Poughkeepsie winner is another matter. You will probably find the answer next week among Navy, Washington and Columbia and on rowing form these three crews won't be far apart.

After the trimming the East took in football and again in the intercollegiate track-and-field games from western talent, there is a deep yearning to hang at least one knob on the invaders from the Far West —on the water if it can not be upon the land.

Washington and California are the two Pacific Coast challengers: Navy and Columbia look to be the strongest eastern defenses. It will be something to watch. In the meanwhile Yale and Harvard fight out one of the most traditional of all traditional college contests in a race that an extremely good Yale crew figures to win.

Foul Legislation

In the midst of the Sharkey-Schmeling foul chatter Johnson and Latzo hand out another dish of the same just to prove that the boys are going to keep at it as long as they feel in the mood. A day or two ago a member of the New York Legislature advanced the idea that in addition to foul checks there should be a ten or twenty minutes' rest period which would give the stricken fighter a chance to recover and keep on fighting the same night. In case this rest wasn't sufficient then the foul checks could be used a week or more later. There are three arrangements that would cover the situation:

(1.) Have all fight tickets issued with foul checks.

(2.) Allow the ten or twenty-minute rest period on the same night, with the postponement allowed in case the fouled party can't recover in time.

(3.) Deduct from the fouler's purse enough to pay all additional expenses incurred for the return match, where the foul checks can be used.

In the first place this deal would practically discourage fouling. In the second place it would force a contest instead of a farce. So far as the public is concerned a foul fight is no contest. It isn't worth a dime. It is up to the legislatures of various States to see that some sort of legislation is passed that will either stop fouling—or else stop the fight game.

The Two Races

Athletics, Yankees and Senators are now on home grounds within range of the friendly odor of home cooking. The Cleveland Indians, the other American League contender, are on the road.

The Cubs are back on Chicago turf in the National with Giants and Dodgers battling abroad. It will be interesting to see just how this shift works out in the next two weeks. The Yankees have come with a rush in the last two weeks and loud noises from the bats of Ruth and Gehrig have sounded a warning to Mack's champions. Both clubs playing at home should improve their percentage figures and become the dominant factors of the younger league.

The Cubs at home expect to go after Brooklyn's lead and take a new jump on the Giants. Joe McCarthy's pennant winners have done extremely well with a crippled cast playing on the road. But the cast wasn't as crippled as it looked to be and if Blair at second and English at third keep traveling at the same pace the Cubs will be hard to block away from the top. They are due for better pitching and when this comes the flag winners of 1929 will be hard to hold.

Off Again—On Again

Messrs. Jones, H. Smith, M. Smith, Diegel, Von Elm, Barnes, Moe, etc., wind up at Hoylake this afternoon, pack their stuff, dash for a boat and start back for New York. Arriving at said municipality on the western side of the Atlantic they get a cup of coffee, buy a paper and then look up train schedules for Minneapolis. Having completed one championship they start for another some 4500 or 5000 miles away with only a light intermission. Modern competition in sport is now more work than play. By the middle of July several well-known competitors will find the sight of a golf ball repugnant to the naked eye for some time to come.

If Max Schmeling is kept out of the ring another year before he fights again he had better plan to use a tidy part of his surplus cash in life insurance.

The difference between the match and medal play test in golf is wider than two oceans. At match play Cyril Tolley carried Bobby Jones to the nineteenth green. In the first round of the British open at eighteen holes Jones led Tolley by fourteen strokes—almost a stroke a hole.

Bunker Dread

The duffer isn't the only one who looks with dread into the depths of a bunker. At Winged Foot last summer Bobby Jones was within twenty-five feet of the cup in two and he needed nine strokes to round out the hole. Here are two of the greatest amateurs who in open championships used up twelve strokes from bunkers guarding the green before they reached the bottom of the cups on two holes. Extra high tension is one reason, and that is often reason enough.

Mac Smith's first round of 70 at Hoylake brought a thrill to the oldtimers who recalled the fact that the Lakeville pro had tied for the United States open just twenty years ago. Tying the course record twenty years later in an open championship still shows what a sound swing means and how far it will carry until the strain and the weariness of later rounds begin to take their toll.

SANGSTER IN GOLF VICTORY

Young Star Scores Triumph Over Carter

not been for the stymie rule the two might still be playing.

BROWN WINS

Young Gene Brown of California had another tough battle with F. C. Charles, winning, 1 up. These two are old rivals and Gene won the rubber yesterday.

Smiling Nick Schaeffer downed Gerald Trautman, 3 and 2, while Jack Mackey, another sterling golfer, disposed of Tom Dering in ruthless fashion, 9 and 8.

Bill Jelliffe was a comparatively easy winner over C. E. Smoot, 4 and 2, while Lester Coleman defeated Ed Walsh, 3 and 2.

Old athletic heroes who now get their exercise playing golf emerged with a .500 batting average. Dr. John C. Thurman, who attained all-American notorjety at Pennsylvania, won his first match by default and then went on into the second round and defeated F. W. Brown on the twentieth hole. Paul Lowry, who has an athletic past you don't often hear about, defeated a rattling good golfer, Bill Hunter, 1 up.

Chuck Harlow, the ex-Stanford javelin heaver, had a tough afternoon with Harry Eichelberger and went down, 5 and 4. Glenn Arthur Doughty, former Pomona College halfback, catcher and pole vaulter, gave L. B. Harbour a battle until the eighteen hole, where his opponent brought the matter to an abrupt and astonishing finish by holding a chip shot from off the green.

Tom Kennedy, ex-fighter and ex-manager of Ace Hudkins, had time to shadow box a bit between shots as he trimmed W. O. Otto, 7 and 6.

TOO MANY STYMIES

Dr. George W. Brown, playing against Forest Cornett in the championship flight, had three stymies on the fourteenth hole for some kind of a record.

Due to the fact that fifty-eight players a net score of 70 or under, Fred Aberle, committee chairman, decided to give low-net honors to O. A. Hunt, 61-12—63. T. H. Endicott played Hunt yesterday in the third flight—had to give him ten strokes and even then Endicott won, 2 up.

Consolation matches will be in order today for defeated eights. Play must begin before 10 a.m. or after 2 p.m. and may be in twosomes, threesomes or foursomes, according to the one and only Ollie Painter.

CREWS COLLECT FOR

Twenty-three Regular Squads and Eight on Scene at Poughkeepsie

POUGHKEEPSIE (N. Y.) June 19. (AP)—Twenty-three and eight substitute shells were on the Hudson River today completing the roster for the intercollegiate regatta on June 21, crews arrived last night and today, three of Washington, and the M.I.T. freshmen.

Even breaking of course records such as the Washington varsity did at Madison on Tuesday, apparently does not satisfy the Husky coach, Al Ulbrickson, because he made two changes in the boating for today's workouts.

At Columbia, Rich Glendon announced today that Bill Biesse would remain as stroke oar in the varsity shell. His father, Dick Glendon, said his navy varsity was settled but that he expected to shake up his junior varsity before the end of the week.

At Cornell, "Hod" Shoemaker, commodore of the crew, was removed as junior varsity stroke and announcing that [illegible] not yet in [illegible] announcement [illegible] conviction [illegible] senior eight on [illegible]

DOEG DEFEATED IN LONDON NET PLAY

LONDON, June 19. (AP)—Johnny Doeg, member of the United States Davis Cup team, today was eliminated from the London lawn tennis championships by Gregory Mangin, America's No. 10 ranking player. The score was 7-5, 6-1.

Doeg, who was made a strong favorite to win the title after Bill Tilden had withdrawn, was erratic throughout, and seemed somewhat upset by several line decisions. The defeat of America's southpaw came as a surprise as Doeg ranks No. 3 in the United States, while Mangin ranks seven notches lower.

Wilmer Allison, also a member of the United States Davis Cup squad, entered the semifinal round in the top quarter of the draw by defeating H. H. McCauliffe, a fellow-American, 6-2, 6-4.

SHELL OILERS DOWN ARROWHEAD TEAM, 4-2

The Shell Oilers took a 3-to-1 lead in the summer play-off for the Southern California amateur ice hockey championship by defeating the Arrowhead Valley puck chasers, 4 to 2, last night at the Winter Garden Ice Palace. Smith and Henry starred for the victors.

...Yale Oarsmen Favorites to Beat Harvard

NEW LONDON (Ct.) June 19. (AP)—Yale and Harvard, most ancient of American college rivals, close their 1929-30 athletic competition on the Thames River tomorrow with the Elis strongly favored to outrow the Crimson varsity crew and thereby send the banner of blue flying for the first major conquest of the year over its old foe.

Norbeck Signs for Mat Bout

"Moose" Norbeck, a 235-pound young heavyweight who is reported as being the latest sensation in the Northwest and Canada, was named by Promoter Lou Daro yesterday as the grappler who will face Don George, former amateur national mat king, in the first match of his all-star wrestling card at the Olympic Wednesday night.

Norbeck will replace Abe Coleman of New York on this card. The Jewish mat star wired he would not be able to reach Los Angeles in time for the match because of previous engagements. George McLeod had originally been signed for George, but Daro believed Coleman could give the youngster tougher competition. McLeod agreed to the change.

SHIRES STARS

WASHINGTON, June 19. (AP)—The "strangers" on the Washington club made themselves right at home today, Art Shires, Heinie Manush and Alvin Crowder introducing themselves to home fans by contributing strongly to the Senators' 3-to-1 victory over the White Sox.

Shires, playing his first game with the Senators, hit for three out of four, batted in a run and was on the end of two fast double plays; Manush got two singles in three trips to the plate and Crowder let the Sox down with four scattered hits and a lone tally. Score:

JESSE SHAW RETURNS TO TROJAN DOMAIN

Jesse Shaw, 190-pound Trojan athlete who appears to be the outstanding candidate for the right-guard position on the University of Southern California football team next fall, returned to the university for the summer session this week after having been away at work during the spring semester.

Shaw's return brightens the outlook for the Trojan line, which lost six of its seven regulars of last fall through graduation. He has never been a regular but he made his monogram in 1928 as a sub tackle and in 1929 as a sub guard, and for the coming season he appears almost certain of a regular berth at Clark Galloway's old right-guard position.

BAMBINO GETS TWENTY-SECOND

New Yorkers Collect Game from Tigers, 5-4

Athletics Take Second Win Over Cleveland

The Great Shires Stars as Solons Triumph

NEW YORK, June 19. (AP)—After striking out three times today, Babe Ruth's fourth effort against the delivery of George Uhle was crowned with the success of his twenty-second home run of the year, and the direct result of the homer was the Yankees defeated Detroit, 5 to 4, for their sixth successive victory.

The Babe's homer came in the seventh inning with the bases empty, giving the Yankees a 5-3 lead. But the Tigers scored another run in the next inning. A double steal in the first inning brought the first Yankee counter, Lary scoring. A bunch of three hits netted the rest in the second after Uhle had provided three Tiger runs by hitting a triple with two on and scoring on Chapman's error. Score:

ATHLETICS WIN

PHILADELPHIA, June 19. (AP)—The world's champion Athletics bunched their hits effectively on Willis Hudlin today and took their second straight from the Cleveland Indians, four to two. The defeat was the fifth in a row for the Tribesmen.

A two-run attack in the opening inning gave the Mackmen a lead the Redskins were never able to overcome, though they outhit the victors by eleven to eight. Mose Grove went the route for the Athletics, winning his ninth game of the season.

By rapping a single through McNair on his third time at bat, Johnny Hodapp ran his streak of hitting in consecutive games to twenty-two Score:

RED SOX COLLECT

BOSTON, June 19. (AP)—Danny MacFayden, spectacles and all, gave the St. Louis Browns but three hits here today and the Red Sox won the first game of their series with the westerners, 4 to 1. Two of the hits were by Goose Goslin, one a home-run drive into the right-field pavilion which saved Bill Killifer's outfit from a whitewash.

The Sox collected eleven hits. Eight of them, and all of their runs, were made off Rip Collins in the first five innings. The game was errorless although it was played mostly during a warm rain. Score:

Mission Reds Swat Way to 11-7 Triumph

REDS GET FOUR MORE

Although touched for two hits in each of the third, fourth and fifth innings, Yde staggered through without allowing any more runs until the sixth. In this round the Missions shoved across four runs to sew up the struggle and send Yde to the showers. Hofmann walked for a starter and Cole singled over Gazella's head. A walk to Mulligan filled the bags and Monroe followed with a hit that scored Hofmann and Cole. Hollerson here replaced Yde. Rosenberg singled, Mulligan scoring and Monroe taking third. Hufft's sacrifice fly to Hill brought Monroe home. Boone singled, but Burns hit into a double play to end the lengthy round.

The Stars chased Cole with a three-run barrage in the seventh that momentarily put them back in the ball game. Cole walked Rumler to begin the round and Bill took second on a passed ball. Gazella popped out, but Hollerson slapped one to center that hopped high over Rosenberg's head for a triple, Rumler scoring. Hill again delivered a single and Hollerson romped home. After Lee fouled out, Hill stole second and counted the third run of the round on Brannon's single to right. Ted Pillette then replaced Cole and disposed of Barbee for the third out.

Three more Reds counted in the eighth to make the count 10 to 4. Barbee dropped Mulligan's fly for a two-base error to begin trouble and Monroe followed with a home-drum drive into the right-field bleachers. Singles by Rosenberg, Hufft and Burns brought in another run before Hollerson got the side out.

Hollerson yielded another marker to the Missions in the ninth when Mulligan singled and scored from first on Rosenberg's fourth hit, a double off the right center-field bleacher screen.

BARBEE CLOUTS ONE

Mulligan bobbled Hill's hot grounder for an error to open the Hollywood ninth and then Lee walked. After Brannon went out, Barbee homed far over the center-field wall to account for the Sheiks' final three runs and bring the score to its final resting place. Score:

to score Dittmar and scored on Schulmerich's single.

The Seals got two runs back in their half of the first inning. With one out Pinelli was hit by a pitched ball; Donovan doubled and Wingo was walked to fill the bases. Sheely hit hard to left to score two, but was thrown out at second himself. Ballou was lifted and Yerkes threw out Sulik to retire the side.

A pass to Yerkes and a home run by Moore gave the Angels two in the fourth. A home run by Sigafoos in the sixth made the score, 6 to 2. The Seals made their last bid in the seventh, when Sheely, Sulik and Baker hit homers in succession.

Moore got another home run in the eighth and a double by Jacobs, a sacrifice and a hit by Hannah accounted for the eighth run of the Angels. Miljus began pitching then and got rid of Yerkes on a fly to right. Haney tried to score after the catch and was thrown out at the plate to retire the side. Score:

SCHULMERICH CLIMBS

Wes Schulmerich's three safe hits in Wednesday's contest boosted the Angel outfielder into second spot in the Coast League averages with a mark of .396. Earl Sheely and Harry Rosenberg were tied for third position with averages of .394. Meryl Hoag was hitting in fifth place with .375.

CHAMACO DEFEATS MEYERS

Joe Chamaco, city three-cushion billiard champion who is taking on all-comers at the Stevens Billiard Parlors, last night chalked up his ninth straight victory by defeating Sam Meyers, 35 to 21, in an exhibition match.

FLYWEIGHT KING SOUGHT

Midget Wolgast May Box Winner of Dado-Laredo Go if Olympic Can Sign Him

Los Angeles may see Midget Wolgast, New York flyweight champion, in action here. The Olympic made the eastern title-holder an offer yesterday to fight here next month. He would be sent against the winner of the Speedy Dado-Chato Laredo bout.

Boxing men who have been watching Laredo work at the Main-street gymnasium think he is the best-looking fighter ever sent up from below the border. He is more impressive than Blas Rodriguez and Rodriguez rated high in the East, where he did most of his fighting in the United States.

The win over Newsboy Brown proves the caliber of Laredo. The Mexican boy is a legitimate flyweight. He weighs from 111 to 113 pounds.

Jesus Cortes has an offer for Dado from New York to fight Wolgast, but the Filipino would like to have it in California. No action will be taken on the Wolgast fight until after Tuesday night. If Laredo defeats the brown doll he wouldn't be ready copy for the East.

Bud Doyle, who is slated to box Jimmy Hanna in the Olympic semi-wind-up, arrived here from San Francisco yesterday. He is the heavyweight who gave Frankie Campbell one of his toughest fights. Hanna stopped Wally Fraser his last shot at the Doyle club.

The Goldie Hess-Johnny Lamar bout for July 1 was definitely closed yesterday. Jack Russell posted $500 as a weight forfeit for the Mexican lightweight. Johnny must make 135 pounds. Hess has started training.

The Olympic is seeking to match Jack Thompson with Billy Townsend in an overweight
